AIRSHIPS A FOR NAVY.

Daniels Decides to Annex Them.

Pensacola, Fla., to Be Made the Headquarters of the Whole Fleet.

Aeronautic Experiments on a Large Scale Already Projected.

Secretary to Aid All Designers to Produce the Best Form of Craft.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—A new and progressive policy for the development of the aeroplane as a naval adjunct, was inaugurated today by the Navy Department and Secretary Daniels announced that another air craft would form a large part of the naval force of the United States.

Capt. Mark L. Bristol was placed in charge of the study and development of this branch of the service. Lieut. W. I. Chambers; although relieved will continue the work he began in the adaptation of the aeroplane to naval uses in the form of the hydro-aeroplane.

Secretary Daniels has approved the findings of a special naval board that Pensacola, Fla., is the best location for a naval aeronautical center.

The secretary said there would be extensive experiments on a large scale with aeroplanes and that private designers would be assisted financially in their efforts to produce the best type of air craft.

English Aviator Gives Miss Davis, Passenger, a New Thrill.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

HENDON (Eng.) Jan. 2.—Gustave Hemel, for the first time in the history of aviation, today looped the loop in an aeroplane with a woman passenger, Miss Mary Trehawke Davis. She had accompanied Hemel on many previous flights, notable among them one from London to Paris. In the Paris flight Miss Davis gained the distinction of being the first woman to cross the English Channel in a heavier-than-air machine.

New York Judge Decides that It Was Disorderly Conduct to Introduce the Bryan Beverage to an F.F.V.—Consequently "Klondike Joe's" Sentence to Jail Stands.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If you ask a Virginia gentleman to have a drink and then serve him grape juice, what is it? Disorderly conduct, Judge Swann of the General Sessions decided today.

He was appealed to from the magistrate's court to decide whether or not Lawrence Fogel, alias "Klondike Joe," had been justly sentenced to six months in jail and held that the sentence should stand. The trouble began when H. Cromwell Hardwick of Kinsdale, Va., a guest at the Hotel McAlpin, met Fogel, and, according to testimony before the magistrate, was invited to "have a drink."

The drink proved to be grape juice, and the Virginian walked away. Words followed and Fogel explained that he was a salesman for grape juice.

At the Police Court the magistrate said the disorderly conduct charge was well taken.

CITY. For the second time in 48 days Ralph Fariss, alias Bostock, held up a Southern Pacific train and killed a traveling passenger was sentenced yesterday to be sent to San Quentin penitentiary.

Labor riot was precipitated at a meeting of about 600 stockholders of the Los Angeles Investment Company in Blanchard Hall last night.

Signs in all languages be placed in Plaza warning against street speaking was urged by the Public Saftey Committee of the City Council yesterday.

Arrival at Los Angeles harbor of the Danish oil-motor ship Siam is regarded as an event of much importance to marine men and to the oil industry alike.

Officials are engaged on a plan to build a municipal rock pile or a stone yard to give employment to all who want it and to stop the manufactured stories of there being thousands of unemployed in this city.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The Pasadena Board of Education has decided to sit back and let the people do the worrying over the second attempt to pass school bonds.

A Los Angeles man and another were killed at Mexicali by Federals, according to report, when the former crossed the border to seek his daughter, believed by him to have been abducted.

A power company official was killed at El Centro yesterday when a pole fell on him and crushed his head.

Beach authorities have petitioned the government for advice concerning the best way to curb the high tides.

PACIFIC SLOPE. The captain of a steam schooner on its way from San Pedro to San Francisco arrested a man in his cabin who attempted to hold up the ship.

Miss Fern Hobbs and her little army yesterday forced the obdurant Copperfield saloonkeepers to close as per Gov. West's orders.

GENERAL EASTERN. Big orders for new equipment are being put in by railroads.

The firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. has severed its connection with twenty-seven corporations which it helped organize.

MEXICO. President Wilson last evening met his personal envoy, John Lind, on a U. S. ship somewhere on the Gulf of Mexico; exact time and place not divulged. The President is reported to be disappointed that the world has come to be informed that he even intended to meet Lind.

A Washington dispatch last night reported that a brand new Mexican policy will probably be born of the conference of the President with John Lind.

WASHINGTON. The Secretary of the Navy has decided to employ airships in the navy. Pensacola will be the headquarters of the proposed aerial fleet and the Secretary of the Navy will aid all private designers to produce the best form of aircraft for the navy.

FOREIGN. Prof. Schweninger yesterday declared that radio-active materials are not the long-sought cures of cancer.

"Any newspaper which would do justice to himself will not depend wholly upon the forenoon edition, comprehensive though it is, but will take in the complete news reports, which cannot be luminously summarized, epitomized or classified"

BIG ORDERS PLACED.

Millions Being Spent by Railroads.

Industrial Barometers Show Confidence by Ordering New Equipment.

Rock Island to Start Work of Double Tracking on Western Lines.

Many Other Contracts for Construction Are Soon to Be Let.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Railroads, believed in many circles to be "industrial barometers," are placing many orders for equipment for use during 1914.

In many of the railroad offices it was said today that plans for large construction work might be delayed until later in the year, the roads to confine the improvements to improving present lines, and installing safety devices.

Among the larger orders announced today was one for 75,000 tons of rails by the New York Central lines. The order, it was said, was only a partial one, the amount to be duplicated later in the year. Contracts for other requirements will not be placed until later in the year, and the size, it was stated, will depend on the industrial conditions within the next few months.

Other orders placed by railroads follow:

Chesapeake and Ohio, 1000 "Hopper cars," with a promise of a similar order later; the Grank Trunk, 1000 stock and flat cars; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 15,000 tons of rails; the Erie, seven steel mail cars; Great Northern, a number of new passenger cars, and the Northern Pacific, a number of passenger coaches.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific announced that the work of double-tracking the lines west of Iowa City would begin within the next four months, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad has let a contract for the construction of a logging railroad ten miles long, running west, from Merrill, Wis.

"Railroads are barometers in the industrial world," said Charles L. Kimball, assistant general passenger agent for the Pennsylvania system. "Whenever railroads cease ordering new equipment it is a sign that they are looking for business depressions. If they order equipment, no matter how the business world may be at the time, it is taken to mean that they believe the depression will not be of long duration."

DISCUSS QUESTION OF OWNERSHIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A number of prominent railway executives and a Congressman discussed the railway rate question, probability of government ownership of railways and the legislation that should be adopted to improve the railway labor situation, in statements today. Most of them refer to the question of government ownership in one way or another. Under the head "Is government ownership in sight?" John J. Esch, Representative in Congress from Wisconsin, says that "one of the most significant trends of the public thought of today is the growing demand for such ownership."

"Personally," he says, "I have never been in favor of government ownership of railroads within the United States and have always sought to remedy the evils connected with their ownership and operation through regulation. Notwithstanding the regulatory statutes already enacted, evils, especially those arising out of their present and past financial control, continue to exist and hasten the trend toward government ownership. Such trend can be materially checked by giving the Interstate Commerce Commission, or a kindred body, full power over stock and bond issues."

DELANO'S VIEWS.

F. A. Delano, the new president of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, says:

"The broad question which concerns the country as a whole is, whether government regulation of privately owned and operated railroads can be made successful. It is all very well," he says, "for people to suggest that government ownership of railways is coming. Perhaps it is, but the question will occur to many a thinking man, that if the instrumentalities of the government cannot make a success of regulating railways, how can they be intrusted with the responsibility of full operation?"

W. L. Park, vice-president of the Illinois Central, refers to the question of government ownership in discussing the lack of discipline on American roads, owing largely to the strength of the railway labor organizations.

"Government owned railroads are better disciplined than those of private ownership," he says, "for the reason that they follow army methods more closely."

GERMAN PROFESSOR RIDICULES ITS ALLEGED CURES.

Bismarck's Physician Declares that the Much-Advertised Substance Is Not a Remedy for Disease and that It Can Do More Harm Than Good.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A "gigantic swindle" is the description applied by Prof. Ernest Schweninger of Munich, to the theory prevalent throughout the world that radium and mesothorium are the long-sought cures of cancer.

Prof. Schweninger, who is famous as the private physician of Prince Bismarck, says he cannot and will not believe that the much-vaunted radioactive substances are the panacea medical men have been hunting for generations. He protests that the hue and cry which serious-minded members of the medical professions have sent up in regard to the miraculous value of radium and mesothorium for cancer treatment are "highly unworthy of genuine medical ethics."

Prof. Schweninger says that radium and mesothorium even have positively dangerous properties. They are often "too aggressive" and involve the risk of "entirely destroying adjacent tissues or neighboring organs."

MISS HOBBS CLOSES SALOONS.

HER ARMY PUTS COPPERFIELD UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Gov. West's Private Secretary Reads the Riot Act to the Recalcitrant Mayor and Other Officials of the Oregon Town Who Disobeyed the Gubernatorial Mandate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COPPERFIELD (Or.) Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because of "spitework and a big family quarrel" and because Gov. West didn't have time to come here in perron to execute the laws, all the saloons of this place were closed today by Miss Fern Hobbs, private secretary of the Governor of Oregon. Miss Hobbs arrived today and within one hour had closed the saloons and demanded the Mayor and City Council members their resignations, which they refused to give. As a result, she left town, which tonight is under martial law.

RIFLES LOADED.

The members of the Coast Artillery, with rifles loaded and ready, stepped off the train at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The Governor's special representative, accompanied by Col. Lawson, went directly to the town hall, where she read the Governor's proclamation. The guardsmen remained at the railroad station under Col. Lawson's orders.

The attorney for Mayor Stewart and William Welgand, two of the saloonkeepers, James Nichols of Baker, telephoned his clients this morning not to let the Governor bluff them out, and to use force if necessary to keep the saloons open.

Mayor Stewart, leader of one faction of the town, and Martin Knezovich of the other, were on hand with their followers.

"I have a proclamation here from the Governor," said Miss Hobbs.

"All right, go ahead," said Mayor Stewart.

Then Miss Hobbs read the Governor's proclamation that if necessary to keep the two saloons of Copperfield closed, Col. Lawson has instructions to burn down the buildings.

THE TROUBLE.

The trouble followed investigations and reports, showing that the Mayor is engaged in the saloon business; that his associate in the business is a member of the City Council; that the proprietor of another saloon is likewise a member of said Council, and that his bartender is also a Councilman; that a fourth member is a

PRESIDENT MEETS LIND IN UNFATHOMED SECRECY

New Orleans Hears That Huerta May Be a Party to Conference.

Wireless Telegraphy Spoils the Best-Laid Plans of the Executive to Keep the World in Ignorance of the Fact His Personal Envoy Is with Him—A Brand-New Policy as to Mexico Is Said to Be Hatching.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASS CHRISTIAN (Miss.) Jan. 2.—President Wilson and John Lind, his personal representative in Mexico, sat tonight in the cabin of the scout cruiser Chester, deeply absorbed in a discussion of the Mexican situation.

It was their first meeting since last July, when the President conferred with Mr. Lind at the White House preparatory to the latter's departure for Mexico with instructions that created a diplomatic episode in American history.

For two days a mysterious reticence has been apparent at the Presidential cottage concerning the present conference. When dispatches from Vera Cruz announced that Mr. Lind would come to Pass Christian, there was a noticeable manifestation of displeasure among the members of the President's party that his destination should have been made public. President Wilson had hoped to slip quietly away aboard the revenue cutter Winona "for a yachting trip" and meet Mr. Lind at sea.

The same effort at secrecy with respect to the Chester's whereabouts was frustrated by wireless news of her location near Ship Island last night.

For nearly twenty-four hours Mr. Lind was off shore on the cruiser Chester before meeting the President, and instead of permitting his envoy to come ashore, President Wilson took a trip in a twenty-foot launch, mounted a companionway to the revenue cutter Winona, and was transshipped again in midgulf to the Chester.

The conference lasted until after 3 o'clock tonight, when the President returned to Gulfport, where automobiles were ready to take him to Pass Christian. Just as much secrecy as characterized the President's first meeting with Mr. Lind was evident on this occasion.

Information as to what the President intended to do was denied the newspaper correspondents. A big squad of them, however, was on hand at the oyster dock at 3 o'clock when President Wilson, accompanied by Dr. Cary T. Grayson and two secret service men, appeared. The revenue cutter Winona came as close to the shore as possible and sent a launch for the President. The nation's Chief Executive got into the bobbing craft and in fifteen minutes the President's flag was hoisted on the main mast of the cutter, which turned her prow seaward, followed by a tug chartered by the newspaper correspondents.

It was nearly three hours before the Chester was reached. A bright moon was shining when the headlights of the Chester were sighted.

As the revenue cutter drew near, marines and ship officers stood at attention and when the President came over the side the Presidential flag was unfurled from the Chester's mainmast. Mr. Lind was the first to grasp the President's hand. The two immediately retired to the cabin.

They had been in conference about an hour when the red and blue lights

FIRM OF J. P. MORGAN RESIGNS DIRECTORSHIPS.

Interlocking Systems of Twenty-seven Corporations Will Be Without Representatives of Famous New York Private Banking Concern—George F. Baker Will Also Sever His Connection with Many Companies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The withdrawal today of J. P. Morgan & Co. from more than a score of great corporations, and the statement by George F. Baker, an almost equally dominant figure in American finance, that he soon would take similar action, gave Wall street a thrill that almost brought trading on the stock exchange to a halt.

Morgan, departing from his firm's traditional policy of silence, made a public statement, announcing the withdrawal of five members of J. P. Morgan & Co. from directorships in twenty-seven corporations, and the intention to withdraw from more.

MORGAN'S STATEMENT.

J. P. Morgan made this statement:

"The necessity of attending many board meetings has been so serious a burden on our time that we have long wished to withdraw from the directorates of many corporations. Many of these directorships we have accepted with reluctance and only because we felt constrained to keep in touch with properties which we had reorganized or whose securities we had recommended to the public, both here and abroad. An apparent change in public sentiment in regard to directorship seems now to warrant us in seeking to resign from some of these connections.

"Indeed, it may be said, in view of the change of sentiment on the subject, that we shall be in a better position to serve such properties and their security holders if we are not directors. We have already resigned from the companies mentioned, and we expect from time to time to withdraw from other boards on which we feel there is no special obligation to remain."

THE COMPANIES.

The companies to which Morgan referred, from whose boards members of the firm have already submitted their resignations as directors are:

"WILSON'S MISTAKE COSTING HIM DEARLY."

London "Spectator" Adds Only Intervention Can Solve Mexican Imbroglio—British Periodical Declares President in Failing to Recognize Huerta Did the Worst Thing He Could Have Done.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The Spectator in an article today on the Mexican situation declares that the pressure of public opinion in all the rest of the world soon will force the United States to intervene in Mexico. The article points that President Wilson made a mistake in not assuming that President Huerta would be the strongest force with which to bring about peace in Mexico and in supporting him accordingly, but adds that it understands perfectly the reasons why Mr. Wilson did not adopt such a course.

TEXT OF ARTICLE.

"Instead," the article says, "he did what with all respect we must say was the worst thing he could have done. He intervened and pretended not to be intervening; he deprecated bloodshed and anarchy and yet he would neither stop it himself nor let anyone else do so. . . . The only way left for the United States is for themselves to restore order in Mexico."

The Spectator believes that joint action by other powers with the United States in Mexico is impossible and that the United States will have to act alone or sacrifice the Monroe doctrine, which it is not likely to do. The article says it would prove rather an easy conquest for the United States, but that conquest would be succeeded by a demand for national independence and accompanied by rebellion.

The rebellion also would be suppressed, but it would be followed by annexation to the United States of the northern States of Mexico and the independence of the remainder of the country under a treaty by which the Washington government would control Mexico's foreign relations. The Spectator thinks even this condition would not last long and predicts that within fifty years one nation of 200,000,000 English-speaking people would extend from the Canadian border to the Panama Canal, with the exception of British Honduras.

In conclusion the article says:

"In spite of foolish American talk about English jealousy and so forth—talk so idiotic that one cannot really be expected to deny it—the bulk of opinion here will be heartily with the United States in their work of restoring order in Mexico. . . . If they do their job well on the spot—and if it is entrusted to Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood it certainly will be done well and wisely in a truly liberal spirit—the English people will be not onl merely friendly in a diplomatic sense, but sincerely sympathetic. They will be proud of America's successful shouldering of this huge piece of white man's burden."

VILLA PLANS A STATE BANK.

Visits Juarez to Establish a New Institution.

Ortega's Army at Ojinaga Is Forced to Fall Back.

Federal Forces Are Winning at Nuevo Laredo.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) Jan. 2.—One purpose of Gen. Villa's visit here from Chihuahua, it was learned today, was to establish a State bank for the handling of constitutional money. Villa brought $100,000 in silver bullion, which he proposes to use in connection with the bank. The bank is to be made the depository of the rebel government funds.

The announcement from Hermosillo that Gen. Carranza would soon come to Juarez to confer with Gen. Villa created much interest here. Villa and Carranza have not been together since the revolution reached its present proportions, although Gen. Villa invited the revolutionary head to Chihuahua soon after the rebel occupation of that city.

Rebel forces were sent out from Juarez today to fight bandits operating among the Mormon colonies in the Casas Grandes district.

GEN. ORTEGA'S ARMY IS FALLING BACK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRESIDIO (Tex.) Jan. 2.—After cannonading the Federal army at Ojinaga, Mex., for four days, Gen. Ortega's rebel army fell back today, it was reported on the American side, to await the arrival of more ammunition from Chihuahua.

So far the losses have been heaviest on the rebel side, due to the Federals' superior range. Federal deserters reported that they had fewer than 100 killed, with an unknown number of wounded.

Few Federal deserters attempted to reach the American side today. The wounded were cared for by the Red Cross. Dr. C. F. Braden, the Red Cross agent, reported that he had sixty wounded in the mission church.

FEDERALS WINNING AT NUEVO LAREDO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Jan. 2.—While the desultory fighting today was indecisive, whatever advantage there was at the end of the second day's battle in the siege of Nuevo Laredo, Mex., seemed with the Federal defenders tonight. In the most important engagement today, a Constitutionalist machine gun detachment of 100 men was dislodged from its position, 1000 yards from the Federal lines, and the rebels fled after thirty-five of their number had been killed. The number of Federals killed was placed at five.

The main line of the besiegers tonight was unbroken and the government troops held their positions. Rebel leaders were disappointed at the delay in the arrival of artillery reinforcements. They plan to prolong the siege indefinitely.

Seven Constitutionalists were summarily hanged by Federals today "as a warning." It also was reported, but not confirmed, that the Federals had put to death wounded Constitutionalists left lying on the field.

Spectators on the American side of the river saw a captured Constitutionalist roped to the tail of a wild horse, which then was sent plunging along the plain dragging the body. The prisoner had been shot, but it was not known whether he was dead.

It was reported that the wounded Constitutionalist, his arms tied behind his back and his knees tied to his body, was spitted on a pole and paraded in front of the Federal lines.

It was learned today that the Federals were maintaining a vigilant border patrol on the Mexican side and that no Mexican citizen was permitted to cross the river.

PREDICT TAMPICO ATTACK.

Rebels, Receiving Arms and Ammunition, Believed to Be Preparing for Advance in Force.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TAMPICO (Mex.) Jan. 2.—Artillery and ammunition are reaching the rebel front in such manner as to indicate that an early attack may be made on Tampico, or on the force of 1200 Federal troops entrenched at Altamira, twenty-three miles from the coast. Several pieces of artillery and a large supply of ammunition were delivered to the rebels at Cervantes today. Rebel engineers are operating the trains from the city of Victoria to Cervantes, which lies only ten miles north of Altamira.

in the fore rigging of the Chester began to flash naval messages to the revenue cutter. The conference continued another hour and then the President was transferred to the Winona, which carried him back to Gulfport.

RUMOR HUERTA IS WITH LIND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Apparently coming from several sources at the same time, a strong rumor became current here early tonight that President Wilson was in conference, somewhere on the Gulf of Mexico, the Mississippi Sound or the Mississippi River, with President Huerta of Mexico. Various facts were cited to give the report weight. One of the chief of these was the great secrecy, coupled with anxiety on the part of the American Executive, as to the whereabouts of the conference.

Another is the delay, which, it is pointed out, hardly would have obtained had the cruiser Chester been bringing no one but Mr. Lind to confer with Mr. Wilson. Another point cited is the unusual fact that the President of the United States should have left in a small boat, in decidedly rough water, to meet his envoy, instead of having his envoy come to him.

Wires between here and Pass Christian and Gulfport, as well as between all three cities and Washington, are kept busy with code messages. In addition to uncertainty as to the whereabouts of the Winona and the Chester, the gunboat Wheeling has entered into the affair. The Wheeling is somewhere in the river below here, but her mission is a matter of mere conjecture.

A Louisville and Nashville train, with reservations said to have been taken in the name of the government, was held in New Orleans tonight for some time. Railroad officials intimated that these reservations were for prominent Mexicans, but of what political following they would not say.

NEW POLICY IN INCUBATOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The weight of opinion in Washington is that today's conference between President Wilson and Mr. Lind will mark the development by the President of another step in the policy he has laid down in regard to the treatment of the Mexican question. No one here pretends to forecast what it may be.

Gen. Bliss, in command of the American forces on the Mexican border, reported to Secretary Garrison that refugees whom he recently had disarmed and forced to return to Mexico were not in danger of their lives and therefore not entitled to claim an asylum in the United States.

Representative Reilley of Connecticut asked the State Department to watch the interests of Americans in Guerraro, in Chihuahua. Mrs. Mary McLaughlin of Meriden, Ct., who is at Guerraro, in a letter written to a son at Meriden and forwarded here said that conditions were bad. All the German residents had left, she said, and there were very few Americans or Spanish left.

DENIES SUFFERING IN SINALOA STATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Jan. 2.—Stories of starvation in Sinaloa are grossly exaggerated, said Jose de la Luz Blanco, who has been connected with the staff of Venustiano Carranza, on his arrival here today en route to El Paso, for an operation. He bore an honorable discharge from the Constitutionalist army signed by Gen. Carranza.

Blanco, who was the general commanding the Sonora division of the Madero army, served in Sinaloa during the present revolution. He stated that the rebel army has orders to feed all persons found to be in actual want of food. The only real suffering, he says, is in the outlying districts not yet reached by Constitutionalist forces. In the city of Culiacan alone, Blanco declared, an average of 500, mostly women, children and aged men, are being fed daily.

Cattle exportations from Sonora during the year 1913, according to official Mexican figures, were 90,041 head, valued at more than $1,500,000. Exports were reported especially heavy during the last three months.

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES.

Again Proves Itself the Greatest of All Publicity Mediums By Printing More Advertising in 1913 Than Any Other Newspaper in the World.

During the year 1913, The Times printed the enormous total of 16,935,900 lines of paid advertising, approximately 3,000,000 lines more than the total volume printed by any other American newspaper.

That successful business builders in Los Angeles and Southern California concentrate their advertising in The Times is conclusively proved by the unfailing regularity with which this newspaper overwhelms its local contemporaries and tops every other newspaper on the globe in the volume of advertising printed, and in the number of separate advertising patrons.

The Times' tremendous popularity is further attested by the fact that during 1913 it printed 846,242 separate classified advertisements, which is almost double the number printed by its nearest local contemporary.

The Times covers Los Angeles and Southern California absolutely, and its circulation is greater in quantity, better in quality and more permanent than that of any other newspaper in the Pacific Southwest.

For more than a quarter of a century The Times has been the home paper of this great, constantly-expanding section, and today its prestige and influence with the rank and file of the people of Southern California and surrounding territory are greater than ever.

MISS DE YOUNG TO WED FERDINAND THERIOT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Kathleen de Young and Ferdinand Theriot are being showered with congratulations from their friends in this city and abroad as a result of the announcement on New Year's of their engagement, by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young, parents of the prospective bride.

Miss De Young has been toasted as a belle ever since she made her debut. She is as clever as she is winsome, and just as pretty. She completed her schooling in Paris, but the earlier training was in the convents closer at home. She is a talented musician and has a gift of many languages. Until this winter there was seldom an amateur entertainment in which Miss De Young did not participate, and, had fate been less generous, Miss De Young could easily have made a name for herself as an artist.

Mr. Theriot is the son of the late Ferdinand Theriot of New York. He is a cousin of Eugene de Sabla and is a member of the firm of Byrne & McDonnell. Since completing his schooling at Harvard he has followed a business career in San Francisco. He is a member of the country club and also of the best known clubs in town.

Deserters from Federal Lines Declare Number of American Women Were Forced to Leave Their Homes on Suspicion that Husbands Sympathized with Revolutionists.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HERMOSILLO, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fifteen deserters from the Federal lines at Guaymas, who reached Batomatel today, reported that a number of American families had been forcibly ejected from their homes on Christmas in the belief that the absent husbands and fathers were sympathizers with the revolutionists. Among those forced to take up their abode in native shacks were the families of F. A. Cole of Tucson and Claud Huber of Los Angeles, who were refused permission to pass through the lines. An effort was made to reach these women, but the party consisting of Cole and a number of railroad men were fired upon as they approached the city from the north on a hand car. These families had been living in houses belonging to the railroad and Superintendent Temple has sent a message to the commanding officer at Guaymas, demanding that they be allowed to return to their homes. Another effort will be made to induce the officials at Guaymas to permit all families of American road employees to leave unmolested.

TO RUN MAIL TRAINS.

Through the efforts of Ygnacio Bonillas, Minister of Communications, the Southern Pacific will hereafter run five mail trains a week instead of three, which has been found insufficient to take care of the increasing passenger traffic. Business is said to have suffered on account of the lack of shipping facilities, but the railroad officials maintain that the traffic will not warrant a daily service for some time.

Minister Bonillas announced today that he intended to reorganize the National lines as soon as the Constitutionalists took over the government. This action will be taken to preserve the interests of the foreign bond and stock holders and to prevent throwing the great properties into the receivers' hands, the Minister asserts.

The charge is made that a clique at Mexico City is working to have a receiver appointed and the Minister desires to be ready to assume full control when the army reaches the national capitol. Any action that may be taken by Huerta or his subordinates will be repudiated by the Constitutionalists, according to Bonillas.

DOCTOR IS MISSING.

Much anxiety is felt for the safety of Dr. Mensendieck, the special Red Cross representative, who started for the famine district at Choix and has not been heard from. It is feared that he may have been lost in the mountains or met foul play at the hands of brigands.

A message was received at the Consulate authorizing a search to be made. There is considerable Red Cross money available in the hands of the Consul, but the authorities want the help of the American physician in distributing the supplies. Tales of suffering and death are increasing. Most of the people involved in the famine are said to have welcomed the Huerta army a few months ago and for this reason they are likely to receive little sympathy from those now in power.

PERMIT REFUGEES TO CROSS BORDER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Brig.-Gen. Bliss, commanding the Texas border forces, has been instructed by Secretary Garrison to permit Mexican refugees to cross into Texas from Ojinaga if that is necessary to save their lives. The latest order to Gen. Bliss, which reiterates former orders on the same subject, follows:

"With reference to possible situation at Ojinaga incident to people crossing the river, you will have to meet demands of the situation which cannot be foreseen at present. Extend such aid to wounded as humanity dictates and permit refugees to cross the river, if crossing is necessary to save life. In other words, it is not expected to force people back to the Mexican side if they are liable to be shot or otherwise injured on their return. Co-operate fully with Red Cross. You are not expected to turn supplies over to Red Cross, but to co-operate with them in their work to such extent as may be necessary to meet urgent needs of the situation with reference to caring for the wounded."

Discussing conditions at Ojinaga, Secretary Garrison today said:

"When the fighting first took place on the Mexican side and the soldiers of the defeated army began coming across the border, we, without regard to technical questions of law and in the interest of humanity, took in as refugees all those who came unarmed. We kept them so long as conditions on the other side were such that we felt it would be inhuman to turn them back.

"With regard to what will happen if a very large number attempt to come over, I can only say that unless the orders are changed (which, of course, they may be if an emergency calls for a change,) these men will be treated as I have stated; that is, they will be treated as refugees."

REBELS THREATEN SAN LUIS POTOSI.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—So rapidly has the number of rebels about San Luis Potosi increased and so imminent does an attack on that city seem that freight traffic into the city from the south, over the only line open, has been suspended. Telegraphic communication continues and reports from San Luis Potosi today said the rebels from the north and west were closing in on the town and that small bands were menacing it from the east and south.

Reports are current that the troops at Monterey and Saltillo have revolted, but there is no confirmation of this. Communication with both cities is cut off.

Indications are that the rebel forces threatening San Luis Potosi are those led by men whose activity has been confined to that part of Mexico and who have never taken part in the operations in the north. Eulalia Gutierrez and Francisco Coss appear to be the dominant leaders.

Private advices received here place the number of rebels about San Luis Potosi as high as 5000.

The majority of them are at Boca, twenty-five miles north on the National railways. The remainder are along the railroad line extending westward from San Luis Potosi to Aguas Calientes.

Gen. Romero, commanding the Federal garrison at San Luis Potosi, has about 1000 men well supplied with artillery and ammunition. The campaign near San Luis Potosi appears to be quite independent of the one against Tampico.

Railroad men know practically nothing concerning what is going on north of San Luis Potosi, where the rebels are in control as far as Saltillo. Advices received by them today said that two construction trains with a complement of troops had been destroyed near Moctezuma, half way between San Luis Potosi and Saltillo. The report said 200 soldiers were killed. It is understood the workmen on the train were impressed into the rebel army.

Many well-to-do residents of San Luis Potosi have arrived in the capital and still others are reported to be coming here.

The capture of San Luis Potosi, besides the wealth it would add to the rebel coffers, the city being perhaps the second wealthiest in the republic, would seriously increase the embarrassment of the government, as it would effectually block the importation of oil by way of Tampico.

Alarmed by the increasing difficulty in obtaining oil, the management of the government railways is busy converting oil-burning engines into coal burners. Owing to the scarcity of coal in the republic and the necessity of importing it from the United States, railroad men see little hope of operating trains for any length of time, except in a limited zone.

Traffic over the Inter-Oceanic Railroad to Vera Cruz, which was suspended a few days ago as a result of the dynamiting of a troop train by the rebels near Jalapa, was resumed today.

The banking situation here continues critical. The Bank of London and Mexico is still availing itself of President Huerta's extension of the banking holidays by limiting withdrawals by depositors to 200 pesos.

RELEASE FORMER DEPUTIES.

Mexico City Judge Finds There Was No Basis for Charge Against Twenty-six Imprisoned in October.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—Twenty-six former Mexican Deputies, imprisoned by Provisional President Huerta last October, were released from the penitentiary today. This number does not include Rodolfo Reyes, former Minister of Justice, nor Jorge Vera Estana, former Minister of Public Instruction.

The judge of the District Court, who had charge of the investigation, found there was no basis for the accusation of rebellion.

A great sensation was caused on October 10, when the Mexican Minister of the Interior, Manuel Garza Aldape, lined up several hundred Federal troops in front of the chamber where the Deputies were in session. Just before this occurred, 110 members of the chamber had signed resolutions of warning to Gen. Huerta in regard to the disappearance of Senator Dominguez, who had been sent to the penitentiary. The Minister walked to the tribune of the chamber and stated that President Huerta considered the Deputies' resolution an act of unjustified aggression and a transgression of the rights of the Executive and the courts. He then ordered the arrests.

"JOEY" LETTERS AS EVIDENCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Letters from a woman, who signed herself "Joey," helped Mrs. Carrie E. Collins, sister of Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico, win a decree of divorce from Samuel H. Collins, formerly a manager for a Kansas City department store, today.

A statutory offense was alleged and the register of the Great Northern Hotel for October 10, 1913, showing the signature, "Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collins, city," was introduced and the handwriting identified as that of Collins. He left the employ of the Emery-Bird-Thayer Dry Goods Company, where he got a salary of $5000 annually, the day before he is said to have registered at the hotel with the other woman.

THE BUSTLE IN PITTSBURGH TRAFFIC BLOCKED—POLICE!

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thrown into the discard years ago, the "Bustle" has come back, or at least one of them adorning one of the latest creations of Parisian modistes' art which arrived here today and was placed on display by Miss Lettie Collingswood, who passed down Fifth avenue, the cynosure of thousands of eyes, and to the accompaniment of the ever-increasing babel of voices, hoots and hisses. By the time the young woman had traveled a block, Pittsburgh's fashionable thoroughfare was congested with a wildly curious mob of men and women.

Two policemen finally took Miss Collingswood in tow and urged her into one of the big banking houses. Later she was sent away in a motor car, bustle and all.

PLAN STEAMSHIP LINE TO LOS ANGELES HARBOR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Portland is to get another permanent steamship line to California ports if plans being worked out by the Pacific Steamship Company develop to the point desired after a month's trial run, which will be made by the steamer Leelanaw, beginning Sunday or Monday.

The Leelanaw is now at Seattle, with San Francisco her destination. She will load passengers at the California metropolis for Portland, and thereafter will make this a regular run and Portland is to be the northern terminus. If the business warrants it, the line will be extended to Los Angeles harbor. Members of the company are confident that the business to Southern California will necessitate extending the run to Los Angeles almost immediately.

When seen in regard to the company's new plans tonight, W. F. Swan said:

"I am not at liberty to give out all details of our plans, though I will say that it is our plan to start the service to California next Sunday or Monday and the Leelanaw will put into the California service for a month's trial at least.

"We then no doubt will have an important announcement to make. After the Leelanaw reaches San Francisco she will load for Portland and then back again to California, and so on. That is all I can say at this time."

Among departures considered by the new company which is to start a Portland-Alaska service in March, as well as operate a steamer between Portland and Puget Sound cities, beginning February 15, is the inauguration of a service to the Hawaiian Islands.

N. F. Titus, manager of the company, with W. F. Swan, superintendent, are to leave for California tomorrow night.

will be asked to create four vice-admirals in the United States navy immediately after the holiday recess. Secretary Daniels said today he had determined upon this course to avoid the possibility of embarrassment to the American navy in foreign service.

Frequently, Mr. Daniels explained, in a field which rightly should be dominated by American influence, a foreign officer might take first rank because of the failure of the United States to provide a grade above that of rear admiral. This subject has been much discussed in connection with the situation on the Gulf of Mexico, where an English naval officer, Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock, outranks Rear-Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American squadron of seven first-class battleships and a half dozen smaller craft in a distinct zone for American leadership.

It has been pointed out by officials at the Navy Department that if it should become necessary for one officer to assume supreme command of the forces in the Mexican gulf, the Englishman would be expected, in view of the special responsibility of the United States, to waive his claim to preference.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Brooklyn navy yard received 1500 text-books today to be used in carrying out Secretary Daniels's order that men on each warship be instructed in geography, reading, writing and arithmetic.

Navy yard officials heard about the order on New Year's Day, but have received no instructions as to how it shall be put into effect. It is understood that there will be classes for an hour and a half each afternoon.

FRESH POSSE HUNTS LOPEZ.

SHERIFF IS DETERMINED TO SEARCH ALL MINE WORKINGS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BINGHAM (Utah) Jan. 2.—Still unanswered tonight was the question as to the fate of Ralph Lopez, slayer of six men, for whom search was resumed today in the Utah-Apex mine. Before the portals were sealed on December 14, miners lunch buckets filled with poisoned food were left where the desperado might find them. They were recovered today untouched.

Determined to solve the secret of its maze of passageways as soon as possible, a fresh posse was sent into the workings tonight by Sheriff Smith, who, if necessary, will keep up the search until every foot has been gone over.

In the Andy incline where Lopez killed two deputy sheriffs on November 29, two days after he took refuge in the mine, the posse found a sort of breastworks built of stone and earth. While some believed this had been erected since the mine was sealed, others thought it had been overlooked when the bodies of the two deputies were removed.

Sticking into the bulkhead of the Minnie tunnel was found a stake which looked as if it might have been used in an attempt to pry open the barrier. Other than this there was nothing to encourage the seachers.

Although armed and ready for a second underground battle, the officers felt confident the gunman would be found dead unless he had escaped some weeks ago from the mine. That he did escape is the belif of many.

HOUGHTON (Mich.) Jan. 2.—Peace negotiations in the copper situation halted and swayed today. Following early reports of an important communication from sources there was a series of conferences between John B. Mr. Densmore tonight he still had hopes of finding a way out of the district's difficulties, and added that his hopes were higher than twenty-four hours before.

While this was supposedly the day on which the companies were willing to take back any of the striking employees, there was manifest no disposition to force this issue of affairs.

LANSING (Mich.) Jan. 2.—A telegram received today by Gov. Cruse said that Deputy Hinsley reported to him that on the night of the alleged attack a crowd met Moyer in front of the Scott Hotel and threatened to lynch him and throw him into the lake.

"Hinsley prevailed on the crowd to send Moyer away on a train and when they finally agreed to do," said Cruse in his message, "Hinsley got on the train with Moyer and then learned Moyer had a wound on the head and was shot in the back. The conductor went ahead and had a physician meet the train at Winona. Hinsley accompanied Moyer as far as Chicago."

eleves Disturbing Elements Are About Settled.

inds a Hopeful Feeling All Over Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—"Any general statement as to conditions of manufacturing throughout the United States would at present be both misleading and inaccurate since this country varies according to the locality of the nature of the product," said a symposium of business conditions issued tonight by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The data compiled by the Department of Statistics on Reports of one day—December 29, 1913, which were taken to be fairly representative.

"The textile industry is adjusting itself to changed conditions, resulting from decreased tariff rates," continues the report, "but the effect so far does not justify previous apprehensions. The paper manufacturing business is below normal, while shoe manufacturing is good, with prospects of an advance in prices. This is true likewise, of the leather tanning industry. All manufacturing connected intimately with the railroad and with the steel and iron industries is necessarily feeling the depression of these great branches of business.

"The great increase in the population of this country and consequently increased demand for meat comes at the same time as the decrease in the number of cattle and sheep usually has brought about the present high price of meat. Consequently there has come a widespread apprehension of the ultimate effect of this tendency.

"A careful study of the facts, however, indicated that it is one of those economic problems that is likely to right itself and that the number of cattle in their relation to the number of inhabitants moves rather in a series of cycles than in a straight line. For instance, the number of cattle for 100 of population is the same now as it was in 1870 and 1880, but we are evidently facing a great change in the cattle raising industry.

"An impartial survey, therefore, of the situation seems to warrant the statement that while the price of meat probably will continue high, the various agencies mentioned will gradually work for a more abundant supply and a more reasonable price.

"Throughout the Central West, despite the drought, there is a general feeling of hopefulness. This is to be partly due to the fine prospects of the growing winter wheat and to the hope and the belief that many of the serious political and economic questions that have been such disturbances of the past are now in a fair way toward solution.

"Throughout the Southeast, eastern United States, mercantile business is in a good condition and this is true in a large degree throughout the West and South. Business varies much in these sections, according to location. Where crops were good, business was fairly good and in sections where crops were poor, business was correspondingly quiet.

"The nation's foreign commerce for the year approximated $4,250,000,000. The Department of Commerce estimates. Of that amount, $2,500,000,000 represents exports and $1,750,000,000 imports, making the balance of trade in favor of the United States $750,000,000, which exceeds the record of any previous year.

"The year's exports were the largest in the history of the country, while the imports were exceeded only by those of 1912. The decline in imports is attributed in part to reduction in prices of certain articles imported.

"An increase of foodstuffs exported is due chiefly in wheat, corn, barley, flour, bacon and lard; in manufactures' exports increases are reported in automobiles, railway cars, electric machinery, manufactures of iron and steel, lumber, copper and mineral oil."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The "gold value" of the year 1913 in the world was $455,000,000. The production of the previous year totaled this total by $11,000,000. This was the first estimate of the director of the mint, George E. Roberts, made in the year 1914.

According to Director Roberts's announcement tonight, the United States "gold production" for the year 1913 amounted to $88,301,023, a decrease of $5,000,000. The Transvaal total was $5,000,000 below its record and Australia showed a decreased production of $1,000,000. Mexico's production fell off about $5,000,000 as the result of the revolution

Ortega's Army at Ojinaga Is Forced to Fall Back.

Federal Forces Are Winning at Nuevo Laredo.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) Jan. 2.—One purpose of Gen. Villa's visit here from Chihuahua, it was learned today, was to establish a State bank for the handling of constitutional money. Villa brought $100,000 in silver bullion, which he proposes to use in connection with the bank. The bank is to be made the depository of the rebel government funds.

The announcement from Hermosillo that Gen. Carranza would soon come to Juarez to confer with Gen. Villa created much interest here. Villa and Carranza have not been together since the revolution reached its present proportions, although Gen. Villa invited the revolutionary head to Chihuahua soon after the rebel occupation of that city.

Rebel forces were sent out from Juarez today to fight bandits operating among the Mormon colonies in the Casas Grandes district.

GEN. ORTEGA'S ARMY IS FALLING BACK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRESIDIO (Tex.) Jan. 2.—After cannonading the Federal army at Ojinaga, Mex., for four days, Gen. Ortega's rebel army fell back today, it was reported on the American side, to await the arrival of more ammunition from Chihuahua.

So far the losses have been heaviest on the rebel side, due to the Federals' superior range. Federal deserters reported that they had fewer than 100 killed, with an unknown number of wounded.

Few Federal deserters attempted to reach the American side today. The wounded were cared for by the Red Cross. Dr. C. F. Braden, the Red Cross agent, reported that he had sixty wounded in the mission church.

FEDERALS WINNING AT NUEVO LAREDO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Jan. 2.—While the desultory fighting today was indecisive, whatever advantage there was at the end of the second day's battle in the siege of Nuevo Laredo, Mex., seemed with the Federal defenders tonight. In the most important engagement today, a Constitutionalist machine gun detachment of 100 men was dislodged from its position, 1000 yards from the Federal lines, and the rebels fled after thirty-five of their number had been killed. The number of Federals killed was placed at five.

The main line of the besiegers tonight was unbroken and the government troops held their positions. Rebel leaders were disappointed at the delay in the arrival of artillery reinforcements. They plan to prolong the siege indefinitely.

Seven Constitutionalists were summarily hanged by Federals today "as a warning." It also was reported, but not confirmed, that the Federals had put to death wounded Constitutionalists left lying on the field.

Spectators on the American side of the river saw a captured Constitutionalist roped to the tail of a wild horse, which then was sent plunging along the plain dragging the body. The prisoner had been shot, but it was not known whether he was dead.

It was reported that a wounded Constitutionalist, his arm tied behind his back and his knees tied to his body, was spitted on a pole and paraded in front of the Federal lines.

It was learned today that the Federals were maintaining a vigilant border patrol on the Mexican side and that no Mexican citizen was permitted to cross the river.

RUMOR HUERTA IS WITH LIND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Apparently coming from several sources at the same time, a strong rumor became current here early tonight that President Wilson was in conference, somewhere on the Gulf of Mexico, the Mississippi Sound or the Mississippi River, with President Huerta of Mexico. Various facts were cited to give the report weight. One of the chief of these was the great secrecy, coupled with anxiety on the part of the American Executive, as to the whereabouts of the conference.

Another is the delay, which, it is pointed out, hardly would have obtained had the cruiser Chester been bringing no one but Mr. Lind to confer with Mr. Wilson. Another point cited is the unusual fact that the President of the United States should have left in a small boat, in decidedly rough water, to meet his envoy, instead of having his envoy come to him.

Wires between here and Pass Christian and Gulfport, as well as between all three cities and Washington, are kept busy with code messages. In addition to uncertainty as to the whereabouts of the Winona and the Chester, the gunboat Wheeling has entered into the affair. The Wheeling is somewhere in the river below here, but her mission is a matter of mere conjecture.

A Louisville and Nashville train, with reservations said to have been taken in the name of the government, was held in New Orleans tonight for some time. Railroad officials intimated that these reservations were for prominent Mexicans, but of what political following they would not say.

NEW POLICY IN INCUBATOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The weight of opinion in Washington is that today's conference between President Wilson and Mr. Lind will mark the development by the President of another step in the policy he has laid down in regard to the treatment of the Mexican question. No one here pretends to forecast what it may be.

Gen. Bliss, in command of the American forces on the Mexican border, reported to Secretary Garrison that refugees whom he recently had disarmed and forced to return to Mexico were not in danger of their lives and therefore not entitled to claim an asylum in the United States.

Representative Reilley of Connecticut asked the State Department to watch the interests of Americans in Guerraro, in Chihuahua. Mrs. Mary McLaughlin of Meriden, Ct., who is at Guerraro, in a letter written to a son at Meriden and forwarded here said that conditions were bad. All the German residents had left, she said, and there were very few Americans or Spanish left.

DENIES SUFFERING IN SINALOA STATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Jan. 2.—Stories of starvation in Sinaloa are grossly exaggerated, said Jose de la Luz Blanco, who has been connected with the staff of Venustiano Carranza, on his arrival here today en route to El Paso, for an operation. He bore an honorable discharge from the Constitutionalist army signed by Gen. Carranza.

Blanco, who was the general commanding the Sonora division of the Madero army, served in Sinaloa during the present revolution. He stated that the rebel army has orders to feed all persons found to be in actual want of food. The only real suffering, he says, is in the outlying districts not yet reached by Constitutionalist forces. In the city of Culiacan alone, Blanco declared, an average of 500; mostly women, children and aged men, are being fed daily.

Cattle exportations from Sonora during the year 1913, according to official Mexican figures, were 90,041 head, valued at more than $1,500,000. Exports were reported especially heavy during the last three months.

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES.

Again Proves Itself the Greatest of All Publicity Mediums By Printing More Advertising in 1913 Than Any Other Newspaper in the World.

During the year 1913, The Times printed the enormous total of 16,935,900 lines of paid advertising, approximately 3,000,000 lines more than the total volume printed by any other American newspaper.

That successful business builders in Los Angeles and Southern California concentrate their advertising in The Times is conclusively proved by the unfailing regularity with which this newspaper overwhelms its local contemporaries and tops every other newspaper on the globe in the volume of advertising printed, and in the number of separate advertising patrons.

The Times' tremendous popularity is further attested by the fact that during 1913 it printed 846,242 separate classified advertisements, which is almost double the number printed by its nearest local contemporary.

The Times covers Los Angeles and Southern California absolutely, and its circulation is greater in quantity, better in quality and more permanent than that of any other newspaper in the Pacific Southwest.

For more than a quarter of a century The Times has been the home paper of this great, constantly-expanding section, and today its prestige and influence with the rank and file of the people of Southern California and surrounding territory are greater than ever.

MISS DE YOUNG TO WED FERDINAND THERIOT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Kathleen de Young and Ferdinand Theriot are being showered with congratulations from their friends in this city and abroad as a result of the announcement on New Year's of their engagement, by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young, parents of the prospective bride.

Miss De Young has been toasted as a belle ever since she made her debut. She is as clever as she is winsome, and just as pretty. She completed her schooling in Paris, but the earlier training was in the convents closer at home. She is a talented musician and has a gift of many languages. Until this winter there was seldom an amateur entertainment in which Miss De Young did not participate, and, had fate been less generous, Miss De Young could easily have made a name for herself as an artist.

Mr. Theriot is the son of the late Ferdinand Theriot of New York. He is a cousin of Eugene de Sabla and is a member of the firm of Byrne & McDonnell. Since completing his schooling at Harvard he has followed a business career in San Francisco. He is a member of the country club and also of the best known clubs in town.

Deserters from Federal Lines Declare Number of American Women Were Forced to Leave Their Homes on Suspicion that Husbands Sympathized with Revolutionists.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HERMOSILLO, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fifteen deserters from the Federal lines at Guaymas, who reached Batomatel today, reported that a number of American families had been forcibly ejected from their homes on Christmas in the belief that the absent husbands and fathers were sympathizers with the revolutionists. Among those forced to take up their abode in native shacks were the families of F. A. Cole of Tucson and Claud Huber of Los Angeles, who were refused permission to pass through the lines. An effort was made to reach these women, but the party consisting of Cole and a number of railroad men were fired upon as they approached the city from the north on a hand car. These families had been living in houses belonging to the railroad and Superintendent Temple has sent a message to the commanding officer at Guaymas, demanding that they be allowed to return to their homes. Another effort will be made to induce the officials at Guaymas to permit all families of American road employees to leave unmolested.

TO RUN MAIL TRAINS.

Through the efforts of Ygnacio Bonillas, Minister of Communications, the Southern Pacific will hereafter run five mail trains a week instead of three, which has been found insufficient to take care of the increasing passenger traffic. Business is said to have suffered on account of the lack of shipping facilities, but the railroad officials maintain that the traffic will not warrant a daily service for some time.

Minister Bonillas announced today that he intended to reorganize the National lines as soon as the Constitutionalists took over the government. This action will be taken to preserve the interests of the foreign bond and stock holders and to prevent throwing the great properties into the receivers' hands, the Minister asserts.

The charge is made that a clique at Mexico City is working to have a receiver appointed and the Minister desires to be ready to assume full control when the army reaches the national capitol. Any action that may be taken by Huerta or his subordinates will be repudiated by the Constitutionalists, according to Bonillas.

DOCTOR IS MISSING.

Much anxiety is felt for the safety of Dr. Mensendieck, the special Red Cross representative, who started for the famine district at Choix and has not been heard from. It is feared that he may have been lost in the mountains or met foul play at the hands of brigands.

A message was received at the Consulate authorizing a search to be made. There is considerable Red Cross money available in the hands of the Consul, but the authorities want the help of the American physician in distributing the supplies. Tales of suffering and death are increasing. Most of the people involved in the famine are said to have welcomed the Huerta army a few months ago and for this reason they are likely to receive little sympathy from those now in power.

CARRANZA STILL DELAYS.

Despite rumors to the effect that Gen. Carranza will move the capital to Chihuahua, there are no indications yet visible that he will do so soon.

PERMIT REFUGEES TO CROSS BORDER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Brig.-Gen. Bliss, commanding the Texas border forces, has been instructed by Secretary Garrison to permit Mexican refugees to cross into Texas from Ojinaga if that is necessary to save their lives. The latest order to Gen. Bliss, which reiterates former orders on the same subject, follows:

"With reference to possible situation at Ojinaga incident to people crossing the river, you will have to meet demands of the situation which cannot be foreseen at present. Extend such aid to wounded as humanity dictates and permit refugees to cross the river, if crossing is necessary to save life. In other words, it is not expected to force people back to the Mexican side if they are liable to be shot or otherwise injured on their return. Co-operate fully with Red Cross. You are not expected to turn supplies over to Red Cross, but to co-operate with them in their work to such extent as may be necessary to meet urgent needs of the situation with reference to caring for the wounded."

Discussing conditions at Ojinaga, Secretary Garrison today said:

"When the fighting first took place on the Mexican side and the soldiers of the defeated army began coming across the border, we, without regard to technical questions of law and in the interest of humanity, took in as refugees all those who came unarmed. We kept them so long as conditions on the other side were such that we felt it would be inhuman to turn them back.

"With regard to what will happen if a very large number attempt to come over, I can only say that unless the orders are changed (which, of course, they may be if an emergency calls for a change,) these men will be treated as I have stated; that is, they will be treated as refugees."

REBELS THREATEN SAN LUIS POTOSI.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—So rapidly has the number of rebels about San Luis Potosi increased and so imminent does an attack on that city seem that freight traffic into the city from the south, over the only line open, has been suspended. Telegraphic communication continues and reports from San Luis Potosi today said the rebels from the north and west were closing in on the town and that small bands were menacing it from the east and south.

Reports are current that the troops at Monterey and Saltillo have revolted, but there is no confirmation of this. Communication with both cities is cut off.

Indications are that the rebel forces threatening San Luis Potosi are those led by men whose activity has been confined to that part of Mexico and who have never taken part in the operations in the north. Eulalia Gutierrez and Francisco Coss appear to be the dominant leaders.

Private advices received here place the number of rebels about San Luis Potosi as high as 5000.

The majority of them are at Boca, twenty-five miles north on the National railways. The remainder are along the railroad line extending westward from San Luis Potosi to Aguas Calientes.

Gen. Romero, commanding the Federal garrison at San Luis Potosi, has about 1000 men well supplied with artillery and ammunition. The campaign near San Luis Potosi appears to be quite independent of the one against Tampico.

Railroad men know practically nothing concerning what is going on north of San Luis Potosi, where the rebels are in control as far as Saltillo. Advices received by them today said that two construction trains with a complement of troops had been destroyed near Moctezuma, half way between San Luis Potosi and Saltillo. The report said 200 soldiers were killed. It is understood the workmen on the train were impressed into the rebel army.

Many well-to-do residents of San Luis Potosi have arrived in the capital and still others are reported to be coming here.

The capture of San Luis Potosi, besides the wealth it would add to the rebel coffers, the city being perhaps the second wealthiest in the republic, would seriously increase the embarrassment of the government, as it would effectually block the importation of oil by way of Tampico.

Alarmed by the increasing difficulty in obtaining oil, the management of the government railways is busy converting oil-burning engines into coal burners. Owing to the scarcity of coal in the republic and the necessity of importing it from the United States, railroad men see little hope of operating trains for any length of time, except in a limited zone.

Traffic over the Inter-Oceanic Railroad to Vera Cruz, which was suspended a few days ago as a result of the dynamiting of a troop train by the rebels near Jalapa, was resumed today.

The banking situation here continues critical. The Bank of London and Mexico is still availing itself of President Huerta's extension of the banking holidays by limiting withdrawals by depositors to 200 pesos.

RELEASE FORMER DEPUTIES.

Mexico City Judge Finds There Was No Basis for Charge Against Twenty-six Imprisoned in October.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—Twenty-six former Mexican Deputies, imprisoned by Provisional President Huerta last October, were released from the penitentiary today. This number does not include Rodolfo Reyes, former Minister of Justice, nor Jorge Vera Estana, former Minister of Public Instruction.

The judge of the District Court, who had charge of the investigation, found there was no basis for the accusation of rebellion.

A great sensation was caused on October 10, when the Mexican Minister of the Interior, Manuel Garza Aldape, lined up several hundred Federal troops in front of the chamber where the Deputies were in session. Just before this occurred, 110 members of the chamber had signed resolutions of warning to Gen. Huerta in regard to the disappearance of Senator Domingues, who had been sent to the penitentiary. The Minister walked to the tribune of the chamber and stated that President Huerta considered the Deputies' resolution an act of unjustified aggression and a transgression of the rights of the Executive and the courts. He then ordered the arrests.

Sister of the Former Ambassador to Mexico Wins Divorce From Samuel H. Collins in Chicago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Letters from a woman, who signed herself "Joey," helped Mrs. Carrie E. Collins, sister of Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico, win a decree of divorce from Samuel H. Collins, formerly a manager for the Kansas City department store, today.

A statutory offense was alleged and the register of the Great Northern Hotel for October 10, 1913, showing the signature, "Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collins, city," was introduced and the handwriting identified as that of Collins. He left the employ of the Emery-Bird-Thayer Dry Goods Company, where he got a salary of $5000 annually, the day before he is said to have registered at the hotel with the other woman.

Airships for Navy.

will be asked to create four vice-admirals in the United States navy immediately after the holiday recess. Secretary Daniels said today he had determined upon this course to avoid the possibility of embarrassment to the American navy in foreign service.

Frequently, Mr. Daniels explained, in a field which rightly should be dominated by American influence, a foreign officer might take first rank because of the failure of the United States to provide a grade above that of rear admiral. This subject has been much discussed in connection with the situation on the Gulf of Mexico, where an English naval officer, Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock, outranks Rear-Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American squadron of seven first-class battleships and a half dozen smaller craft in a distinct zone for American leadership.

It has been pointed out by officials at the Navy Department that if it should become necessary for one officer to assume supreme command of the forces in the Mexican gulf, the Englishman would be expected, in view of the special responsibility of the United States, to waive his claim to preference.

Navy yard officials heard about the order on New Year's Day, but have received no instructions as to how it shall be put into effect. It is understood that there will be classes for an hour and a half each afternoon.

FRESH POSSE HUNTS LOPEZ.

SHERIFF IS DETERMINED TO SEARCH ALL MINE WORKINGS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BINGHAM (Utah) Jan. 2.—Still unanswered tonight was the question as to the fate of Ralph López, slayer of six men, for whom search was resumed today in the Utah-Apex mine. Before the portals were sealed on December 14, miners lunch buckets filled with poisoned food were left where the desperado might find them. They were recovered today untouched.

Determined to solve the secret of its maze of passageways as soon as possible, a fresh posse was sent into the workings tonight by Sheriff Smith, who, if necessary, will keep up the search until every foot has been gone over.

In the Andy incline where Lopez killed two deputy sheriffs on November 29, two days after he took refuge in the mine, the posse found a sort of breastworks built of stone and earth. While some believed this had been erected since the mine was sealed, others thought it had been overlooked when the bodies of the two deputies were removed.

Sticking into the bulkhead of the Minnie tunnel was found a stake which looked as if it might have been used in an attempt to pry open the barrier. Other than this there was nothing to encourage the seachers.

Although armed and ready for a second underground battle, the officers felt confident the gunman would be found dead unless he had escaped some weeks ago from the mine. That he did escape is the belief of many.

THE BUSTLE IN PITTSBURGH TRAFFIC BLOCKED—POLICE!

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thrown into the discard years ago, the "Bustle" has come back, or at least one of them adorning one of the latest creations of Parisian modistes' art which arrived here today and was placed on display by Miss Lettie Collingswood, who passed down Fifth avenue, the cynosure of thousands of eyes, and to the accompaniment of the ever-increasing babel of voices, hoots and hisses. By the time the young woman had traveled a block, Pittsburgh's fashionable thoroughfare was congested with a wildly curious mob of men and women.

Two policemen finally took Miss Collingswood in tow and urged her into one of the big banking houses. Later she was sent away in a motor car, bustle and all.

PLAN STEAMSHIP LINE TO LOS ANGELES HARBOR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Portland is to get another permanent steamship line to California ports if plans being worked out by the Pacific Steamship Company develop to the point desired after a month's trial run, which will be made by the steamer Leelanaw, beginning Sunday or Monday.

The Leelanaw is now at Seattle, with San Francisco her destination. She will load passengers at the California metropolis for Portland, and thereafter will make this a regular run and Portland is to be the northern terminus. If the business warrants it, the line will be extended to Los Angeles harbor. Members of the company are confident that the business to Southern California will necessitate extending the run to Los Angeles almost immediately.

When seen in regard to the company's new plans tonight, W. F. Swan said:

"I am not at liberty to give out all details of our plans, though I will say that it is our plan to start the service to California next Sunday or Monday and the Leelanaw will put into the California service for a month's trial at least.

"We then no doubt will have an important announcement to make. After the Leelanaw reaches San Francisco she will load for Portland and then back again to California, and so on. That is all I can say at this time."

Among departures considered by the new company which is to start a Portland-Alaska service in March, as well as operate a steamer between Portland and Puget Sound cities, beginning February 15, is the inauguration of a service to the Hawaiian Islands.

N. F. Titus, manager of the company, with W. F. Swan, superintendent, are to leave for California tomorrow night.

lieves Disturbing Elements Are About Settled.

nds a Hopeful Feeling All Over Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—"Any general statement as to conditions of manufacturing throughout the United States would at present be both misleading and inaccurate since this condition varies according to the locality and of the nature of the product," said a memorandum of business conditions issued tonight by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The data compiled by the Department of Statistics on Reports of one day—November 29, 1913, which were taken to be fairly representative.

While the textile industry is adjusting itself to changed conditions, resulting from decreased tariff rates," continues the report, "but the effect so far does not justify previous apprehensions. The paper manufacturing industry is below normal, while shoe manufacturing is good, with prospects of an advance in prices. This is true likewise, of the leather tanning industries. All manufacturing connected intimately with the railroad and with the steel and iron industries is necessarily feeling the depression of these two great branches of business.

"The great increase in the population of this country and consequently the increased demand for meat commodities at the same time as the decrease in the number of cattle and sheep naturally has brought about the present high price of meat. Consequently there has come a widespread apprehension of the ultimate effect of this tendency.

"A careful study of the facts, however, indicated that it is one of those economic problems that is likely to right itself and that the number of cattle in their relation to the number of inhabitants moves rather in a series of cycles than in a straight line. For instance, the number of cattle for 100 of population is to-day now as it was in 1870 and 1880, but we are evidently facing a radical change in the cattle raising industry.

"In impartial survey, therefore, of the situation seems to warrant the statement that while the price of meat will probably continue high, the various agencies mentioned will gradually work for a more abundant supply and a more reasonable price.

"Throughout the Central West, despite the drought, there is a general feeling of hopefulness. This seems to be partly due to the fine prospects of the growing winter wheat and to the hope and the belief that many of the serious political and economic questions that have caused such disturbances of the past will be settled in a fair way toward solution.

"Throughout the Southeast, eastern and Atlantic States, mercantile business is in a good condition and this is true in general throughout the West and Northwest. Business varies much in these sections according to location. Where crops were good, business was fairly good and in sections where crop failures last year were poor, business is correspondingly quiet.

"The nation's foreign commerce for the year approximated $4,250,000,000, the Department of Commerce estimates. Of that amount, $2,500,000,000 represents exports and $1,750,000,000 imports, making the balance of trade in favor of the United States, $750,000,000, which exceeds the record of any previous year.

"The year's exports were the largest in the history of the country, while the imports were exceeded only by those of 1912. The decline in imports is attributed in part to reduction in prices of certain articles im-

"The increase of foodstuffs exported was chiefly in wheat, corn, barley, flour, bacon and lard; in manufactures exports increases are reported in automobiles, railway cars, electric machinery, manufactures of iron and steel, lumber, copper and mineral oil."

Ferris from Sheriff Cruse of Houston county, dealing with the alleged deportation of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, contained information entirely new to the Governor. Cruse said that Deputy Hinsley reported to him that on the night of the alleged attack a crowd met Moyer in front of the Scott Hotel and threatened to lynch him and throw him into the lake.

"Hinsley prevailed on the crowd to send Moyer away on a train and when they finally agreed to do," said Cruse in his message, "Hinsley got on the train with Moyer and then learned Moyer had a wound on the head and was shot in the back. The conductor went ahead and had a physician meet the train at Winona. Hinsley accompanied Moyer as far as Channing."

National Commerce Chamber Makes Its Report.

Some Disturbing Elements Are About Settled.

Such a Hopeful Feeling All Over Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—"Any general statement as to conditions of business throughout the United States would at present be both misleading and inaccurate since this country varies according to the locality and the nature of the product," said a review of business conditions issued tonight by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The data compiled by the Department of Commerce as Reports of one day—December 29, 1913, which were taken as fairly representative.

"The textile industry is adjusting itself to changed conditions, resulting from decreased tariff rates," continues the report, "but the effect so far does not justify previous apprehension. The paper manufacturing industry is below normal, while shoe manufacturing is good, with prospects of an advance in prices. This is also true of the leather tanning industry. All manufacturing connected directly with the railroad and with the steel and iron industries is necessarily feeling the depression of these important branches of business.

"The great increase in the population of this country and consequently increased demand for meat coincided at the same time as the decrease in the number of cattle and sheep on hand has brought about the present high price of meat. Conditions there has come a widespread apprehension of the ultimate effect of this tendency.

"A careful study of the facts, however, indicated that it is one of those temporary problems that is likely to right itself and that the number of cattle and their relation to the number of inhabitants moves rather in a series of cycles than in a straight line. For instance, the number of cattle per 100 of population, is the same now as it was in 1870 and 1880, so we are evidently facing a change in the cattle raising industry.

"An impartial survey, therefore, of conditions seems to warrant the belief that while the price of meat probably will continue high, the agencies mentioned will work for a more abundant and a more reasonable price.

"Throughout the Central West, despite the drought, there is a general feeling of hopefulness. This is due partly due to the fine crops and the growing winter wheat and the hope and the belief that the serious political and economic questions that have caused disturbances of the past are in a fair way toward solution.

"Throughout the Southeast, eastern and southern states, mercantile business is in good condition and this is true generally throughout the West and Northwest, although business varies much in these sections according to location. Where crops were good, business was fairly good and in sections where crop conditions last year were poor, business is unusually quiet.

"The nation's foreign commerce for 1913 amounted $4,250,000,000, a statement of Commerce estimates that of that amount, $2,500,000,000 represents exports and $1,750,000,000 imports, making the balance of trade in favor of the United States $750,000,000, which exceeds the record of any previous year.

"The country's exports were the largest in the history of the country, while imports were exceeded only by those of 1912. The decline in imports is attributed in part to reduced prices of certain articles imported.

"The increase of foodstuffs exported consisted chiefly in wheat, corn, barley, flour, bacon and lard; in manufactured exports increases are reported in automobiles, railway cars, agricultural machinery, manufactures of iron and steel, lumber, copper and cotton.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—No longer may W. W. Folk, solicitor of the State Department, blow blue rings from his favorite cigar. He has sworn off. In doing so he hopes, as he says it, to set a good example to the American youth.

Having pledge not to smoke any more the bitter weed was taken by the solicitor yesterday. Mr. Folk and his friends were greatly surprised when he declared he quit cold. His daily consumption of cigars ranged from fifteen to twenty. It is not a mere effort to escape the cigars, a good many of which were received," declared he has made a New Year's resolution and I am going to keep it.

CALIFORNIA LEADS STATES IN PRODUCTION OF GOLD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The "total value" of the year 1912 in the world was $455,000,000, an increase of the previous year of that total by $11,000,000, according to the first estimate of the director of the mint, George E. Roberts, issued for the year 1914.

Director Roberts's announcement tonight, the United States production" for the year 1913 amounted to $88,301,023, $5,000,000 below its production of $1,000,000. The Transvaal and Australia showed a decrease in production fell off about $5,000,000 as the result of the revolution there. Canada exceeded its output of 1912 by about $2,700,000, and British India showed an increase of $1,000,000.

Nevada led the silver-producing States of the United States, yielding ore to the commercial value of $9,123,229; Montana was second, with $7,850,166, and Utah, Idaho and Colorado were among the five leading States.

California was first among the States of the Union in the production of gold, with a total of 972,601 fine ounces, valued at $20,105,447. Colorado came second with a production valued at $18,420,031; Alaska third, $14,782,512; Nevada fourth, $12,279,131; South Dakota, fifth, $7,197,498; Arizona sixth, $3,803,039; Utah seventh, $3,400,103; Montana eighth, $3,078,202.

BAKER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

Baker announced his intention to withdraw in response to a question whether he intended to follow the example of the Morgan firm.

"I intend to get out as a director of all the companies that will let me," he said. "As a matter of fact, I have been beginning to do so for the past two years."

REPORT CONCERTED ACTION.

The connections between Baker and the Morgan firm, and especially with the late J. P. Morgan, were generally regarded as being so close that it is believed their common decision regarding withdrawals from interlocking directorates was reached as the result of concerted action.

There was no evidence that any general agreement had been reached among other leading financiers of Wall street. Both Kuhn-Loeb & Co. and James Speyer & Co. maintained silence. It was predicted, nevertheless, by men well posted in Wall street that the day's events were prophetic of the ending of the system of interlocking directorates, which has been bitterly attacked by members of the present Washington administration and members of Congress, who have been fighting what they termed the "money trust."

In Wall street, that part of Morgan's statement in which he spoke of "an apparent change in public sentiment in regard to directorships," was referred to as a sign of the times.

STATEMENT OF BANKER.

One international banker, who in the past has served as a director in many well-known corporations, had this to say:

"There isn't the slightest doubt in my mind that the announcement made by J. P. Morgan & Co. is only the forerunner of many similar announcements that will be made in the near future, and, from my point of view, the effect will be wholesome and far-reaching. Only a few days ago, the American Telephone and Telegraph company showed that it was in sympathy with the spirit of the times, by announcing that it would surrender control of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and today's announcement is just another indication that our big men appreciate that a 'public-be-pleased' policy is better than the old 'public-be-damned' idea."

"For ten years we have had open antagonism between the public and men of affairs. Our big men have now decided to meet the spirit of unrest on the part of the public by so adjusting their affairs as to comply with public sentiment and I believe that today's announcement and those that will follow will be met by the public in the right spirit. In brief, the events of the past few days regarding corporation affairs have encouraged me more than anything that has happened in many years."

INTERESTS OF MORGAN, SR.

J. P. Morgan, Sr., at his death was a director in fifty-nine corporations, including many of the foremost railroad and industrial companies of the country, and several of the largest banking institutions, and to these directorships his son succeeded. His partners are directors in many more corporations and the firm, for years the dominant banking institution of the United States, has been financial sponsor for the number of them. In the organization of several, including the United States Steel Corporation, the International Harvester Company and the International Mercantile Marine Company, J. P. Morgan & Co. took the foremost part and it was instrumental in the reorganization of others, notably the Erie and Southern Railroad.

BAKER GIVES HIS VIEWS.

George F. Baker is director in more than sixty corporations, a greater number than any other one man in the country. Baker, who heretofore has adhered to a policy of silence as rigidly as Morgan, expressed his views in his testimony before the Congressional Pujo Committee early last year. Speaking of the concentration of money and credit in the hands of a comparatively few men, he said:

"I think it has gone far enough. It might not be dangerous, but still it has gone about far enough. In good hands, I do not see that it would do any harm. If it got into bad hands it would be very bad."

While Morgan & Co. are still represented on the boards of many of the country's great corporations, Morgan's statement that "We expect from time to time to retire from other boards," was accepted as foreshadowing the ultimate withdrawal of Morgan partners from all the great outside enterprises with which they have been long connected.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo Committee, said he regretted that the announced list of withdrawals did not "include the more important interlocking directorates in the financial district held by the firm, such as those in the First National and National City banks."

COMMENT OF UNTERMYER.

"It appears also," he said, "that while some of the partners resign from the board of a given company, one or more remain, which would seem to indicate that this is more in the nature of a business convenience than a surrender to public sentiment, and that nothing very substantial has as yet been accomplished in the way of vindicating the principle for which the advocates of corporate reform have been contending. But the promise held out in the interview is encouraging. It will doubtless all come in time."

In connection with Untermyer's statement it was suggested that the reason the Morgan partners had not withdrawn from the boards of the national banks commonly referred to as Morgan institutions was that the subject was being held in abeyance pending the interpretation of the new banking and currency law.

What was interpreted as a sign of willingness on Baker's part to give up such connections was the recent sale by the First Securities Company, controlled by First National Bank interests, of a large block of stock in the Chase National Bank, one of the largest financial institutions in New York.

Frank A. Vanderlip, head of the National City Bank, recently said that he hoped to retire from directorships of outside corporations as soon as possible and devote himself to the banking business exclusively.

Still another indication of the course of events in Wall street was the announcement today that the voting trust of the Guaranty Trust Company, consisting of Mr. Baker and Messrs. Porter and Davison of the Morgan firm, would be dissolved January 20.

COMMENT IN WASHINGTON.

APPROVE MORGAN ACTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Official Washington seemed to approve the action of J. P. Morgan & Co., but it was not believed tonight that it would prevent an attempt in Congress at the present session to enact legislation to prohibit interlocking directorates. There was a general impression that the action did not signalize the break-up of the so-called money trust, the connections severed for the most part being those with the railroads and not banks. Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, author of a bill to prohibit interlocking directorates, said tonight:

"I doubt if the action of Morgan & Co., will have any effect on legislation. It is in line with the evident purpose of big business to try to meet the demands of the people, and is in anticipation of legislation."

Members of the old money trust committee were away from Washington today but their representative said that the Morgan house had twenty-three directorships in thirteen banks and trust companies having total resources of $1,406,000,000 and total deposits of $989,000,000; four directorships in insurance companies and a controlling stock interest in another, the total assets being $1,249,000,000; twenty directorships in twelve transportation systems having a total capitalization of $4,739,000,000; twelve directorships in seven producing and trading corporations including the United States Steel, Pullman and General Electric and others, having a total capitalization of $1,989,000,000 and total gross annual earnings exceeding $899,000,000, and four directorships in three public utility corporations, having a total capitalization of $1,013,000,000 and total gross earnings of $224,000,000. That made sixty-three directorships in thirty-nine corporations having total reserves or capitalization of $10,036,000,000.

"INTERESTING," SAYS WILSON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GULFPORT (Miss.) Jan. 2.—President Wilson was shown the Associated Press dispatch telling of the retirement of J. P. Morgan & Co. from the directorates of many important corporations. The President read it carefully including the statement of Mr. Morgan.

"That is very interesting," he said.

Asked if he had anything to say regarding the matter, Mr. Wilson smiled and said he had not.

President Wilson has been deeply absorbed in preparation here of the message he expects to read to Congress, dealing with the trusts and "big business." One of the subjects with which he expects to deal is interlocking directorates.

ENGLISH CHURCH ISSUE.

Lord Halifax Says Controversy Over Kikuiu Conference May Cause a Serious Schism.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—A religious controversy which, in the words of Lord Halifax, president of the English Church Union, threatens a schism which will rend the Church of England, has arisen out of the now celebrated Kikuiu conference, held in Kikuiu, East Africa, last June, which sought to unite all Protestant denominations against the increasing power of the Roman Catholic propaganda in East Africa.

The trouble arose out of the endeavor of the Bishop of Zanzibar to impeach for heresy two prelates—the Bishop of Uganda and the Bishop of Mombassa, who administered communion to the missionaries of the various sects composing the conference.

The Archbishop of York, in his New Year letter to his diocese, says it is obvious that this discussion will test the power of the Church of England to know its own mind and to take its own place in Christendom.

hanger-on around one of these resorts and in sympathy with their activities. This gives the saloon element absolute control of all city affairs.

Martial law was not declared while Miss Hobbs was there. But ten minutes after she left, her requests not being obeyed, the military authorities took control of the situation.

"Our proceedings have been regular in every way," said the Governor, "Miss Hobbs went as the representative of the Governor, not as the head of the militia, to ask for the cooperation of Copperfield citizens for law and order."

GREEK STARTS TROUBLE.

The trouble arose over a Greek, who was conducting a saloon here and moved from one place to another outside the saloon limit. There is an ordinance fixing the street on which saloons may be run. He did not ask for a transfer to move, and when the Mayor told him he could not operate there, he said he would do as he pleased, and still kept on selling. So they arrested him and fined him $50, but told him if he would move back to his old stand they would revoke the fine. He moved back for three days, and then went again to the new place. Then he was arrested and his license revoked. He got out an injunction restraining the officials of Copperfield from interfering with him and his business. When it came to trial the town won out. He and some of his friends got up the petition to the Governor, stating the conditions of the town. The Governor probed the situation and now the townspeople voice the whole thing as nothing but "spitework—a big family quarrel."

Be that as it may, the Governor tonight partially has won his fight, the saloons are closed, and the city officials have been arrested, but they have not resigned.

DISSOLVES PARLIAMENT.

Hundreds Saved From Drink Habit By Neal Treatment

No Other Organization in Southern California is Doing So Much for the Uplift of Humanity as the Neal Institute.

Few people fully realize and appreciate the extent of the splendid work being done for the State of California by the Neal Drink and Drug Habit Treatment. Think what it means to the State, and to wives and children of drinking men, to have hundreds of useless drinking men restored to sober useful citizenship every year. Many men rescued belonged to the down-and-out class—a burden to the community. Hundreds of women and children are today living in comfort with the future full of hope who were struggling with poverty, want and misery before the husband or father was saved by the Neal Treatment. The drinker is not wilful or sick but poisoned with alcohol and needs the Neal Treatment. The Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street, is one of sixty Neal Institutes in the principal cities of the country, where you can send your drinking relatives and have them restored to sobriety in three days time by a safe, internal treatment. Hypodermic injections are never used. Home Treatment can be arranged for if desired. Call and investigate, or write or phone G. U. Neal, manager, for full information. Phones: Broadway 4602; A4072. All drug habits treated.

TRAIN STALLED OVER A WEEK.

Storm-Marooned Passengers May Soon Be Rescued.

Twenty Slides Have Blocked Feather River Canyon.

Sands About Santa Cruz Yielding Up Treasure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OROVILLE, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Six hundred men, augmented by steam shovels and wrecking crews, are at work on the line of the Western Pacific in the Feather River Canyon, clearing away the twenty or more slides that swept down on the tracks during the recent storms, and marooned an east-bound passenger train. For more than a week the passengers have been forced to stay aboard the train, miles from the nearest settlement, while the officials of the road are making every effort possible to rescue them from their plight. There were so many slides on the track that it was impossible to get another train anywhere near them. It is expected that they will be able to get them out tomorrow, although it will be necessary to transfer them over the mountains in order to secure their release.

Early this morning a terrific rainstorm broke over the canyon and hundreds of tons of rock and earth crashed upon the tracks. This afternoon the rain turned to snow and it is piling up rapidly. The Western Pacific is now running its regular schedule between this city and Oakland. The Southern Pacific and Northern Electric are still tied up.

FIND TREASURE IN SAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA CRUZ, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is hard to tell who is reaping the greatest results of the storm in this city, for many are gathering cords of drift wood washed down the San Lorenzo River, while others are gathering up coin and jewelry from in front of the Casino, where the highest breakers in the history of the local beach have so gouged out the sand that a veritable mint has been unearthed.

Summer visitors are the losers and local people are the winners. Several people have picked up $5 and $10 pieces, and any amount of silver coins down to pennies. One man yesterday picked up a $20 piece near the pleasure pier. Another came along and found a gold watch. Still another picked up a purse when held over $60, and today other money was found and a valuable ring.

Several articles of jewelry have been gathered up and still there is no end to the treasure.

FLEET FOR SACRAMENTO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EXPECT ANOTHER RISE.

Sacramento River Remains Almost Stationary But Heavy Rains Are Reported in the Mountains.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2.—Flood conditions of the last few days continued to improve in the Sacramento Valley today, except at Red Bluff and Colusa, where the high water is still attacking levees. The river at Sacramento remained almost stationary at 23.5 feet throughout today, and but little rise is predicted by Weather Forecaster Taylor. Two distinct freshets caused by rains of last night are expected to arrive here in the course of the next two days. One is now at Red Bluff and the other at Colusa.

Some of the weaker levees surrounding Sacramento are still under patrol by the city and Southern Pacific Railroad, which has a contract to reinforce the levees.

The greatest danger along the Sacramento watershed is at up-river cities. Forecaster Taylor sent out danger warnings to these sections tonight. At Jacinto the entire country is covered by water. The Yolo and American basins are inundated near here.

Heavy rains in the mountains last night and today will bring more flood waters into the Sacramento within the next forty-eight Taylor predicts. This, he says, will not prove as the crest of floods on the and the Feather or Ame meet at about the same Tehama it is reported a woman and two children downstream in an open drowned. The identity sons has not been estab boat found.

Sacramento Reports That the Benefit to Agriculturists Outweighs Small Damage.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, (Cal.) Jan. 2.—[Exaggerated reports concerning flood damage in this section have been sent by space writers. While an unusual amount of rain has fallen, especially in the mountain sections, and streams through the valley have swollen, the damage done has been small. The flow of water has now materially subsided. Traffic by the Berryessa has been temporarily suspended, as the bridge across Coyote was rendered unsafe by the piling up of debris and brush which caused an overflow of a large adjacent area of lowland. The short railroad trestle over the Los Gatos Creek on the side of Campbell was put out of commission by the sagging of the rails, but passengers have been transferred across the stone bridge of the county road, which is perfectly safe. No delay to traffic has been caused. Landslides in the mountains and the telephone and light lines have been slightly demoralized by the storm winds. The benefit to agriculture, however, greatly outweighs the damage done. No loss of life has occurred and no serious loss of property has been suffered.

TO SUPPORT YANKEE GAME.

Followers of American Football Form Association.

Will Raise Fund to Aid High School Men to College.

Four Local Colleges to Get at Least Three Scholarships.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

American football received a mighty boost yesterday, when first steps were taken in the organization of a California American Football Association for the purpose of furthering the intercollegiate game in this State.

John F. S. d'Aule is at the head of the movement, but before starting on the organizing scheme found that he could depend on unlimited backing from many prominent business men in this city, and in Southern California. On looking into the situation he found, as have many who have taken the same pains, that the old game has thousands of loyal supporters, who are only waiting for a chance to go to the bat and in some way aid in making intercollegiate football the big game in the West, as it is now in the East.

Before Rugby was taken up, California football was recognized in the East, but when the English game was introduced, athletics—especially football—suffered as far as carrying weight in the East went. Of course, there will be many who scoff at the present idea, but it takes a great deal more work, now, to gain notice from the eastern bodies governing sport, than it did several years ago. All of these points were brought out by D'Aule last night, and nobody can gainsay him, for it is the truth.

THE BIG PLAN.

But in regard to this association. Its scope is wide and will probably cover all the phases of American football, as the game is played by colleges and preparatory schools.

The idea in this, and, of course, involves money. All interested in the project are to subscribe to the association fund amounts varying from $1 to $100, clubs, colleges, schools and individuals may make subscriptions. The money is to be put in some bank, selected by the directors of the association, who are to be elected by popular vote of the subscribers, and the bank is to hold all money until a certain amount is raised, at the present time $1500 is set as the given sum, although the men behind the idea hope to go well above the $2000-mark by next June, and the following year to do over twice the business.

After the money has been raised, it is to be divided into $100 budgets, each hundred to be given to an athlete attending a southern High school, who is in good scholastic standing, has full graduating credits, and who would be unable to attend college without some outside means of support. Of course, he has to be a good football player. The $100 budgets are to be divided equally between Pomona, Occidental, Whittier and the University of Redlands.

ATHLETES SELECTED.

The student receiving this assistance will be selected by a board of impartial judges, who will look up his record during his high school course. The student states his preference as to the college he would like to attend, and then, if there are more men for one college than there are scholarships, the judges will select the men with the highest standing in the four years of their high school course from the number applying.

This money will go to the fortunate athlete for his freshman year only and before he will be allowed to enter the college under these conditions he must promise to remain in the institution of his choice not less than three years, that is to say, he must try for three varsity teams and during this time remain in good scholarship standing.

If the members of the association raise the amount expected it will mean that each of the four colleges in the State supporting the American game will get at least three or four good high school players for next season, and further, will have these men for the next three years, with the others as they come in, probably in greater numbers, as the amount of the general fund is increased.

Besides this phase of the subject, the association will take active steps in aiding the local prep schools who wish to return to the old game, also will aid in supplying proper officials for all the important games of the season.

A "BIG MOVEMENT."

It is apparently a big movement and shows that the American game attracted much attention in the south this season. It is no more than right that the old game should be supported in this way, when Rugby football has the Rugby Union to fall back on when in any difficulty, only the American Association, profiting by the example of the Rugby Union, expects to stay out of all intercollegiate matters and will not attempt to gain a voice in the running of the local college football season, the main object being to get the American game played through the State once more.

MAHOGANY "SKIN" FOR DEFENDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A mahogany "skin" in two thicknesses will be used, it was learned today, instead of bronze or steel, to cover the hull of the Defender, the yacht to be built at Bath, Me., for a syndicate of New York, Philadelphia and Boston men as a candidate for the defense of the America's cup.

Members of the syndicate believe the wood will give the hull a smoother finish than could be obtained from thin bronze plates exposed to the possibility of buckling away from rivets.

MIDWICK OPEN TOURNEY.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE OPEN golf tournament at the Midwick Country Club began yesterday, and there were fifty entries, about a dozen being local golf processionals. The final rounds will be played today, and $300 will be divided between the best professional scores, with cups for the best amateurs.

Play was a little heavy on account of the steady rains, but the course is a delightful one and many players are making its acquaintance this week for the first time. These open tournaments are becoming fashionable in golf circles, and it seems more than probable that the various clubs will institute a rule whereby the courtesy of each other's links will be open to resident members.

MIDWICK ELECTS GOLF CAPTAINS.

At the meeting of the Green Committee of the Midwick Country Club, C. R. Williams was elected the captain of the women's team for the year of 1914. Miss Williams succeeds Mrs. J. V. Elliot of last year.

Robert C. Hunter was elected captain of the men's team for the year of 1914. He succeeds Erwin Armstrong of last year.

BAUM IS TRADED FOR M'ARDLE AND HENLEY.

Maier, Hogan and Howard Put Through the Largest Deal of Season.

McArdle Will Succeed Horp at Short Unless Latter Can Be in Game Regularly—Howard Says Deal Will Benefit Both Clubs—Wants Baum Because "Spider" Beat Him Out of Third Place.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

THE "live-stock" market was exceedingly active yesterday. The biggest swap of the season was pulled off, Maier and Hogan slipping Del Howard, manager of the Seals, "Spider" Baum in exchange for "Cack" Henley, the veteran San Francisco pitcher, and Roy McArdle, famous as a handy man about the infield.

The papers closing the two-for-one dicker were signed late in the afternoon, after an all-day session, during which various trades were suggested and rejected by one or the other of the contracting parties.

Finally the Baum-for-McArdle-and-Henley thing was accepted as the only trade possible at this time. Negotiations, however, are not at an end, and it is possible that a second installment swap may materialize later.

GOOD TRADE, EH!

Hogan and Howard, of course, right down in the red core of their hearts, feel that they threw the hooks into the "other fellow," but they do not say so right out loud, which is very nice of them.

In speaking for publication, Hogan and Howard each modestly admits that he made a good trade, but makes haste to explain that it was a deal calculated to benefit both teams.

Howard hopes to build up his pitching staff. He regards the acquisition of Baum as a big stride in that direction. Hogan, on the other hand, was in dire need of an infielder, and McArdle seemed to measure up to the specifications. At the same time, he figures that Henley, will offset the loss of Baum. Henley refused longer to play in San Francisco, and that accounts for Howard's willingness to include him in the deal.

McArdle, while performing utility infield stunts for San Francisco the past two years, is believed to be in line for Hoop's position at short. Unless Hoop can be in the game with greater regularity than last season, it is almost certain that McArdle will become the regular shortstop, and Franz shifted back to his old field of endeavor in the utility role.

M'ARDLE'S HITTING.

McArdle is rather a light hitter, but his peer as a fielder at short has never been seen in the Coast League. He shows to far better advantage there than at first or second, positions which he has adorned at intervals in the last two seasons.

McArdle hit .212 last season, as against .265 by Hoop. Mac, however, was in 190 games, while Hoop got into action but 130 times, which gives the Mick a few points on reliability.

Baum has always wanted to play in San Francisco, and Howard has long esteemed him as one of the smartest pitchers in the business. He has nothing on Hogan, however, as Hap has always regarded "Cack" as a thing of beauty.

This in a way is explained by the fact that Henley has done his best work on the local grounds, while Baum has been most effective in San Francisco.

SPIDER UNBEATABLE.

The Seals found "Spider" practically unbeatable last season, and he really kept Howard's men out of third place. In the final series the Tigers took but two games out of seven from the Tigers, and Baum won both of them. This enabled Venice to nose out San Francisco. Thus it will be seen that one of Howard's objects in making the trade was to get Baum where he couldn't do him any more harm.

Furthermore, Howard is particularly sweet on curve-ball pitchers for this league, and the "Spider" not only has more twists than a Swiss prune bender, but he knows how to utilize them to the best advantage.

Henley is a pitcher who looks to his supporters for aid and comfort, and for that reason is doubly effective in a large park where the outfielders can get into action. Last season he was severely handicapped by the short right-field barricade in San Francisco.

"I regard Baum as one of the best pitchers in the league," said Howard, "and would a lot rather have him working for me than against me. Henley did not want to continue with the Seals, and I had one good pitcher from the Coast. I see no reason why McArdle will not be missed. I regard it as a satisfactory trade all around."

SPIDER IN FRISCO.

Hogan delved deeply into all angles of the deal, and even went so far as to consult the trade winds. After studying the elements he came to the conclusion that Baum will not be so effective in San Francisco as formerly, owing to the position of the new park.

"As a rule the batter will hit a curve ball to left field," explained Hogan. "That is where they hit them off Baum in San Francisco last season, and a strong wind was invariably blowing in from left field. This perpetual blow cut down a lot of drives and were a aid to Baum.

"In the new park there the wind blows in from right field, and helps to carry a ball driven into left. I think that we will greatly enjoy hitting curve-ball pitchers in San Francisco after this."

This certainly is a mean line of conversation to uncork even before the deal is cold.

Baum finished several points in front of Henley last season, but when their performances are closely dissected there is not enough difference to bring the blush of mortification to "Cack's" manly cheek.

HOW ABOUT HENLEY?

Of course, when it came to "remaining," Henley was distanced. Henley, to be at concert pitch, should not work more than three games in two weeks, and that was about the gait that he pursued last season. He worked in forty games, as against fifty-one for Baum, who as a long-distance toiler was surpassed only by Bill Maloney.

Baum won 21 games and lost 19 for a percentage of .542. Henley won 15 and lost the same number, which placed him in the .500 division.

Baum's opponents scored off him 140 times in 41 games, which is approximately three runs a game. Henley held the opposition to 93 runs in 46 contests, or less than two and a half runs a game. This would indicate that "Cack" lost a few hard-luck struggles.

Baum's season's strike-out record was 140, while Henley whiffed 164. Baum issued 73 passes, against 54 for Henley, an average of considerably less than two a game for each man, the same indicating that they are a couple of sure shots.

Aside from Baum's superior and shining qualities there really seems but little to choose between them.

The swap on the face of it seems to leave Maier and Hogan one utility man to the good. It remains for the coming season, however, to skin the deal down to its real merits.

McArdle, smart and aggressive, is the type of player that Hogan fancies. He served the Seals as field captain last season. Hap admits that playing first base slowed McArdle down a bit, but he figures that he will quickly regain his speed at short.

TOMMY BURNS TO MATCH ARTHUR PELKEY AT TAFT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Broken up as he is over his defeat, Arthur Pelkey has no intention of renouncing the ring. He realizes more keenly than any one else how thoroughly he failed, and the first thing he said to Burns when Tommy came into the dressing-room, was:

"You're not sore at me, are you, Tommy?"

"Listen," replied Burns. "You and I are on the same terms now as we were before the fight. You tried your best and that's all that could be asked of you."

Just now Burns is negotiating for a match between Pelkey and Kid Kenneth to take place at Taft the latter part of January. Kenneth is the oilfields heavyweight who recently secured a knockout against Charlie Horn. The Taft promoters suggested a match, and Burns is now waiting to hear from them as regards terms which he has submitted. If they are satisfactory, Pelkey will be taken to Taft and put through a course of training.

GUNBOAT AND PELKEY ARE DISAPPOINTMENTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—All the sporting editors of San Francisco agree today that yesterday's fight between Gunboat Smith and Arthur Pelkey was a disappointing exhibition. The gunner won in the fifteenth by knocking Pelkey out with a full-arm right-hand swing, followed by a clubbed right chop to the base of the skull.

Pelkey showed considerable cleverness in the first three rounds and looked as if he knew the meaning of the verb attack, but for the remainder of the fight he had absolutely nothing. There is unanimous agreement that a man who is beaten as decisively as was Pelkey by a man twenty-five pounds lighter can hope for nothing in the heavyweight division.

On the other hand there is loud complaint that, though the gunner won, he was wild as a hawk, fought wide open and would have been a mark for any man who knew how to deliver a straight punch or could tear in at the body in the clinches.

Says one writer: "Peter Maher could have whipped the gunner in a very few rounds. Tom Sharkey would have mauled him into tatters. Gunboat Smith is undoubtedly the best of all the present-day white heavyweights, but we feel sorry for the others."

MOTOR SALON OPEN MONDAY.

Portals Thrown Wide at Eight O'clock in Evening.

Nineteen-Fourteen Models in Handsome Setting.

High and Low-Priced Cars All for Examination.

BY HERT C. SMITH.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the automobile show on Monday. Sixty exhibitors will show their goods and cars from the $6000 to the $450 class will be shown. The exhibit is certain to be interesting because every prospective purchaser of a motor car can find that machine which he is expecting to buy, smartly framed in a handsome setting.

The show is to be handled by Walter Hempel, who, with the help of a committee expects to stage an exhibit that is second to none ever held here. The class of cars and the number of dealers who will show make the success of the auto salon a foregone conclusion. This is the time to see the 1914 cars and we are to have an opportunity to critically examine them.

The show is to be opened Monday evening. The doors will remain open for one week. There is to be a slight admission, but the entertainment promised is certain to be worth the price, as Manager Hempel never fails to give us our money's worth. The cars are all here and the booths are ready.

MANY CADILLACS.

Don Lee will have the largest exhibit, eight cars. The feature of his display will be the new convertible. This is an all-weather model and is designed along exclusive lines. The body can be used as an entirely closed car. A few seconds are required to lower the windows, which result in a semi-enclosed car. If a car is desired for open touring the sides and top can be thrown back in a few minutes. It is an ideal type for California and will create a big impression at the show. Don Lee is here for the exhibit and will be at the opening. There will also be shown a full line of touring cars, phaetons, coupes and roadsters.

The Simplex-Mercer Pacific Coast agency will show two Mercers, two Simplexes and a Mercer racing car. The Mercers will be a roadster of the latest type and a touring car. There will be a thirty-eight Simplex touring car and a fifty-horse power chain-drive seven-passenger model. These will be among the handsomest cars at the show.

The Fiat agency will display a large white roadster. Teddy Tetzlaff, the famous Fiat racing driver, will also attend the show afternoons and evenings, but will devote his time to the Barnes tire booth. This company promises an unusually attractive show and will offer something entirely new.

DOORS OPEN.

The finishing work will be done after midnight Sunday. The exhibitors will soon start moving their cars into place. As the show does not open until 8 o'clock Monday evening, there will be plenty of time to get everything in fine shape for the start of the show.

There will be a special musical programme each afternoon and evening and on society night, Thursday, Miss Edna Eno will be the special soloist. She has recently returned from Berlin, where she has been studying.

One of the added attractions will be the motorcycles and the new cycle cars that will be shown for the first time. Among the motorcycles will be the Yale, Indian, Thor, Pope and Excelsior.

The Pathfinder company will show three models and Walter M. Brown four. In the Stutz exhibit will be the famous Stutz racer and Earle Cooper, who drove it to victory.

The new Norwalk models will make their debut at this show and likewise will be seen for the first time the latest Moon models that have just arrived from the factory.

The accessory exhibit will be the largest ever seen in the West, and the display will be interesting and educational. The Standard Oil Company will show an oil field in full operation.

ARDEN TO PLAY THE MARATHON.

The Arden Rugby Football Club will play an exhibition Rugby match with the Marathon Club this afternoon, on Manual Arts High School ground. The kick-off will be at 2:30 o'clock.

F. J. Higgins was to have played for the Ardenites, but has cast his lot with the Marathon fifteen. E. Fishburn, who played such a slashing game at Glendale last Sunday, will take the vacant position.

The Arden team will be handicapped by the loss of Gerald Blue, one of the star three-quarter backs of the Pacific Coast. Blue has dislocated his right thumb and may not be able to participate in any more Rugby games this season.

The Arden line-up will be as follows: F. H. Palmer, captain; C. A. H. Narlian, C. Baronidis, W. Henry, H. Blue, H. Henry, T. E. Murray, T. King, L. Grant, C. E. Rosraw, P. Shoedy, W. C. Fustleir, E. Fishburn, K. Elliot, A. P. M. Narlian, C. P. Peters, E. J. Orth, G. W. McKenzie, J. A. Dewar, and if possible, Gerald Blue.

FOR THE HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP.

A championship hockey game will be played at Duarte this afternoon between Manual Arts High School and Duarte. The "bully-off" will be at 3:30 o'clock. This match is for the Nell Nettleship trophy and the ladies' hockey championship of Southern California.

The Duarte eleven has never been beaten and has held the cup for the past two years. The cup will be theirs for keeps if they manage to beat Manual Arts High this season. The latter team took second place last year and up to date heads all the women's teams in Southern California.

These two teams will play on a new ground, as the old Bradbury field has been built upon. Miss Alice Scott and Miss Lyla Johnson, the rival captains, will put their very strongest teams in the field, as much depends upon the issue of this game.

SANTA BARBARA AND PASADENA.

LAST GAME OF ROUND ROBIN TOURNAMENT.

Capt. Cookson of Pasadena Is Expected to Prove a Tower of Strength to His Team—The Clubs Are Evenly Matched, However, and the Game Should Be a Hummer.

BY WILLIAM HENRY.

The final game of the round robin polo tournament at Pasadena is to be played at Pasadena this afternoon, barring unforeseen occurrences such as rain.

Santa Barbara and Pasadena have been waiting for so long to get a crack at each other that there ought to be a regular riot when the two teams meet.

The teams are very evenly matched in every respect. On mere dope Pasadena would look to have the edge because of its defeat of the strong Midwick team in the first game of the tournament, but it must be remembered that at that time the Midwick team was not putting up the wonderful game that it showed in its later matches against Riverside and Santa Barbara.

The Santa Barbara team shines especially on its teamwork, as Dr. Boeseke and Elmer Boeseke work like a couple of cogwheels at the two back positions, while Dabney and Parke are both showing much improved form over their first appearances.

Dr. Boucher is showing unexpected strength at No. 4, for Pasadena, his hard riding and heavy hitting being the real feature of the Pasadena-Riverside game. Capt. Cookson at No. 3 is a tower of strength, because of his experience and accurate hitting.

Dr. Malaby is a steady player who is always on the job and feeding the ball to his team-mates. Bobby Nenstadt, with his fine mounts and fine knowledge of the game, is the scoring star of the aggregation, and if he has sufficiently recovered from his broken ribs should prove the feature of the game.

On the whole the teams are so evenly matched that neither would seem to have the edge and the game should be a hummer from the start.

CONTRACT JUMPERS TO BE PROSECUTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National League ball club, today served notice on the ball players under contract with the club that he would take legal steps to prevent any players deserting to the Federal League if any should attempt to do so. Letters were mailed to each man on the club roster notifying him that he was expected to fulfill the contract held by the club.

"The Chicago club," Murphy wrote, "not only has a moral but a legal right to your services. This is to inform you that this right will be protected to the fullest extent of the law."

"One thing is sure, and that is that no player who jumps his contract, and that includes the legal option to reserve his services, and all other parts as well, will be allowed to play elsewhere.

"In other words, if the Chicago National League club is raided by persons having the instinct of pirates, the law of the land will be invoked for its protection."

WHITTIER HIGH HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

The Whittier High School basketball season will start tonight when Coach Wilson's boys meet the High School alumni team on the Whittier court. It is merely a practice game but it will tend to put the High School team in good shape for their league games.

Last year Whittier had a very successful season, winning the Southern California championship and from present indications, it looks as though they would repeat that performance this year. They have several veterans in the lineup, which should help in building up the team this year.

Master Coming.

BILLIARD CHAMP ALLEN TO PLAY HERE NEXT WEEK.

BENNIE ALLEN, the young pocket-billiard champion of the world, is engaged to play a three nights' engagement here next week and the week following, when he is to meet the best local experts, including George Banks, Pacific Coast champion; George Kirkland, challenger for that title, and James Morley, ex-champion of the Coast.

H. B. Allen, father and manager of the champion, arrived in the city yesterday morning, and immediately entered into an arrangement brought about by Morley and Alf. Mackenzie, providing for the exhibition games, which are to be played in a special arena to be erected on the floor above Morley's Billiard Palace, with seating capacity of 400.

Moderate prices are to be charged for a view of the contests, which are certain to rank as the best yet produced here in the popular and difficult pocket game. Young Allen is conceded by the great De Oro to be the master of all proficients at the game, and probably the best ever known. The men named as his opponents are also recognized as the most skilled players on the Coast, with ability to compel the best efforts of the Kansas City man in keeping them down.

Dates of the games are named as Friday, January 9; Monday, January 12, and Tuesday, January 13. All occur in the evening, with exhibitions of fancy shots by Allen, following the 150 balls constituting a match.

Allen is but 28 years of age, and his proud position in the game of greatest science affords an instructive example of what clean life gives. He neither drinks intoxicating liquors, nor uses tobacco in any from. His habits assured the company of gentlemen, and his attainments elevate his chosen pastime.

Allen defeated De Oro for the world title and trophy last October, with a score of 600 to 511. He is matched to defend Maturo's challenge at Seattle, commencing January 25. After his matches here he is to play a week in San Francisco, when he expects to commence serious practice for the Maturo contest.

BRITISH BURN TO DEFEAT OUIMET.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—If Francis Ouimet, open champion of the golf links of the United States, carries out his announced intention of crossing the Atlantic next spring to compete for the amateur championship of the British Isles, he will be welcomed for two reasons, says the Cincinnati Inquirer. On the score of courtesy, admiration and curiosity, to see the juvenile wonder that beat two of Britain's greatest exponents of St. Andrew's game, the American boy will be welcomed. But he will be doubly welcomed because Britain's amateur talent is sanguine of having a sportsmanlike revenge for the humiliation young Ouimet put upon British golf last September at Brookline.

Over the wine and walnuts the real inside dope is that the front rank of British amateur golf does not take Ouimet any too seriously, and has it all figured out that he will get beaten good and plenty at Sandwich Bay next spring. This belief is based on two theories, one of which is that Ouimet will have acquired some golf nerves by the time he gets into the British amateur championship competition—it is match play, not medal play—and will not be likely to reproduce the superb form he flashed upon the golf world in the American open championship play.

The other theory of the British amateur thirty-third-degree golfer is that the sand hills, the whole gulf breezes off the sea, and other difficulties to be encountered at Sandwich Bay will bring about the clever American youngster's downfall almost to a certainty.

KIRKLAND BEATS GREER AT ODDS.

George Kirkland astonished L. E. Greer and his friends last night at the Majestic by winning his handicap game at pocket billiards in the ratio of three points to one—the exact figures of this most decisive of his handicap series being seventy-five balls to twenty-six gained by Greer.

Fourteen innings sufficed, during which Kirkland made high runs of 24, 13 and 11. He scratched twice, played safe twice, and missed eight shots.

Greer made no runs above five. He made no scratches, played safe six times, and missed eight attempted plays.

A Schols has been matched again against Kirkland for Tuesday night's handicap.

CULVER CITY CO. WILL HOLD RACE.

A Marathon race, open to all Southern California amateur runners, will take place Saturday, January 17.

The course will extend from the Harry H. Culver Company at Sixth and Hill streets to Culver City, a distance of seven and one-half miles.

Five large cups are to me awarded as trophies and the sixth and seventh prizes will be medals.

The race will be sanctioned by the A.A.U. and entries are expected from all High Schools and athletic clubs within 100 miles.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the offices of the Harry H. Culver Company, second floor of the Hollingsworth building.

REVOLVER RECORDS.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Jan. 1.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Smith & Wessons of this city claim three world's pistol records, as a result of their United States Revolver League match tonight. They shot 1184 against the Manhattan, P. J. Delfen set the other records, 284 for twenty-five shots, and 479 for fifty.

Too Big.

BUD ANDERSON SHOULD FIGHT AS MIDDLE-WEIGHT.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

WELL, what do you think of Bud Anderson now? was asked many times yesterday. The only answer is, we hope we will see no more of Bud as a so-called boxer, or fighter either, for that matter.

Bud has been badly managed from the start. In the first place he has been trying to worm his way into the lightweight class ever since he appeared in this part of the country. He is big enough to fight any middleweight if he could be considered again as a boxer.

The Cross-Anderson match was another sample of allowing a man to enter the ring without the slightest knowledge of the game. He was also allowed to train all the strength he had out of his strong body, and enter the ring in a weakened condition.

This is poor match-making. He has been touted by press agents as a coming champion of his class.

He gave a fine exhibition of so-called modern boxing. There was also another of his class that was allowed to appear. George Moss, an ex-wrestler, was allowed to try to box Solly Burns. Moss knew fully as little as Bud.

Freddy Welsh made a showing New Year's Day against Johnny Dundee that will make them all sit up and take notice. Dundee is one of the fastest and toughest lightweights in the country to beat, but according to the accounts Freddy had little trouble in winning. He has been after Willie Ritchie for the past year, but for some reason or other Willie passes him up every time.

Welsh has done enough to be given a chance to a try for the championship, and is more entitled to it than any man in the world, not even barring Ad Wolgast, who lost it to Ritchie. Freddy holds a twenty-round decision over Willie, still Willie refuses to meet him.

DAN O'LEARY DEFIES 'EM ALL.

Dan O'Leary, 70 years old, challenges any man in the world, regardless of age, to walk 1000 miles for a side bet of $1000. He says the race should be held in Los Angeles, as this city is the greatest spot in the world for pedestrians.

O'Leary will be 71 years old June 29, 1914. He has been walking since he was 9 months old.

Edward Payson Weston, also famous as a long-distance walker, has met defeat three times at the hands of O'Leary.

O'Leary won his first big race in London in 1878 when Sir John Astley put up a belt and $20,000 in cash for a six-day race. There were twenty Englishmen in the race and he was the only American. His share of the cash was $8000.

He wants to race once more before the public and then he will go into retirement. He states that a certain man in this city will place $5000 as a purse for a free-for-all race between heel-and-toe walkers, and O'Leary is anxious that this race be pulled off.

WOLGAST-RIVERS TO BOX AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unless Joe Rivers, the Los Angeles Mexican fighter, undergoes a change of heart between now and January 12, he will battle Ad Wolgast ten rounds at the Milwaukee Auditorium on that date. Temporary articles were drawn up today, Tom Jones consenting to the match for the Michigan boy, while a telegram from Joe Levy, Rivers's manager, stated that the terms were satisfactory to him. Jones, who with Willard, leaves for Los Angeles tomorrow night, will personally present the articles to the Mexican.

It was the promoter's intention of staging a Wolgast-Ritchie contest in the Cream City, but a wire from the champion's manager, Harry Foley, stated that Ritchie would not consider the go unless given a guarantee of $10,000.

PIOMBO THROWS PROCAS.

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 2.—Giovanni Piombo defeated Jim Procas of Long Beach at Eagles Hall last night. The first fall came in twelve minutes, with a half Nelson and crotch hold. The second fall was won in six minutes with a toe hold. Piombo was to have wrestled Fritz Roeber, but the German strained his arm while training and was unable to go on the mat.

Anderson's "Indulgence."

A writer unfamiliar with Bud Anderson's mode of life expressed the opinion that his energies had been wasted in indulgent living. If getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning and milking cows is indulgent living, then Bud is guilty.

CARPENTIER MAY COME TO AMERICA.

We may soon look upon the Champion d'Europe et Champion du Monde (bos Francaise.) Yeastr Georges Carpentier may soon appear in this country. That brilliant French boy recently overdid himself in his assimilation of American fighting methods and was set down for nine months by the French Boxing Commission (or "faking." There is much talk of matching him with "Gunboat" Smith, and if this is done, the fight would have to be held either at the National Sporting Club in London or here, with the chances favoring this country.

Monsieur Francois Descamps, Carpentier's teacher and manager, has announced himself as being willing to match his protege with the "Gunner," so, as good old Billy Jordan always says, "Let 'er go!"

Georges Carpentier, who is now champion of Europe by virtue of his two startling knockouts of Bombardier Wells, is really a great fighter. Probably no other fighter has had as meteoric a career. Carpentier, who is only 19 years old now, has been bobbing up and down on the waves of popularity since he was 12 years old. He has suffered all the vicissitudes of fortune. He has been the French champion of every class from the bantam to the heavyweight, which he now holds despite the fact that he only weighs about 170 pounds. He has engaged in but seventy-one battles, winning sixty-three of them, twenty by the knockout route, and lost eight times, suffering knockouts in two of them and throwing up the sponge in three of them. The two "O's" may be excused in his case by the fact that he was only 14 years old at the time.

Georges Carpentier was born January 12, 1894, at Lievin, France. He was destined to become a miner, as was his father, who, however, gave up mining to move to Lens, where he opened a cafe. Little Georges was sent to school, where his pugnacious nature and lively disposition made him the terror of the teacher and the school. At the age of 9 he joined the Society de Gymnastique, where he first became interested in the new sport that had just arrived in France—boxing. Little Georges was a demon from the start, and mastered the new game so well that at the youthful age of 12 years he made his debut as a prize fighter at Bethune, December 4, 1906.

Three months later the little fellow competed in a tournament for the bantam championship of France, and was defeated only by Mazoire, who was 20 years old, and much bigger. Carpentier weighed but seventy-five pounds at the time. However, on March 21, 1908, one year later, he was proclaimed amateur champion of France at Paris.

Reverses in the family interrupted little Georges's career and he had to go to work in the mines to help provide for the family. For six months the sturdy lad stood the dark grind before he broke away to follow his heart's desire with the squared circle. He turned professional now, and won his first battle for a purse of $60. From then he rose fast.

Carpentier won the French featherweight title on June 24, 1909, by knocking out Wetlink in a round. Soon after he beat Le Doux, the aggressive little chap who received such a raw deal recently in this country. He won the lightweight crown the same year from Paul Til, and on February 29, 1912, he won the middleweight championship of Europe from the Englishman, Jim Sullivan, at Monte Carlo.

The only ones who have been able to defeat him were the three Americans, Papke, Klaus and the Dixie Kid. In return he has beaten Harry Lewis, Willie Lewis, George Gunther and Jeff Smith, proving that he learned the lessons he received from the Americans.

The writer was a guest at Carpentier's home in Paris this year, and was much impressed with the intelligence of the French idol. He lives nes rthe Ark de Triumphe, at No. 30 Rue Brunnel, and maintains exquisite apartments for his parents, his wife, and their little boy. Although he has been in many a tough battle, the nice-looking Georges has not a mark to show for it. He is undoubtedly the last one you would pick out as a fighter; with his nobby clothes fitting him to perfection, he appears slight and small, and carries himself like a gentleman. His manner is soft, and his ways polite, encored by a perpetual smile. After 6 o'clock you will always find him in evening dress, a distinct emphasis to the fact that the style of fighters has changed from the roughneck to the sublime. He deserves a place at the head of the class of McFarland, Ritchie, Kilbane, Gibbons and Coulon. I might cite an incident that exposes the one great secret of his success as a boxer—his brains.

OLD AMERICA TO SAIL AGAIN.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

BOSTON, Dec. 25.—Sixty-two years ago last August the schooner yacht America won the famous trophy bearing her name in a race round the Isle of Wight, seventeen vessels competing.

The America, now practically forgotten, is to be sailed round the course when the Shamrock IV. battles the defender off Sandy Hook next fall.

This sensational statement was made yesterday in a gathering of yachtsmen. The Hon. Butler Ames, owner of the schooner, will, it is expected, loan the old war horse for a spectacle that should attract a multitude of yachtmen.

The yacht can be placed in trim at small outlay of time and money, it is believed. A sailing master and crew may be secured without much difficulty for the series that is to settle the destiny of the Miss ribbon trophy of the sea—for a year, at least.

The America is now moored at Summer street bridge, near the South station. She is housed under a shed that conceals deck and structure. Little more than the spars and the ornate stern are visible. The fabric is as weather-stained and unkempt as the near-by hulks that rot and rise and fall with the tides. Once a week a caretaker from a suburban town crawls under the shed and pumps the schooner's bilge. Otherwise the once queen of the sea is neglected.

MAY HAVE OLD CAPTAIN.

When Gen. B. F. Butler owned the America, following tragic experiences in southern waters during the war, Capt. "Jim" Reed was her sailing master. Capt. Reed is now a Boston pilot attached to one of the schooners that man out for incoming foreign ships. Yachtsmen interested in rejuvenating the America suggest that Capt. Reed be "borrowed" to handle the vessel and select a crew for the cup event.

Right here it may be stated that the America is not expected to prove a speed demon compared with the modern seventy-five-footers that will struggle for the cup. The yacht will be brought out to afford the world a striking comparison, a vessel three-score years old and a type representing highest skill in naval architecture, coupled with the best construction obtainable. The America may surprise the public on a reach or run, claim yachtsmen. But on a thresh she must naturally be left hopelessly astern.

The Ames yacht is said to be practically the same, so far as her underwater body is concerned, as when in 1851 she swept over a course of fifty-three nautical miles and easily established her supremacy. The craft has been twice rebuilt, however. In 1855 she received extensive repairs. Later, after becoming property of Gen. Butler, she was taken to the Charleston navy yard and overhauled. Again, under supervision of Edward Burgess, alterations were made at an East Boston yard, where the ends were changed and the excessive rake of masts corrected.

TO DUPLICATE ORIGINAL.

These changes may not materially affect the original form, but opinion may differ in yachting circles on that important matter. Men who claim the America as an attraction in the 1914 contest are willing to restore the masts, provide a sail plan identical to the original, and, so far as possible, bring out an America that closely duplicates the original.

The America as she now lies, has not much value beyond historic associations. The owner has expressed no desire to part with her, however, when approacheod by men who fancied the wacht might be placed in condition for fishing or strengthened into a cargo carrier. A deaf ear has been turned to every proposition since the yacht was placed out of commission some fifteen years ago, and went into retirement alongside the bulkhead of Chalsea bridge, where she remained till construction of a new structure across the Mystic River made her removal to Summer-street bridge imperative.

SHALL COACHES SIT ON BENCH?

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 30.—Opinions of eastern baseball captains are divided on the question, "Shall the professional coach be kept from the bench at college baseball games?" The Harvard, Princeton and Amherst captains are not enthusiastic over the adoption of the innovation, while at Yale, Pennsylvania, Brown, Dartmouth and Williams it is favored. Capt. Blossom of the Yale nine writes in the Yale Daily News of the movement:

"I am decidedly in favor of this plan of both teams keeping their coaches from the players' bench, for after the game is over the players will all know that the result of the game was due to their efforts and not to help received during the game from the more experienced professional coach. Not only does this plan put an added responsibility on both the captains and the players, but it will mean that more stress will be put on co-operation and team play. With this in view through the early part of the season, the players will learn to depend on themselves and will develop a greater feeling of self-reliance."

Capt. Rhoads of the Princeton team writes: "It is the nine men on the field and what they do that is going to win or lose the game. The accusation that a college baseball game is merely a battle of wits between the coaches is one of the worst pieces of ignorance I ever heard. I do not think, however, that the matter should be considered from another point of view—the coach's. He has worked all year as hard, or harder, than anyone, for the success of the team, and he is just as anxious to win as any man; then, when the team, which is largely his product, faces the crucial test he is relegated to the background as a mere spectator. A football coach has access to his men between the halves or indirectly at any time. So it seems to me that the proposed action is somewhat unjust to the coach."

BROCK'S SLEEP-WALKING BATTLE.

Some trainers and managers of boxers frequently relate good yarns at the expense of their charges, while others keep closed mouths, and enjoy the fun alone, writes Walter Kelly in a Cleveland paper. Dave Langman, manager of Phil Brock, is one of the latter. He has never told any of his friends that Phil talks in his sleep and at times fights his battles all over again on retiring to the arms of Morpheus after the contests.

At Akron last Thursday night, where Brock boxed Matty Baldwin, the writer chanced to occupy the room next to Brock's in an Akron hotel. Along about 2 o'clock in the morning I was suddenly awakened from a sound slumber by a series of whoops from the next room. They were followed by the sounds of a desperate scuffle. I bounded out onto the floor and was about to call the clerk, when I recognized Phil Brock's familiar voice as he shouted: "That was a peach. You take this, and this, and that, and——"

Just then Manager-Trainer Langman cried out: "Hey, there, whatin-'ell's the matter with you, Phil. Say, are you——"

Biff, bang, bang, r'r'r'rip, and for a few seconds I thought the bed was being smashed to pieces. A few more ejaculations from Langman, and all was quiet, and I retired under the bedclothes again. Some time later there was almost a repetition of the previous racket, with the additional remark by Phil: "I guess they believe now that Brock has got his old snap back."

I was told next day that Langman slept on the floor after the second round, and the boys about the Perry Athletic Club noticed that he was a trifle bent over in his walk, the result of some of the jolts he received in the ribs in that nocturnal conflict.

ENGLISH COPY YANKEE BOXERS.

England seems to be waking up to the fact that its boxing style is antiquated. The victory of Carpenter over Bomb. Wells has aroused considerable discussion on the other side relative to the merits of the American and British styles, and some of the sporting authorities of Albion have arrived at a belated conclusion that it will be necessary for the English boxers to give up their old traditional style of attack and defense and copy the skill, speed and defense of the American boxers.

The American style of boxing is rather hard to define. With the splendid adaptability marking all American sports, American boxers have taken from the boxers of other nations what was regarded as good and rejected what appeared to be worthless or anything tending toward rigidity of pose of muscle and sinew or other tiring and non-punishing methods. The Australians have imparted a wonderful amount of boxing instruction to American fighters, while the individuality and inventive resource of men like Corbett, McCoy, Lavigne, Gans, and latterly McFarland, have been adopted as models by all weights, ranks and grades of American boxers.

England, though, seems tradition-bound in sporting and athletic affairs, and has clung tenaciously to old methods. Boxing had advanced wonderfully since the days of Figg and Bendigo, or even Jem Mace. Men like Fitzsimmons and Griffo have contributed their share to American boxing, as have such Australians as Tracey and Creedon. England, though, has watched these same men of the colonies, but failed to improve by adapting the best of their work.

Now, though, the English seem to be awake and some of these days we will have an English fighter showing a defensive crouch or a boxed-up shell or the corkscrew punch or the Fitzsimmons or Ketchal shift instead of the straight up and up form of boxing the English have followed so long—and so disastrously.

1708 YALE ATHLETES.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 30.—Athletics—diversion at Yale is not alone confined to the men on the various teams as recent statistics compiled on the subject show that 1708 students out of a registration of 3262 took part in some form of exercises in the present year.

Messrs. Smith and Proctor, owners of the great pacer, Grand Opera, have just succeeded in having a company incorporated in Canada for the purpose of purchasing land and building a race track in Toronto. It has long been the ambition of these well-known horsemen to bring the American Grand Circuit events to the Canadian City.

German breeders had already expended something like $450,000 in English blood stock this season, but were again extensive purchasers at the Newmarket December sales.

Harold MacGrath's Latest and Greatest Serial Story Starts in Next Sunday's Times

Harold MacGrath, the famous author of "The Man on the Box," has written a new story. It is a story so intensely human in its situations, so unusual in its setting, and is told so fascinatingly by this master writer of fiction that it holds you spellbound from the opening sentence to the happy finale on the last page. Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it the greatest novel that MacGrath has ever written.

There is nothing of the 'problem' story or the 'historical novel' in this great piece of fiction. It doesn't load your mind with abstruse theories or intricate analysis. It is just a story—nothing more—but a story so wholesome, so natural, so true to the best impulses of the human heart—so filled with the spirit of wild adventure and love and intrigue—that when you once start it you simply can't lay it aside. You laugh and cry—you clinch your fists in anger and you want to whoop for joy—and when the last page is finished you say to yourself—"Why can't I get hold of more stories like that?"

"The Adventures of Kathlyn"

The Wonderful Story of Love and Adventure That Has Been Dramatized by The Selig Polyscope Co. and Is Now Being Played at the Leading Motion Picture Theaters

When the manuscript of this great story was finished the dramatic rights were purchased at once by the Selig Polyscope Co., a famous playright prepared it for the motion picture stage, and the play is now being witnessed by millions of people at leading motion picture theaters all over the country, with the beautiful Kathlyn Williams—the greatest of all motion picture actresses—playing the part of the heroine. The play is so long that it takes 26 full-length reels to present it and it is therefore being shown in installments, two reels at a time, at intervals two weeks apart. It is the longest and most pretentious drama ever put on the motion picture stage.

So now you can get double the enjoyment from this fascinating story that you've ever gotten from a novel before. For you cannot only follow the heroine in the story through all her wonderful adventures—from her beautiful home in California to the dense jungles of Allaha and among the savage tribes of Hindustan—but you can actually see her in your favorite motion picture theater—see Kathlyn herself with your own eyes in every hair-breadth adventure and thrilling escape from jungle beast and Hindu brigand. Installments of the story will appear in "The Times" every Sunday, keeping pace with the dramatized version as it appears at the motion picture theaters.

RODGERS PARK
RODGERS PARK

In Rodgers Park several hundred bungalows have been built and the majority of them sold. The streets are well made, sidewalks, curbs, parkings, lawns and trees are in. All city conveniences, gas, water, telephone, electricity (poles at the rear); several fine stores, beautiful buildings, churches and schools near. Two street car lines 3-cent fare.

Rodgers Park has proved the building bit of the southwest district of Los Angeles. In two years it has been built from an alfalfa field to a beautiful city district of cozy and attractive bungalows.

Rodgers Park was planned and built as a home location for people of moderate means and yet persons who want attractive surroundings.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Santa At Plaza Church.

Santa Claus is scheduled to make a visitation to the old Plaza Church this afternoon at 2 o'clock, coming over the roof in the approved nursery tale fashion. He will bear gifts for all the 1000 children connected with the parish, and Bishop Conaty will speak to the little folks about the first Christmas at Bethlehem.

Wiley's Appointment.

Police Surgeon Wiley has made two temporary appointments to his staff of Receiving Hospital surgeons. Succeeding Dr. Charles F. Nelson, who withdrew at the beginning of the Wiley regime, is Dr. A. Edward Roome, a former railroad surgeon with the Santa Fe system, who recently made a remarkable record in surgery at the California Hospital. To fill the position left vacant by the advancement of Dr. Wiley, Dr. Ray H. Johnson has been appointed. The method of conducting the hospital is to be completely reorganized, and many improvements suggested by Police Surgeon Wiley will be put into effect.

Transferred to Manila.

Philip A. Scholl, for eight years chief of finance in the United States Army Department Quartermaster's office at Omaha, is visiting relatives at No. 1501 Santee street, this city, before leaving with his family for Manila, where he is to occupy a similar position in the department of the Philippines. He sails, with his wife and two children from San Francisco on the transport Logan Monday. Scholl is a nephew of Dr. John T. Scholl, a well known physician and pioneer of this city. He entered the service at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

KILLED BY ELECTRIC TRAIN.

Man Said to Have Been a Preacher at Pasadena Run Over at Latin Station.

F. D. Werner, 40 years old, said to have been a preacher at the Nazarene University, Pasadena, was instantly killed last night by a three-car Pacific Electric Long Beach train at Latin station.

Werner, according to Motorman Wilson, was running across the four-track system and was in the direct line of the train on the last spur before the cars could be brought to a stop.

PERSONALS.

Arrivals at the Alexandria yesterday included Admiral Sebree, retired, of Coronado, and his brother, Attorney G. M. Sebree, of Springfield, Mo.; Attorney Frank H. Short of Fresno, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. A. Warner of East Orange, N. J., and Sylvanus L. Watson, a coal mine operator, and Mrs. Watson, of Fairmont, W. Va.

J. Shakespeare of San Francisco, member of the State Railway Commission, is at the Van Nuys, as are also Mr. and Mrs. Solon Spiro of Salt Lake City and Miss J. E. McMath of Uplands.

Attorney D. H. Telford of Phoenix and J. L. Clark, a Philadelphia manufacturer, are at the Angelus. Clark is here for the winter season.

W. A. and J. M. Griffin, brothers, and land dealers, of Madero, are at the Hayward. Others there are E. F. Thompson, a mine operator of Kingman, Ariz.; L. A. Wilhelm, a shoe manufacturer of San Francisco, and Max Zempleberg, a merchant of Colton.

O. E. Bird, a real estate dealer of San Diego, and C. N. Vance, manager of Arrowhead Hot Springs Hotel, motored to Los Angeles from the resort and are at the Westminster.

Arrivals at the Hollenbeck yesterday included Dr. H. L. Hewitson, surgeon for the Salt Lake Railroad at Las Vegas, Nev.; John S. Ackerman, an iron foundry owner of San Diego; A. J. Snow, a wealthy bean grower of Oxnard; Frank Cheney, an oil operator of Coalinga, and H. Schley, a building contractor of Ventura.

Miss Marion H. Siegel will leave Monday for Palo Alto, where she is attending Miss Harker's Preparatory School. Miss Siegel has been entertained almost constantly since reaching home for the holidays.

STOCKHOLDERS IN NEAR RIOT.

"PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION" HAS HOT SESSION.

Committee's Candidate for Board Denounced and Windy Allender Choked Off—New Directorate Discusses Place for Annual Meeting to Be Held Next Saturday.

A near-riot was precipitated at a meeting of about 600 stockholders in Blanchard Hall last night, called by the so-called Stockholders' Protective Association. S. S. Hahn, of 405 International Bank building, got a place on the platform and denounced U. S. Frye, one of the candidates for a place on the directorate.

Another lively incident was that wherein windy Frank Allender was shut off from a bombastic flow of oratory and told to take his talk to the United States District Attorney.

"We've got business to do here; let that man talk somewhere else," called out one man, and he was loudly cheered. Allender said he was just going to read them the code, but now he wouldn't do it, and they could just go without knowing the law, so there!

The real purpose of the meeting was to secure proxies from the stockholders, so that the officers of the "association" might vote them as a cumulative ballot to place at least one man on the board.

A committee had been appointed to present names from which to select one or two men for prospective places. This committee had received the nominations of William M. Swanson, U. S. Frye, P. J. Trask, Frederick Freeman Wheeler, W. A. Spalding, Reynold E. Blight, L. C. Brand and J. F. Sartori. It presented as its choice the names of Swanson and Frye.

Those giving proxies were asked to designate their choice for directors, but with the placing of proxies they give over full power to the officers of the "association" to use these as they see fit.

There was much discussion as to whether the stockholders should try to elect a full board composed of Investors in the company before it got into finaicial difficulties, or whether the efforts should be concentrated on one or two candidates.

At the close of the meeting a resolution was adopted declaring it to be the sense of the stockholders present that a full new board should be elected composed of bona fide investors in the company's stocks, and that the suits for the return of stock alleged to have been wrongly issued be pushed to a decision.

After the announcement of the committee's choice of the names of Swanson and Frye was made, Hahn walked out upon the stage and declared Frye was not a fit man to represent the stockholders, as he had sold Hahn stock in the Conservative Investment Company at 34 cents when he knew it was not worth 2 cents.

Hahn was insistent and appeared to have many supporters in the house, but he was choked off and finally grabbed by one of the men on the stage, lifted bodily off his feet and thrown into an ante-room. A woman moved that Hahn be given five minutes more time, and this went through with a whoop. Hahn returned to the charge. Then Frye denied all the allegations.

Frye declares his name was used without his consent as an officer of the Conservative concern, while he was in San Diego, and that he had it removed as soon as he discovered it. He declares he never sold Hahn any stock in this concern.

Closing his statement, Frye said:

"If I'm elected—"

"Oh, don't worry—you won't be," came back calls from the excited audience.

The spirited wrangles continued long after the meeting adjourned.

At yesterday's meeting of the new directorate of the Los Angeles Investment Company there was considerable discussion as to the place to be selected for the annual meeting. According to Austin Martin, manager of the company, there may be between 2000 and 3000 present.

Among the properties of the company is the lot at Tenth and Broadway where is located a skating rink. It is believed this will hold 3000 persons. The meeting will be held the 10th inst. Before that date a definite place of meeting will be selected if the rink is deemed too small and notice will be given through the press.

Former Senator Flint, president of the Planada Development Corporation, spoke at some length concerning the plans of that concern and told what is done for its future success.

The directors went over a mass of details which kept the board in session until nearly 7 o'clock. The next meeting will be Tuesday afternoon.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Jan. 2.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.05; at 5 p.m., 30.04. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 52 deg. and 58 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 94 per cent.; 5 p.m., 87 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., west, velocity 2 miles; 5 p.m., south, velocity 7 miles. Highest temperature, 62 deg.; lowest, 51 deg. Rainfall for season, 4.69 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

EVENING BULLETIN.—Friday, January 2, 1914. WEATHER: Weather reports this evening indicate that the storm which was central over the State of Washington this morning will follow the course by the one that passed to the eastward earlier in the week. The center of low pressure is just north of Idaho and the depression seems to be slowly filling up. Rain has fallen during the last twenty-four hours over the Pacific Coast from the Tehachepi northward; the following amounts being reported from stations in California: San Francisco, 0.70; San Luis Obispo, 0.68; Fresno, 0.20, and Independence, 0.02 of an inch. It was raining at Fresno, Independence and San Luis Obispo at 5 o'clock p.m. The indications are that cloudy and threatening conditions will prevail over Los Angeles and vicinity Saturday, with a possibility of showers.

AUTO VICTIM MISSING.

Sheriff's Office Seeks Motorist and Man Said to Have Been Perhaps Fatally Injured.

Deputy sheriffs began an investigation last night of a mysterious automobile accident on Wilshire boulevard, just outside the city limits, where a pedestrian, as yet unidentified and unlocated, is reported to have been struck by a machine.

The injured man, according to the story telephoned from a number of sources to the Sheriff's office, was picked up, apparently near death, and spirited away in the machine which struck him.

Search of the hospitals and inquiry at the Coroner's office were unavailing, and the motorist is now wanted for having failed to report the accident.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

CITY LOSES AGAIN.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the opinion of Superior Judge Finlayson in favor of the plaintiff, in the action brought by Jennie S. Walker against the city of Los Angeles and the Board of Public Works to resist the payment of an assessment for the opening of Twelfth street. It was claimed by the plaintiff that the assessment under which the sale of the plaintiff's property was threatened to be made was void by reason of the fact that the description of the proposed assessment district, as contained in the ordinance of intention, was indefinite and uncertain. Judge Finlayson held that the objection was well taken, and that view has been confirmed by the higher court.

One Freed, One Held.

United States Commissioner Williams yesterday discharged Cipriano Vergas and held Bernardo Huera to the Federal grand jury on the charge of passing a counterfeit $20 gold note. The evidence showed that Huera passed two of the bad bills in the saloon district on North Main street, but there was not sufficient evidence to hold Vargas, who was an acquaintance of Huera, but his connection with the crime could not be established.

PROFIT IN FINING SPEEDERS.

According to a report filed yesterday by Herbert Drew, superintendent of the District Attorney's motorcycle squad, $26,002 was collected in fines during 1913. The salaries of officers totaled $13,000, and repairs and other expenses were about $1000. There were 4316 arrests for speeding during the year.

DEBTS CAUSE OF SUICIDE.

The necessity to meet many creditors who insisted on a settlement of accounts at the first of the year induced Robert Kyle, 66 years old, to go to the rear of his hardware store at No. 3115 South Vermont avenue and shoot himself. He used an old revolver that had been in the family for some three generations. It had been primed and filled through the years. William G. Randall, Kyle's nephew, who was employed as clerk, was in the store at the time of the suicide.

FARISS ON HIS THE GA

Bandit and Murde by Judge Cr

Friends and Maudlin Sy Desperado Endeavor to C Are Sternly Dealt with by Effort to Prove Insanity

JUSTICE triumphed over frenzied sentimentality yesterday afternoon when Superior Judge Gavin W. Craig sentenced Ralph Fariss, alias Hatick, train robber and wanton slayer of H. E. Montague, to hang on the scaffold at San Quentin within sixty days. For the second time within six days Fariss heard the death sentence passed upon him. The perfumed prattlings of the cohorts of mawkish sentiment to save the bandit murderer failed to sway Judge Craig or Dist.-Atty. Fredericks from their conception of what is their sworn duty to uphold the law and meta out justice.

Ex-Judge Wheaton A. Gray, attorney for Fariss, gave notice that he will immediately file an appeal from the judgment with the Supreme Court of the State. Judge Craig will sign the death warrant today and Under Sheriffs Brain and Deputy Frank Cochran will probably take the condemned man north tonight.

Fariss faced the judge without a tremor while sentence was being pronounced. His big hands were clasped behind his back, his shoulders erect and with his steely eyes riveted on the face to be heard the solemn words of the judge ordering the warden of San Quentin "to hang you, Ralph Fariss, by the neck until you are dead." The father, who has made a brave fight to save his son from the gallows, sobbed during the dramatic proceedings. His tear-dimmed eyes gazed steadily on the young man.

DISORDER IN COURT.

A gang of I.W.W. loafers, friends of Fariss from Bakersfield, and a score of female worshipers of the murderer, created a disorderly scene in the courtroom while Attorney Gray was making an impassioned plea for mercy, and it required the services of fifteen deputies to quell the outbreak. The courtroom was in an uproar as Ex-Judge Gray completed his address in defense of Fariss. Cheers burst from the men and women who had packed the room for the express purpose of making a demonstration to show their contempt for law and order. Fariss, startled, jumped to his feet, and in an instant the sixteen officers under the direction of Under

FARISS ON HIS WAY TO THE GALLOWS TODAY.

Bandit and Murderer Is Re-sentenced by Judge Craig to Hang.

Friends and Maudlin Sympathizers of the Callous Desperado Endeavor to Create a Riot in Court, but Are Sternly Dealt with by Deputies with Drawn Guns. Effort to Prove Insanity Falls to Ground.

JUSTICE triumphed over grewsome sentimentality yesterday afternoon when Superior Judge Gavin W. Craig sentenced Ralph Fariss, alias Jack, train robber and wanton killer of H. E. Montague, to hang on the gallows at San Quentin within thirty days. For the second time in six days Fariss heard the death sentence passed upon him. The maudlin prattlings of the cohorts of mawkish sentiment to save the life of the murderer failed to sway Judge Craig or Dist.-Atty. Fredericks from the conception of what is their sworn duty to uphold the law and mete out justice.

Judge Wheaton A. Gray, attorney for Fariss, gave notice that he would immediately file an appeal from the judgment with the Supreme Court of the state. Judge Craig will sign the death warrant today and Under Sheriff Brain and Deputy Frank Cochran will probably take the condemned man north tonight.

Fariss faced the judge without a tremor while sentence was being pronounced. His big hands were clasped behind his back, his shoulders erect and his steely eyes riveted on the face of the judge as he heard the solemn words of the judge ordering the warden of San Quentin "to hang you, Ralph Fariss, by the neck until you are dead." The man who has made a brave fight to save his son from the gallows, and during the dramatic proceedings his tear-dimmed eyes gazed fondly on the young man.

DISORDER IN COURT.

A gang of I.W.W. loafers, friends of Fariss from Bakersfield, and a number of female worshipers of the murderer, created a disorderly scene in the courtroom while Attorney Gray was making an impassioned plea for Fariss, and it required the services of seven deputies to quell the outbreak. The courtroom was in an uproar as Judge Gray completed his address in behalf of Fariss. Cheers burst from men and women who had fought for room for the express purpose of making a demonstration to show their contempt for law and order. Judge Craig, startled, jumped to his feet and in an instant the sixteen officers under the direction of Under Sheriff Brain rushed forward, two or three with drawn guns, crying to the disturbers to be quiet. Judge Craig then ordered the room cleared. As they were going out the judge reconsidered and allowed them to remain, after severely reprimanding those responsible for the scene.

SWEETHEART UNMOVED.

Mrs. Lola Statler, the eighteen-year-old bride of Roy Statler, a San Pedro butcher, and for whom Fariss asserts he committed hold-ups, was in the courtroom when her bandit lover was sentenced to pay the penalty for his crime. She was heavily veiled and was accompanied by another woman. She followed the proceedings closely, but showed no outward sign of emotion.

When court opened yesterday Attorney Gray moved that Farris be allowed to change his plea from guilty to not guilty. Judge Craig denied the motion. If he had done otherwise it would have meant a jury trial for the confessed murderer at a cost to the taxpayers of Los Angeles of thousands of dollars.

Dr. Charles Pepper, who admitted he was not an alienist and had never appeared as an expert in court before, testified that Farris is a "kleptomaniac and a monomaniac on the subject of running away."

"Do you mean to say this man who held up a train and shot down a man in cold blood to get jewelry and money is a kleptomaniac?" asked Capt. Fredericks.

"Possibly you would call him an aggravated kleptomaniac," said Pepper. He failed to define the term to the satisfaction of the court or of Capt. Fredericks.

SUBJECT TO FITS.

Dr. Pepper advanced the theory that Fariss is subject to certain fits that come on him about every four weeks, when he has an irresistible impulse to run away and acquire money in any possible way.

"Do you think he was in the midst of one of those fits when he held up the El Monte train and killed Montague?" asked Fredericks.

"Yes, sir, I do," he replied.

"Did Fariss tell you he was broke and needed money and held up the train to get it?"

"He did not."

Dr. Pepper admitted that Fariss

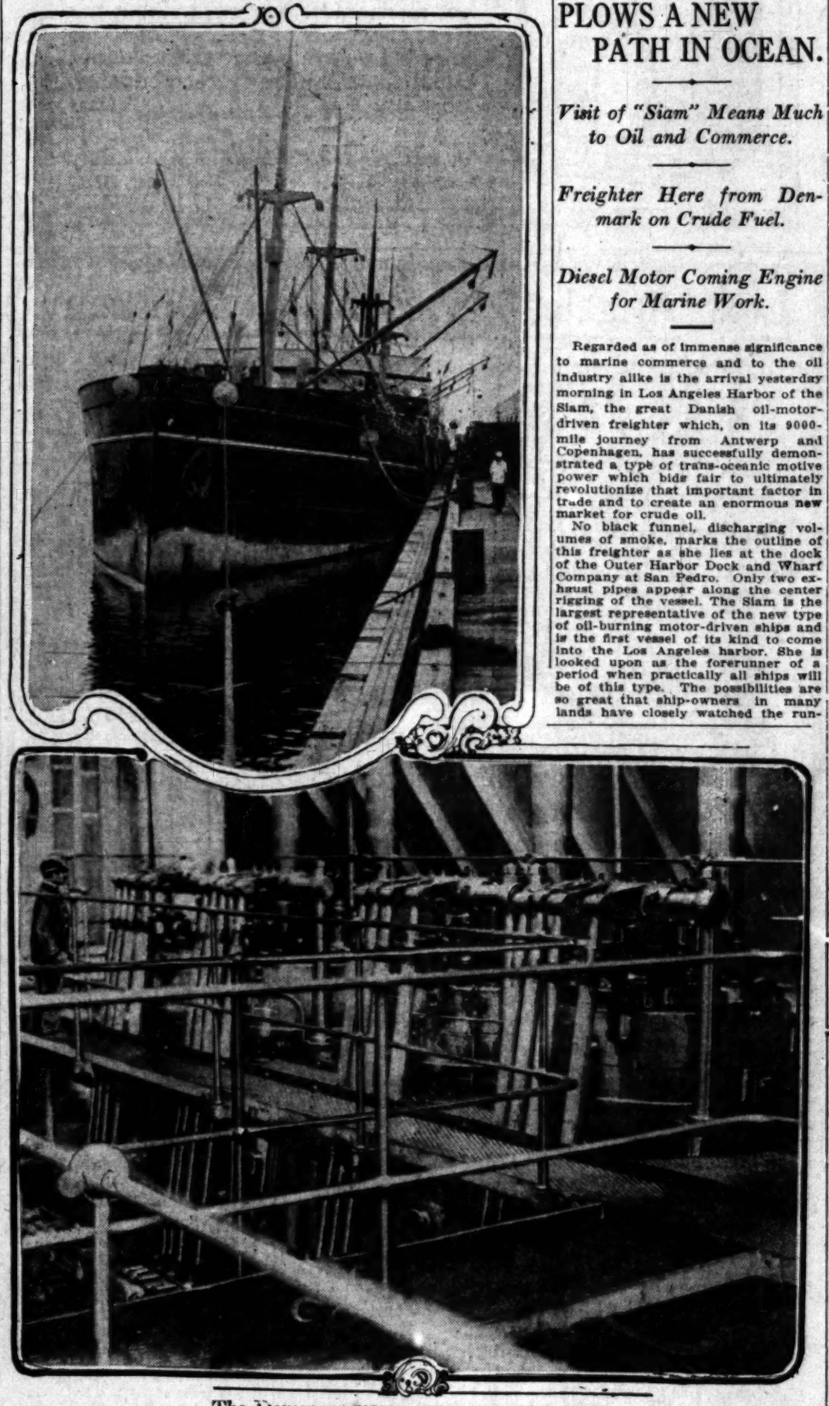
May Revolutionize Marine Motive Power.



The Danish oil-motor-driven freighter Siam,

Which arrived in Los Angeles harbor yesterday, after a trip of 9000 miles from Copenhagen. Below is a view of one-quarter of the great engine-room, showing the tops of four of the sixteen cylinders of the two Diesel motors (the tub-like projections in the rear.) Crude oil is sprayed into these cylinders under high pressure and is there ignited by still higher pressure, the power generated being transmitted to the ship's shaft by the long crank arms seen in front of the cylinders.

PLOWS A NEW PATH IN OCEAN.

Visit of "Siam" Means Much to Oil and Commerce.

Freighter Here from Denmark on Crude Fuel.

Diesel Motor Coming Engine for Marine Work.

Regarded as of immense significance to marine commerce and to the oil industry alike is the arrival yesterday morning in Los Angeles Harbor of the Siam, the great Danish oil-motor-driven freighter which, on its 9000-mile journey from Antwerp and Copenhagen, has successfully demonstrated a type of trans-oceanic motive power which bids fair to ultimately revolutionize that important factor in trade and to create an enormous new market for crude oil.

No black funnel, discharging volumes of smoke, marks the outline of this freighter as she lies at the dock of the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company at San Pedro. Only two exhaust pipes appear along the center rigging of the vessel. The Siam is the largest representative of the new type of oil-burning motor-driven ships and is the first vessel of its kind to come into the Los Angeles harbor. She is looked upon as the forerunner of a period when practically all ships will be of this type. The possibilities are so great that ship-owners in many lands have closely watched the running of the five vessels of the kind now in commercial use. Others are to be put into commission as soon as they can be built.

The vessel also marks a new era for Los Angeles harbor, in that it brings here the largest cargo from the Old World that has ever arrived. The electric hoists are busily engaged in discharging 500 tons of coke from Antwerp, 850 tons of general merchandise from Antwerp, Copenhagen, London and Liverpool, 350 tons of cannel iron and 500 tons of nitre from Antofogasta, Chile.

The Siam will remain in port until Monday or Tuesday, when it will proceed to San Francisco and thence to Seattle, where it will take on a cargo of flour for Japanese ports. From Japan it will take a cargo for Vladivostock and then return to European ports through the Suez Canal.

NO MOTOR TROUBLE.

The voyage of the Siam was completed without any trouble developing in the motive power. The test is considered a most trying one and the saving on fuel will run into a total of thousands of dollars. The speed record is satisfactory, as in good weather the vessel made an average of twelve knots an hour. The run from Copenhagen to Antofogasta required thirty-nine days. From the latter port to San Pedro required sixteen days.

In the Straits of Magellan heavy storms were encountered, and in one of these the waves washed over the vessel and broke into hold No. 1, doing some damage to cement and bulk rags stored there.

The Siam has nine engineers under Chief T. O. Bagge, eight on regular shifts and one electric engineer. The vessel is only eight months old. She was built in Copenhagen, as were all the others of this type now in existence. It is 425 feet in length, has a width of fifty-five feet and a depth of thirty-three feet. Its lines are graceful, and the aspect of the interior is vastly different from the ordinary steam vessel.

There are roomy galleries, rising in three decks and housing the batteries of eight cylinders on each of the Diesel motors. There are sixteen of these cylinders, and they produce 3200 horse power when all are in operation.

HOW IT WORKS.

The operative principle is unlike

Motorists of the South Line Up for a Test—First Arrest Here.

Local motorists are lined up for a thorough test of the new State auto-tax law. Through the New Year's Day arrest of Douglas C. Mitchell, as a representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California, the first attack on the law was made here. He is charged with having refused to register his machine as required by the act. When arraigned before Police Judge Chambers yesterday Mitchell pleaded not guilty, and was placed under $100 bail. E. G. Kuster, legal representative of the club, was in San Francisco waiting for word of the arrest that the name might be filed in the writ of habeas corpus in the State Supreme Court, and this action was at once taken. Three petitions have now been filed with the Supreme Court clerks. The brief of the Automobile Club of Southern California is considered the most complete. The entire case will be before the high court next Wednesday. It develops that the arrests in the north were made subsequent to that here.

"All automobiles must be registered" is the word given out at club headquarters, but the registrations are made under protest pending the Supreme Court's finding as to the validity of the law. Cars are not to be driven without license, the police authorities declare, but time will be allowed for compliance and no further arrests are to be made for the present.

ACCUSES SON OF THEFT.

Father Obtains Complaint for Loss of Automobile—No Arrest Yet Made, However.

On the day before New Year's, W. E. Quigley lost his automobile. He vowed he would not rest until the alleged thief was captured. Neighbors told him that his son, W. E. G. Quigley, had been seen driving it.

The father obtained a complaint yesterday charging his son with the theft of the machine. The complaint was issued by Deputy District Attorney Bell. The young man has not yet been arrested, the officers say.

The Answer.

TO MAKE LITTLE ONES FROM BIG.

City Plans a Rock Pile for the "Unemployed."

Great Exodus of "Starving" May Be Expected.

Two-Thirds of Applicants Now Are Aliens.

City officials are now engaged upon a plan to establish a municipal rock pile or wood yard to give employment to all comers and to stop the manufactured hue and cry about thousands of men starving in Los Angeles for want of employment.

Observation yesterday at the newly-opened Municipal Employment Bureau and the lot cleaning bureau of the Board of Public Works confirmed the suspicions of city officials and charity workers that conditions here have been greatly exaggerated by the labor agitators and their newspaper organs.

More than one-half of the 2200 men who registered yesterday at the branch of the Municipal Employment Bureau at No. 208 Franklin street were Mexicans. About 30 or 35 per cent. of the remainder were aliens, floaters and "Weary Willies" of different nationalities who are not serious in their quest for work.

Charity workers call attention to the fact that several thousand Mexican laborers come to Los Angeles every year during the holidays and remain, many of them, for months. Their living expenses are low and many of them do not care for regular employment.

When the registration headquarters were crowded yesterday forenoon with several hundred men from the Plaza district a fake story of a riot was circulated. The report was denied by W. N. Cunningham, who has charge of the office, and by Patrolmen Connely and Aubrey, who were on duty at the headquarters.

NO DISORDER.

"We asked to have the officers here to keep the men in line when they registered," Cunningham said. "There has been no disorder and no one has been arrested. The false rumor of a riot is characteristic of the methods of the agitators who are trying to misrepresent labor conditions in Los Angeles."

OLD HOME DISH FOR EVERYBODY.

THAT'S TO BE THE FEATURE OF FEDERATION DINNER.

Annual Banquet of Organization of State Societies to Be a Mosaic of All the Famous Things to Eat that Different Sections of the Country Are Famous For.

New England plum pudding, southern "co'n" bread, Boston-baked beans, Pennsylvania sauerkraut, and all the other dishes that have made gastronomically famous various portions of the United States will be featured at the annual dinner of the Federation of State Societies. The dinner will be cooked by the ladies of the federation itself and served at Hamburger's Cafe at 6 o'clock next Friday evening.

The best regional cooks will be on hand to supervise the cooking of their own dishes, and the entire kitchen staff will be in charge of a committee made up of Mrs. Ella Swickard, Dr. Alice B. Chaffee, Mrs. Fletcher Howard, Miss Helen A. Ford and Mrs. J. S. Bishop.

The food supplies being gathered include 700 loaves of French bread, a part of which will be used for dressing the turkey; 500 pounds of this bird, forty gallons of soup and as many of milk, crates and crates of celery, cabbage and other vegetables.

Mrs. Emma Rice Neidig will act as toastmistress. Bishop Conaty will deliver the invocation and Mayor Rose will be the first speaker. Robert L. Hubbard, John S. McGroarty, Charles W. Dempster, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher and several other prominent men are to respond to toasts.

Assisting the ladies already mentioned and designated as a reception committee are Dennis E. Bowman, F. D. Griffith, Elliot C. Miller, Dr. Bullard, W. W. Williams, J. S. Bishop, Mrs. J. D. Buckley, Mrs. Routtle, D. O. Collmar, L. D. Collings, Newton Skinner, Col. A. B. Shaw and a number of others, each man representing a different State. Mrs. Ella Swickard is in charge of the tickets, which are 500 in number.

LEPROSARIUM PROBABLE.

County Health Office Has Letter From Congressman, Foreshadowing Favorable Action on Institution.

A letter received yesterday from Congressman Lafferty by County Health Officer Sawyer indicated that the doctor's efforts for the establishment of a national leper colony are bearing fruit. The letter speaks of the favorable action taken by the Secretary of the Treasury on the bill to establish a national leprosarium. The bill leaves the location open to future decision.

The letter to Dr. Sawyer reads as follows:

It affords me pleasure to advise you that the Secretary of the Treasury has rendered a very favorable report on the bill providing for a national leprosarium, and Hon. W. C. Adamson, chairman of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, has promised to take it up as soon as important bills now being considered are disposed of. I think the bill will be reached some time this session.

W. M. Danner, secretary of the Committee of the United States of The Mission to Lepers in India and the East, has taken a great interest in the bill, and is going to do everything he can in its behalf. He may appear before the committee and make an argument.

TOO MUCH HASTE, FINED.

Delivery Wagon Driver Pleads Guilty to Lack of Discretion—Another Case.

Holiday haste in delivering his papers brought Tom Shannon, a driver of a newspaper wagon, a $50 fine in the Police Court yesterday. While making a New Year's delivery Shannon went through the streets with more haste than discretion. He was arrested, pleaded guilty, and Police Judge Chambers looked through the statutes to see just how severe a penalty he could invoke. It took the form of fifty days in jail or $50.

Immediately after Shannon had received his sentence, J. H. Whiting was brought to the bar to answer why he had driven his team of mules while in an intoxicated condition. He said he could remember nothing of any intoxication. The court fined him $10, with the remark that the fine might refresh the memory.

PRIZE POULTRY TO BE SHOWN.

More Than Three Thousand Birds Are Coming.

Will Illustrate Industry in the Southwest.

Special Train Planned for Van Nuys Day.

While commissions are squabbling and women's clubs debating over the cost of living, particularly that portion of living which has to do with the consumption of eggs, "biddies" from all parts of the southwest will hold a congress of their own, the headquarters of which will be the old postoffice building at the corner of Seventh street and Grand avenue. The gathering will last from January 7 to 13, and will be under the auspices of the Poultry Breeders' Association of Southern California.

The hens probably will cackle in glee over the attention they have been attracting during the last year, and the roosters may be expected to crow over the same fact.

All sorts of special days are being planned for the entertainment of the poultry, particularly Van Nuys day, a week from today, when hundreds of persons from San Fernando Valley are expected to be on hand and when the Van Nuys band will endeavor to coax a few extra lays from the stubborn hens. The band will give a concert from 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon to 5 in the evening, and later, after a chicken dinner, until the special electric train carries all the San Fernando Valley people back to their homes.

The special train will start from Owensmouth at 1 o'clock next Saturday, stop at Van Nuys until 1:30, make another stop at Lankershim, and then proceed to this city and the poultry show. Here for the first time the valley is making a concerted exhibit of the many fine breeds of chickens.

For more than a year several Petaluma experts have been developing the industry in the valley, and have been achieving unexpected results. Among these men are L. E. Rankin, D. W. Batchelor and O. B. Hubbell. The Elliott-Brant ranch, near Owensmouth, will have a splendid showing of first results in barred Plymouth Rocks and White Leghorns.

The entries have been very extensive this year, according to Joe E. Davis, secretary of the association, who reports a probable exhibit of more than 3000 birds. One of the principal exhibitors will be a wealthy fancier of this city, R. A. Rowen, who has some splendid samples of white-faced, black Spanish, crested Polish, Hamburgs and bantams, all groomed for the occasion.

A new variety of chickens to be shown is the Sussex strain, evolved from the Orpingtons by Miss C. K. Barker of Sawtelle. E. A. Pike is sending a large crate of fowl from Oroville. A. L. Harrison of Pasadena, a breeder of Rhode Island Reds, will have some strong competition in a shipment of the same kind from Utah. A. A. Bamford, president of the association, will bring some of his choicest selections from Gardena. There are nearly 300 separate entries, showing all the way from a single pair of birds to more than 100.

The board of judges will be headed by J. H. Gravenstedt of Buffalo, a well-known expert, who has just closed a contest in Madison Square Garden, New York. Others on the board are William Purdy of Ferry, Washington, Charles G. Hinds and Robert V. Moore of Oakland, A. G. Goodacre of Compton, and S. O. Lindgren of Kingsburg, this State, originator of the Buff Minorcas, some of which he will show at this time.

Plows New Path.

that of the gasoline engine, in that instead of using an electric spark for igniting the crude oil sprayed into the cylinders, this is accomplished by enormous pressure as the piston heads return from a discharge. This finely-divided oil vapor is ignited by its own heat as the mixture is compressed.

The engine is started by compressed air supplied by an auxiliary engine of the same type, which also supplies the electricity for lights and operation of the hoists. The type is known as the Diesel motor, for which the East Asiatic Company holds the patents.

On this long trip a light crude oil from Borneo was used. A test of California oils will be made on the Siam today. It is expected that the vessel will take on 1000 tons of fuel oil while here.

It has a carrying capacity of 1250 tons of fuel oil. Ten tons for twenty-four hours are required when all the sixteen cylinders are in operation. For full speed a pressure of sixty atmospheres is used; fifty for half-speed, and forty for slow, while but twenty atmospheres is required for the starting.

Two rather inconspicuous discharge pipes rise from the "motor-room"—the engine-room may become a term of the past—and only when the vessel is starting is there visible any smoke therefrom. The intense heat of the old furnace-room, is done away with and the men work in comfort. There is no heavy odor from the use of the crude oil, and the entire space devoted to the motive machinery is open and well ventilated.

Of the vessels of this type that have been completed at Copenhagen, all but one are sailing under the Danish flag. The first vessel of this kind that was placed in commission was sold to the Hamburg-American Company. Others are in course of building at Copenhagen.

So much interest has been excited by the arrival of this new type of vessel that the East Asiatic Company and the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company have arranged to run special cars on the Pacific Electric road this forenoon to carry about one hundred guests to the harbor for an inspection of the ship.

IMPORTANT BEARING.
ON GREAT OIL DEAL.

The advent of the Diesel ship Siam has lent new color to the significance of the visit of Andrew Weir and R. Tilden Smith to this city, in its relation to the negotiations now in progress for acquiring the Union Oil Company and the deal for the General Petroleum Company, which has just been closed.

Weir and Smith represent a syndicate in which are associated 60 per cent. of the shipping interests of England. These interests, as soon as they secure control of sufficient petroleum production, contemplate converting their ships into the Diesel type.

The project of these men, if carried out in full, will be a factor of the greatest importance in that world-wide campaign for the development of petroleum fuel, which the perfection of the Diesel explosion engine, particularly in its application on marine craft, has brought about.

California will benefit by the new wave of sentiment in favor of the Diesel engine to a greater degree than any other section, because this State, the present chief and only important source of fuel oil—with the exception of Mexico—has become the chief center upon which the eyes of the shipping world are fixed for their future supply.

"Aside from the item of convenience, the chief importance of the Diesel engine lies in the economy which it effects," said Weir yesterday. "The Siam, for instance, made the trip from Copenhagen to this city using about ten and one-tenth tons of oil per day, where it would have required probably fifty tons of coal a day to accomplish the same results."

A ton of oil is equivalent to six and two-thirds barrels, and at that rate the Siam would have used per day on her voyage probably $50 worth of oil at the outside price in Los Angeles. Several hundred dollars worth of coal would have been used in the same period of time.

Although the saving at the higher prices for crude oil on the continent would not be so great as those effected if the oil is purchased in California, it is expected that the ships will be able to load sufficient fuel on this Coast to enable them to make the round trip direct. It would be possible for the Siam to accomplish this by allowing fifty-five days for the trip.

"There is at present only one factory for the construction of Diesel engines," said Weir. "That is Burmeister & Wain, and they have all the orders they can fill until 1916.

"The fact that there is only this one plant stands in the way of the more rapid construction of Diesel engines. Others will undoubtedly be constructed in the near future, however."

The Burmeister & Wain plant is capable of turning out twelve to twenty vessels of the type of the Siam yearly, Weir stated.

Burmeister & Wain, who control patents on the Diesel engines, are interested in the Western Ocean syndicate which Weir and Smith represent. Harland & Wolff, a great British shipbuilding corporation, are also interested in the syndicate. Beside Smith and Weir those on the directorate include S. W. Grenfel, C. Knudsen, Admiral A. de Richelieu and J. Madsen-Mygdal.

Andrew Weir, himself, is head of one of the largest, if not the largest, shipping firm in the world. He is a man of very extensive experience in maritime affairs, and, having realized the coming importance of oil as a world fuel, has been far-sighted enough to see in California the best source of supply. There is little doubt that, forceful, aggressive and influential as he is, he will be successful in aiding to carry out the big project with which he is so prominently associated.

At present the shipping firm of Andrew Weir & Co. uses coal in practically all its vessels. In fact, last year one fleet of these vessels brought 575,000 tons of coal, valued at $4,675,000, from Australia to Chile—almost one-third the amount of coal produced in Australia. It is reported in this connection that the firm, although it has the contract for coal with the Chilean government, is now negotiating to get the contract to supply fuel oil for the government railways, which have been ordered transformed into fuel-oil burners.

Capt. H. J. Hansen, who is in charge of the steamship Siam, and Atto Jelstrup, agent for the East Asiatic Company, Ltd., yesterday were in consultation with Weir and Barneson at the offices of the General Petroleum Company. The ship will load 1000 tons of oil from the General pipe line at this port, and arrangements were made for this purchase.

Owing to the absence of R. Tilden Smith, who left for San Francisco Wednesday night on business, little progress has been recorded locally in the negotiations for the Union Oil Company. The General Petroleum interests made the January payment of $33,333 on the option on the control. The total amount now paid in on this option is $833,000.

MAN OR WOMAN?

Burglar Displays Much Strench, but Imprint Outside the Window Is that of a Small Shoe.

Either a strong-armed woman or a small-footed man is operating in the ancient and dishonorable trade of burglary. Experts in footprints have been assigned to decide whether the foot that made prints outside a house at No. 3001 Raymond avenue is a man's or a woman's.

A burglar entered the house, in which S. S. Williams lives while the family was away. A screen was cut, a window levered open, and an assault made on drawers and chests. The physical strength it took to perform some of the investigations indicates that the burglar was a man, but outside the window where entrance was gained was the imprint of a small shoe, narrow of last and stylish of cut.

Similar conditions existed at No. 1301 Vernon avenue, where the home of C. Hobaman was burglarized and $107 taken.

LITTLE THEATER OPENING.

The Little Theater, at Pico street and Grand avenue, is to be opened on the 15th inst. On that date the Egan school will remove there from its present quarters in the Majestic Theater building.

Fariss Re-sentenced.

knew the difference between right and wrong.

BURGLAR AT AGE OF FOUR.

Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, an intimate friend of the Fariss family in Bakersfield, testified that "Ralph was a bad boy and burglarized my house when he was 4 years old."

She said he frequently ran away from home and once his mother tied him in a gunnysack and put him in the backyard. An hour later she discovered he had got out of the sack and gone to the beach with a friend who paid his way.

"Wasn't he just like most boys we call bad?" queried Fredericks.

"Yes, he was a bad boy," she said. "He threw stones when 4 years of age."

James Fariss, the father, testified his boy started his career of crime when 7 years old by stealing from his mother's pocketbook. He said he was sulky at times. The father made a personal appeal for mercy to Capt. Fredericks just before the opening of the afternoon session. "I don't care about myself, but please give him life just for his mother's sake."

Dr. Thomas Orbison and Dr. Charles Lewis Allen, alienists, testified that Fariss "is far above the average physically, and up to the average mentally." Neither discovered any abnormalities after an hour's careful examination into the present and past life of the slayer. Dr. Lewis stated that, although hard to set an average of mentality, he considered Fariss normal.

JUDGE'S STATEMENT.

In sentencing Fariss, the judge declared "the defendant committed a premeditated murder. There is not the slightest evidence that he is a mental weakling. He deliberately planned to hold up the train and shoot any one who interfered with his plans. It was just as deliberate as if he walked up to a man and shot him in the back. To argue that he is a mental weakling is not fair to this court, in view of the testimony submitted on that point. I cannot listen to the plea of counsel to give this defendant a lesser sentence on account of his mother. I don't think any one can consider a mother's argument without being moved, but it has no place in a court of justice. I took an oath to administer the law and, although I am not certain myself whether capital punishment is right or not, I propose to administer the law as I see it and duty dictates."

Judge Craig issued the following statement after passing sentence.

"I am informed that an effort will probably be made to secure from the Governor a commutation of the sentence of death which I have pronounced in the case of people vs. Fariss, alias Bostick. Several of my friends have asked me if I have any objection to their signing a petition, or doing other acts to secure such commutation of sentence.

"In view of the general interest that is taken in the matter, I think it proper to state at this time, that courts in general regard all matters coming before them as entirely impersonal. In this case, as a judge, I have performed my duty. I have no desire to interfere with any one doing anything which his conscience directs, and which appeals to him as proper, to secure the action of the Governor of the State in commuting the defendant's sentence. The Governor might take such action, even if the court did its duty in imposing the sentence of death. The court's action is entirely judicial, the Governor's is executive and he may legally extend clemency, to which the defendant, from a judicial standpoint is not entitled.

"However, the case is completed as far as I am concerned. I believe the sentence which the facts required has been pronounced, and I will take no part, one way or the other, in the way of any application that may be made to the Governor to commute this sentence."

THEN AND NOW.
VIGILANTE RECORD FOUND.

Fifty-three years ago today, 200 determined men stormed the County Jail in Los Angeles and hanged to a limb in front of the jail, Ruiz Ramon, accused of grand larceny. Yesterday 200 men and women yelled and cheered in a courtroom when an attorney for Ralph Fariss, brutal murderer, made an impassioned plea for life imprisonment instead of the noose.

Yesterday, Jailer George Gallagher found a musty, dust-covered book containing the records of the Los Angeles County Jail from 1861 to 1875. The book was found stored away in the basement of the jail with other ancient county records. Between the years 1861 and 1866, fifteen men were hanged for offenses ranging from petit larceny to murder.

"What a difference," said Capt. Gallagher last night, as he pondered over the heavy volume covered with the dust of over half a century. "Why, silly women keep me busy answering telephone calls requesting permission to see Fariss. Others send him sweet-scented missives, endearing notes and a lot more trash like that. In those olden days they hung around a jail when they were after a man who had broken the law; now they hang around to applaud him."

On November 21, 1861, 200 men broke into the jail and hanged Eli Chase, charged with horse stealing. On December 22, 1862, "200 men mobbed the jail and hanged Jose R. Ybarra, convicted of robbery," says the record. There are many more interesting cases.

MEMORY BEGINS ANEW.

Man Slugged Month Ago Recalls Nothing Previous to Recovering Partial Consciousness.

A telephone message received from Redlands yesterday by Supervisor Charlton of Angeles National Forest stated that Fred Latshaw, who was attacked by an unknown man about a month ago, had recovered partial consciousness, but is yet suffering from a total lapse of memory. He cannot recollect what happened to him at that time, and his memory only dates from the present state of consciousness. His physician says that Latshaw is suffering from a blood-clot on the brain, and he is confident that later on he will be able to recall the events of the night he was attacked.

The whereabouts of his mysterious visitor are still unoknwn, and there is no information as to the fate of the $100 in checks that had been sent him by Supervisor Charlton for services, which formed the motive for the crime. So far as known they have not turned up, and whether Latshaw still has them cannot be ascertained from him.

GOOD MARKSMANSHIP.

Detective Brings Down a Burglar With a Shot That Passes Through the Leg.

Detective Grant Roberds, one of the oldest members of the bureau at the Central Police Station, fired his revolver for the first time while on duty yesterday, and stopped a young thief who was fleeing from him. The man, who gave the name of Jack Wilson, was shot through the fleshy part of the thigh. The accuracy of the shooting was remarkable.

Detectives Roberds and Ritch were in a pawnshop, when they observed Wilson enter with a bag of tools. They inquired where he had secured them. He replied that they had been given to him, and then he jumped up and ran.

Roberds followed, shouting for him to stop. The warning only increased Wilson's speed, and he was dodging down the street with agility when Roberds fired. The bullet passed through Wilson's left leg above the knee, inflicting a minor wound. The thief confessed that he had stolen the tools at the Pacific Electric power station at Vermont and Santa Barbara avenues.

CHANCE FOR A BARGAIN.

Dress Suits and Bicycles Among Articles to Be Auctioned Off at Police Station.

Two dress suits, sold by a tailor for $105 each, are to be shamelessly disposed of at the auction block today by Sergt. William Matsakites, property clerk at the Central Police Station.

The semi-annual sale at the station begins at 9 o'clock, when the cast-offs of the criminals will be sold. Watches, bicycles and other articles that have considerable value are to be auctioned off, being in large part those that had been stolen, but never claimed by the owners.

After the desirables are sold, the undesirables, including 144 gallons of wine, 50 cases of beer, and several hundred of drunks, and even in holding less flagons of whisky, will be emptied into the sewer.

LITTLE THEATER OPENING.

The Little Theater, at Pico street and Grand avenue, is to be opened on the 15th inst. On that date the Egan school will remove there from its present quarters in the Majestic Theater building.

ANSWER IN SUPERIOR COURT.

Ike Harris, who was arrested in connection with the case of two girl runaways from San Diego recently, was bound over to the Superior Court yesterday by Police Judge White. His preliminary hearing was on a statutory charge. Ethel Walsh and Tawney, the girls in the case, have admitted confessed that Harris induced them in picking the locks of drunks, and even in holding them at the point of a pistol. In this way they were making more than $75 a week.

"GOOD FELLOWS" JUSTIFY NAME.

Thousands of Needy Helped During Holidays.

Report Shows How the Work Was Accomplished.

Neglected Path Thought to Have Been Found.

The Good Fellows' Committee has established a high record for efficient charity work, as shown by its final report. The results were accomplished by a tremendous amount of hard effort and the self-sacrifice of hundreds of persons.

In response to the call of the Good Fellows, more than 2500 persons offered assistance to the needy. These offers were classified and listed in the files at the headquarters in the Delta building under the heads of individual Santa Claus, cash, clothing, shoes, etc.; groceries and provisions, miscellaneous merchandise, toys, candy, etc.; use of automobiles or trucks and personal services.

In most cases the same person made offers under more than one head. In many instances a "Good Fellow" would take a large number of families to provide for. A. M. Dunn, a member of the City Club, with funds provided by his employees and liberally supplemented by himself, played individual Santa Claus to twelve families, segregating more than ninety persons, besides contributing money, clothing, toys, groceries and personal services to the general work.

In one case a prince of Good Fellows drove his car twenty-eight miles over the desert to carry relief to a Spanish War veteran whose family was destitute of food and clothing, and to lay their case before the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, which promised to give further aid.

In another case, A. F. Borden, an enthusiastic member of the Rotary Club, to whom a large family was assigned, played Santa Claus in the traditional manner, visiting the home of his proteges at 4 o'clock on Christmas morning, provided with a tree and well-filled pack, with which he prepared a surprise for the youngsters.

SOME OF THE DONATIONS.

During the height of the campaign the Good Fellows had 150 paid employes and fifty volunteer workers, not including the persons who took individual cases. Eight thousand pieces of mail matter were sent out from headquarters. Five hundred pounds of wrapping paper were used and 700 baskets and boxes were utilized in the storerooms.

The supplies distributed by the committee were approximately as follows: Wearing apparel of all kinds, 10,000 pieces; shoes, 2000 pairs; hose, 1500 pairs; groceries, flour and other food stuffs, ten tons; toys, 650; wood, 200 cords; blankets and quilts, 20; mattresses, beds and cots, 20; stoves, 20, and miscellaneous articles, 500.

Meal tickets to the number of 1500 and 500 lodging tickets were distributed. Five thousand pennies and 100 pounds of candy were distributed to 1000 newsboys in an exciting scramble on Christmas morning.

Some of these supplies were brought in by the kindly donors themselves and some were issued direct from the storeroom upon written orders from headquarters, but the great bulk of them were gathered and delivered by the Good Fellows' transportation bureau.

Owing to the necessity for delivering as well as collecting, and a shortage of automobiles during rainy weather, a few contributions were not picked up until after Christmas; but these were all used to good advantage in filling late appeals or cases which had been delayed for further investigations.

The supplies left over in the storerooms at the conclusion of the work on Thursday was turned over to the Municipal cleaning bureau of the Board of Public Works, to be given to the most needy of their employees.

HELP FROM THE HUMBLE.

A touching feature of the work noted in the report, was the fact that many of the contributions were small sums from working people of moderate means, who wanted to have a share in bringing Christmas cheer to those less fortunate than themselves.

In some shops, the employees, on their own initiative, contributed a day's pay to the work. In one establishment an entire week's pay was donated to the cause by each employee and expended on individual families under their direction.

The voluntary contributions in cash amounted to $1359.25. The expenditures amounted to $1188.92, leaving on hand an available fund of $170.33. The expenditures were as follows: Groceries and grocery orders, $144.15; meat and shoe orders, $31.45; miscellaneous provisions and merchandise, $5; hire of autos and trucks, $66.93; pay roll, $529.29; stationery and printing, $44.75; cash for paying gas bills, etc., $76.58; meal tickets and lodging, $205.20; stamps (in addition to many donated,) $25; car fares and incidentals, $5.30; special medical and surgical supplies, $31.25; miscellaneous storeroom supplies, wrapping paper, etc., $15.18; miscellaneous office supplies, $35.15.

This is an extract from the conclusion of the report:

"We believe that the Good Fellows have discovered a new or at least a neglected path, and have blazed a trail which may lead to important results. We have had to work it out ourselves, without assistance or advice from any one experienced in charitable work. This, perhaps, has been fortunate, as we fear our point of view is not at all the same as the professional dispenser of charity. In fact, we do not feel that we have been dispensing charity, but merely that the recipients feel that they are accepting Christmas greetings from friends, rather than receiving alms.

The report was signed by Roger M. Sherman, chairman; H. C. Warden, secretary; Fred E. Golding, W. R. Mead and C. H. Burnett of the executive staff.

City Plans Rock Pile.

Municipal Employment Bureau and the registration booth for women and for applicants for clerical positions are at No. 422 California building. About 100 applicants registered in this office yesterday.

"Our work indicates that the number of unemployed in Los Angeles has been greatly exaggerated and that a large majority of those who are here are not in quest of labor," N. J. Davenport, superintendent of the bureau, said yesterday. "Most of the unemployed in the city are Mexicans who would be here under ordinary conditions.

CITY ROCK PILE.

"Certain city officials are co-operating with several prominent business men in a plan to establish a municipal rock pile or wood yard. We believe that an institution of this sort where employment could be given to several thousand men at a nominal wage would clarify the situation in short order.

"I believe that an opportunity should be given to every idle man to work and that those who do not avail themselves of the privilege should be invited to leave the city. I venture the opinion that the establishment of a municipal rock pile or wood yard, where employment could be forced on a large number of idle men, would cause a general exodus from the city of the floaters who are making all of the noise and have no desire to work.

"Kansas City and other cities have municipal rock piles that are self-supporting. We are of the opinion that the same results can be accomplished here."

HOW YOU CAN HELP.

Davenport urged that business men, housewives and all others in need of either skilled or unskilled laborers communicate with the bureau. The telephone number is Home A2815. H. Jevne and other down-town business men made their needs known to the bureau yesterday and were supplied with workers. The bureau obtained positions for about twenty persons yesterday. Arrangements are under way to give employment to the more worthy men who registered at the Franklin-street office.

A discouraging situation faces the lot-cleaning bureau, which has executive offices at Nos. 329-30 Higgins building. Four hundred men have registered for work, but up to yesterday afternoon none of the property owners in the two-mile limit from Seventh and Main streets had offered to pay for having his vacant lot cleaned. By dint of telephoning Herbert Burdett, the executive officer in charge of the bureau found employment for about twenty men.

ASSISTANCE NEEDED.

"The property owners seem indifferent to our plan," Burdett said. "We can't place the men to work unless the lot owners desire their services."

The distributing depot and registration office of the bureau is at No. 132½ South Spring street. Clothing and shoes were given to a number of men yesterday. The supplies were turned over to the bureau of the Good Fellows' Committee. Positions were found for ten men.

Burdett said that the bureau was in need of the use of a motor truck to take the laborers to and from their work. The bureau also is in need of investigators.

THE BOGUS "BREAD LINE."

A crowd of several hundred persons gathered in front of No. 123 South Broadway yesterday afternoon in response to an announcement printed in the Record to the effect that bread would be given away to 1000 unemployed men and women.

Frank Walker, a tenant of the building, called the police and protested against any incipient mob gathering on the street.

Several policemen were sent down to disperse the crowd. In all it is said that less than one hundred loaves of bread were distributed. Several well-dressed women, thinking it was an advertisement of a particular brand of bread, accepted loaves.

It was a fake scheme to injure Los Angeles.

WIGGINS DENOUNCES IT.

Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce denounced the plan as apparently a scheme to injure the credit of the city and to have moving pictures presented in rival places showing an alleged bread line similar to the one in San Francisco just after its earthquake and fire.

The line was opposite the Chamber of Commerce, an organization which has been viciously attacked in the evening organ of the I.W.W.'s and rabid labor unionites.

When a grocer returns a dissatisfied customer's money, she keeps what is left of the goods.

You see why, don't you? We can't use a broken package of goods; that isn't it. We want her to have it. She'll find-out her mistake.

EFFORTS OF CITY COUNCIL DO NOT GIVE SATISFACTION.

Whiffen Says Relief Employment Is Mostly Monopolized by Cheap Mexican Laborers at Higher Wages—Unionites Say Same—Additional Money for Tree Planting.

The bread cast upon the waters by the City Council was regarded yesterday as stone from two different angles. President Whiffen, reflecting the sentiment of the Council, said that the money and the efforts the administration is putting forth to remedy the unemployed situation have been monopolized almost entirely by cheap Mexican labor. He said that the Mexicans are quitting less remunerative work on railroads and elsewhere to get city employment at higher wages.

The other angle, which gave a boomerang effect to the interest the city has shown in behalf of the unemployed, came from the unionites and walking delegates. They complained that the city has now appropriated $19,500 to relieve the situation, and that none of this money is going to the "deserving union labor men" out of work.

Recently they asked the Council to appropriate $5,000,000 and unionize all public work. They asserted that 40,000 men are unemployed in Los Angeles and demanded that the city do something for them. They also said that thousands of union labor men were idle, and when the Council did the best it could to find money to pay for additional work the walking delegates failed to rally their "army of unemployed" and the only waiting lines at employment places were composed of Mexicans.

President Whiffen of the Council yesterday presented a resolution, which was adopted, providing for an additional $3500 to be spent through the Municipal Charities Commission on the tree and road planting scheme.

The resolution further calls upon the City Attorney to draft an ordinance in conformity with the charter providing that the city may remove dead or unsightly trees from the front of homes and install new ones, the cost to be charged against the abutting property.

NO DEMONSTRATION.

Body of I.W.W. Rioter, Shot and Killed on Christmas Day, Is Buried Without an Outbreak.

The body of Rafael Adames, who was shot in the Plaza riot of I.W.W.'s on Christmas Day, was buried yesterday in Odd Fellows' Cemetery. The funeral cortege started from No. 615 New High street, where about 100 people, mostly Mexicans, men and women, assembled. A few songs were sung and after the crowd passed through the little room where the body lay in the coffin, made by I. W.W. members, the procession started for the cemetery.

It was intended that this should be an impressive demonstration of the element that caused the Christmas riots, and those in charge of the funeral procession were not satisfied with the showing made. As the line failed to show sufficient numbers, leaders called out to men loafing along the sidewalk to fall in, and these tactics were kept up even as far as the Temple block, as the line moved down Main street.

Through the urging of these leaders, numerous idle men along the street dropped into line. Two hundred and sixty-four persons were in the procession when it was at its greatest length.

JUST LIKE HIM.

Sam Gompers has broken with the Wilson administration. There is a man who would not stop at anything. He would even break from jail.

ONE WAY.

A great scientist is experimenting with a test for telling whether flies have contaminated food or not. One way of saving stuff might be to brush off the flies.

DON'T WORRY.

The Peace Centenary Committee has made a plea for England to participate in the Panama Exposition. Perhaps England is satisfied merely to run the Panama Canal and is willing to let the rest of the world do what it pleases by way of celebration.

ONE EYE OPEN.

Carranza has postponed his trip to Chihuahua because he is suspicious of Villa's motives. If we had a first-class professional bandit at the head of an important enterprise there would be moments when it would require a vote of confidence in our own judgment to encourage us to proceed.

A TURBULENT NEIGHBOR.

The Pacific Ocean seems to have less self-control than a man making a New Year's resolution. It has been spilling itself all over our beach for the last week or two without respect for the Standard Oil Company's wharf or anything else. If these waves don't let our coast alone they will go broke.

OH, WHAT A NIGHT!

Life may leave such a bad taste in the mouths of some that once a year they try to start it differently, but most of us began the new year by swearing on instead of swearing off. As for New Year's Eve in Los Angeles, it was an abundant, overflowing success. For one night we were a city, lid or no lid.

NATURE KIND.

The glory of Pasadena's Tournament of Roses escaped the spoliation of the skies. They have been mighty lucky over there about this. The beauty of their pageant has often trailed its shining length beneath heavy clouds, but the floods have always kept to their fleecy chalice and the gods have drunk to Pasadena without spilling a drop of their wine.

"TO HIM THAT HATH."

For a long time this has been Rockefeller's favorite text. Now he is up against the last half of it. He is seeing how it works when from him that hath not is taken even that which he has. For a long time John D. hasn't had an appetite for anything except golf. It was the only thing he could digest. Well, he had such a cold New Year's Day that he couldn't even play golf. Life hasn't many values for some people. It overpowers them with a frightful poverty.

FINDING THE WAY.

About the time that men are too old to enjoy life they begin to suspect that it might be good. After treading the heights of much joy men discern how pleasure reacts in pain and how sorrow shortly reflects happiness. It is astonishing that no one seems to point clearly a path that will ignore both pleasure and pain and that will live quietly at peace with life as a fact. Perhaps this would amount to an attitude that no longer reckoned with hope or fear, one above disappointment or expectation, one that looked straight ahead and saw so clearly that it could never become confused either by feeling or reason. This would not be deadness, but serenity. It would not be negative, but a positive, instant and permanent power. Above all, it would be gladness, undiminishing, illimitable and deathless. This would be like walking with God and it would be holding hands with life as we moved along the way.

WHAT'S THE USE?

A count while visiting in Kentucky died by his own hand without suicidal intent. He administered to himself an injection of a fluid supposed to suspend animation. This he did to prove the theory that life can be suspended and called back. The folly of such experiments on a heroic scale is apparent. He knew he was alive in the first place, while if he took that stuff he might return and he might not. It happens that he did not get back. He quit a sure thing for an unsafe proposition which would have left him none the better off had he succeeded. This is the very frenzy of that gambling disposition from which the entire human family is feverish and sick. People are always even with values before they hazard them and, in nine cases out of ten, the risks they take are both unnecessary and profitless. Putting something you know you have into danger merely to see if you will get it back is not a very wise performance. If it is a case of life or death, or one of fortune or poverty, the brave thing is to stake one's all and trust to heaven, earth and oneself, but the safest thing in this world is to stay out of everything until circumstances force you to go in. The only way to play the game it to sit tight, smile and say nothing. Don't go till you have to—and then be sure you grab.

WOMEN AND THE MURDERER.

Women as a class fly into an Amazonian rage when such writers as Strindberg hold them up to ridicule and dress them in repulsive characteristics. Women as a class are loved, venerated and respected by men as a class. They have been deified as Madonnas on the canvases of Raphael, as well as dressed in the paint and rags of harlots by Francois Villon; the treatment by each has not been unjust.

Perhaps it is wrong to make a sex bear the brunt of an individual's acts. But as women were glorified by the angelic life and work of Florence Nightingale, and as they take unto themselves the grace of admiration bestowed because of Clara Barton, Jane Addams, and all others who have endeared themselves to humanity, just so—as a class—must women suffer when their maudlin sisters hasten to bask in the reflected notoriety of felons and criminals.

To the cell of a brute—robber, murderer, paramour of a married woman—women of Los Angeles are making a pilgrimage with candies, flowers, books and tender sympathies. They are joining a noisy and tearful movement to save the life of the scoundrel, all the more detestable because of his youth and strength—his crimes were viciously wanton, he wanted to be a "sport," he was bestial, brutal and murderous, and he could have made an honest living if he had been an honest man.

And we have the shameful spectacle of women, fair of face and gowned in splendor, vying with each other to show attention to this murderous reprobate who quotes silly poetry and sheds tears in appreciation. It is an encouragement to crime to have such luxurious tenderness extended to those who break the laws. It sullies the sex of women when their members outrage decency by parading down the corridors of "murderer's row" with presents for a man they have never seen, and known to be a caitiff. These women are not from the underworld, they are not even of the demi-monde—they are "respectable!"

These women pay no heed to the fellow who is stumbling along honestly doing his best against the buffets of misfortune—they save their words of encouragement and sympathy for the worst fiends that are belched up by crime; on these they fawn lachrymose caresses; on the behalf of these they seek to make judges reverse honest decisions and prostitute the laws for infected sentimentality—and because of these all women suffer.

RANSOMING CAPTIVES.

One of the novel and interesting features of the Mexican conflict is a resort by the rebels to the mediaeval practice of holding prisoners of war for ransom. It is a practice which has been by all civilized nations discontinued for hundreds of years, and even when it was in vogue the conqueror did not execute the prisoner whose friends proved unwilling or unable to pay his ransom, but made a slave of him.

Froissart, or some other historian of his age, tells of a certain Sir Edward de Courcy de Whackemdoodle—or some such name—who was captured by the Saracens and held for ransom at six hundred pounds. He had neither money nor lands, but a few sporting Englishmen, who knew his prowess, redeemed him, syndicated him, armed and equipped a troop for him and started him as an independent force engaged in the business of capturing solvent enemies. Sir Edward justified their expectations. Aided probably by the reports of R. G. Dun & Co., he selected for capture titled foes, and he was in no wise particular whether he captured them in battle or surprised them at midnight in their castles or camps. He justified the confidence of his backers, returned them cent per cent on their investments and made his own old age riotous with his own share of the spoils.

If Villa shall continue to raise the valuation he places on Terrazas's son and demand of the old man not merely 500,000 pesos in money but the tens of thousands of cattle belonging to him, and the father shall yield to the demand, there will come into Arizona duty free under the Wilson bill herds of cattle that will be sold at prices that will make Arizona cattlemen wish that they had not voted the Democratic ticket.

WAGES IN EUROPE AND AMERICA.

Dr. Arthur Shadwell, who made an investigation as to the relative efficiency of labor in England and the United States, published in London a revised edition of his report. He says: "I went through a large number of workshops in several of the most important manufacturing centers in England, including some which I had visited five years before. The change was very noticeable. I found workshops reconstructed, reorganized, and re-equipped, old appliances replaced by new, the most recent tools and machinery installed, and a general air of renovation."

It is but a few years since British manufacturers energetically adopted the American idea of high-speed steel and machinery tools. By means of these they have recovered lost ground and Sheffield is again without a rival as a manufacturer of cutlery. Boot and shoe making is now conducted in England on American lines and with American machinery—the patent laws of England having been changed by Parliament so as to nullify boycott agreements in leasing.

According to official returns to the British government the average pay for men employed in the public utilities service, such as roads, sanitation, gas and electricity, is $6.48 per week. Those who work on tramways or street cars and omnibuses, receive on the average $7.32 a week. Men at work on the roads and at sanitary employment in the rural districts receive $4.20 a week on the average in England, and in Ireland $2.70 a week.

Those wages, says the American Economist, include all allowances of any kind for living purposes, as stated in the British report. In five counties in Ireland, according to this report, the average wages for men on farms employed full time is $2.40 a week. The highest pay in any county in Ireland for farm labor is $3.36 a week and the lowest $2.32 a week. In Oxfordshire, England, the average farm pay for men working full time is $3.92 a week, and the hours of employment are from eleven to twelve a day. It is no wonder that there has been such an enormous decrease in the number of farm laborers in England and that millions of acres of land have ceased to be cultivated. How anyone can live on such wages while the cost of living, according to such an eminent authority as Lord Brassey, is practically the same as in the United States, is hard to understand. It is further stated that there has been no change in farm wages since 1902.

The pay of trade workers is nearly as meager as that of agricultural workers and less than that of building trade workers. The average pay for boot and shoe workers, full time of from fifty-two and one-half to fifty-four hours a week, in England is from $6.23 to $7.20 a week. The British reports show a decrease of 20 per cent. of the land under cultivation in Ireland in 1906 as compared with 1851, and a further large reduction in England. In the cotton industry 16 per cent. of the men working full time earn less than twenty shillings a week, or $5, while there is nearly the same percentage in the woolen industry. Forty-four per cent. of the men in the linen industry earn less than twenty shillings a week, 49 per cent. in the jute industry, 51 per cent. in the hair industry, 19 per cent. in the silk industry, and 22 per cent. in the hemp industry. Nearly 44 per cent. of the men in the cotton industry earn between twenty and thirty shillings a week, or from $5 to $7.20. Thirteen per cent. of the women in that industry working full time earn less than $2.40 a week, while 39 per cent. earn between ten and fifteen shillings, or between $2.40 and $3.60 a week. The average for women working full time in the woolen and worsted industry is $3.32 a week, and in the linen industry $3.58 a week, and in the hemp industry $2.62 a week, and so on in other industries.

Whether the result of the new tariff will be to reduce the cost to the consumer of American made goods and so reduce the wages of American workers, or to increase the pay of English operatives without lowering the cost to the consumer either of imported or domestic-made goods, remains to be seen. The loss of reduction of tariff duties will fall necessarily partly upon Uncle Sam and partly upon American workers. Whether the amount lost by the United States by a reduction of the tariff on manufactured goods will inure to the benefit of American consumers or of foreign workmen is a problem that is in process of solution. Thus far the Democratic Congressmen have played a game with Europe of "Heads you win tails we lose."

What becomes of the one hundred millions of dollars which the United States is losing by the operation of the free trade schedules is a problem which is already solved. The American Sugar Refineries Company get the bulk of it. The Wall-street owners of Cuban sugar plantations get a lot of it. The Argentine and Australian sheep barons obtain a generous slice, and Mexican and Canadian cattle owners and Sicilian lemon growers and British Columbia lumber kings are not forgotten in the distribution.

FAIR PLAY FOR THE RAILROADS.

Railroad baiting is the chief form of amusement for political demagogues. We do not say that some railroads have not been mismanaged, that some are not now mismanaged; but the black sheep may, with no difficulty, be segregated from the white; and when the president of so reputable a railroad as the Baltimore and Ohio comes forward to the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for an increase in freight rates he is at least entitled to a fair hearing.

Representing many railroads, he sets forth that, though they are doing a greater volume of business in 1913 than in 1910, their profits are far lower. This is laid to many causes. For one thing the wages of the employees are much higher, the cost of material has increased greatly, and money can no longer be borrowed at a low rate of interest.

Railroads are entitled to a fair profit on the capital invested, and it is just as much the duty of the railroad commissions to see that rates are established to earn it as it is the duty of the commissions to prevent extortion and discrimination. The public seems to have the idea that it is never getting a "square deal" unless it is getting things—rates, eggs or real estate—cheap, and fails to look at the economic causes which may justify high prices.

The transportation service of the country is steadily being perfected. It costs more money to give good service than to give poor service; it is worth more. No railroad can long continue to exist unless it is a successful business. The only possible way to maintain and increase the present standards of transportation will be to allow the railroads a reasonable profit; and it is not being made by some of the best managed reliable systems in the United States.

A BURSTED CANADIAN BOOM.

The Canadian boom has all of a sudden deflated; and public opinion in the Dominion, which last autumn welcomed all incomers from the United States, now limits its welcome to incomers with incomes, to those who bring with them sufficient cash capital to carry them over a period of stringency. There is at present a superfluity of labor in Canada. A constriction of capital in European loaning centers is lessening the number of new plantings and other enterprises. The Wilson tariff has increased the exportation of food into the United States and increased the cost of living in Canada. The supply of unskilled labor in the Dominion is largely in excess of the demand, and its incoming is being checked by State action in British Columbia. Those who come there to compete in the labor market—whether they are whites or Asiatics—will not now be admitted until after March 31 next.

The Dominion is a pioneer in the policy of controlling immigration from an industrial and economic rather than a moral or racial standpoint. Canada will exclude new settlers until it seems best for the people already there that they be admitted.

A similar policy in the United States would probably meet with little or no opposition from any quarter. Desirable citizens, whether of native or foreign birth, will not care to have their number increased—100,000,000 people are enough for the present. Neither will the undesirables, the criminals and paupers and I.W.W.'s care that their numbers be swollen. They will act as does the last strap-hanger who crowds into the trolley car on a rainy day. He is the first, when a dripping newcomer appears, to cry out "all full inside."

Croaking Again.

WALT MASON IN THE TIMES.

Which way are you headed, old sport? Uphill, with the strenuous boys? What sort of a fame do you court, and how are you choosing your joys? Have you the ambition to climb, as every sane mortal aspires, or think you a bully good time is all that a fellow requires? For you there's an eminent place, if haply for honor you yearn; for you there is lasting disgrace, if that's the reward you would earn. Which way are you headed, old hunks? Which way are you pointing your shoes? Oh, say, are you saving your plunks, or blowing them all in for booze? There's wealth in the distance ahead, if wealth is a thing you admire; some kennel may yet be your bed, if that is the rest you desire. You've come to the forks of the trail, you turn to the left or the right; you choose 'twixt a home and a jail, a future of woe or delight. Which way are you headed, old scout? You cannot go both ways at once! Oh, turn to the right with a shout, and leave the left road to the dunce! The left road, inviting at first, soon tears you with brambles and rocks, grows worse with each meter and verst—which way are you headed, old sox?

WHOA! JANUARY.
BY EUGENE BROWN.

Processional.

Give us not length of years, but breadth of life;
Not sordid passions, but the hope of kings;
Banish the spirit that engenders strife,
And lead us on and up to better things.

Grant us such happiness as honor sends;
Give us such might as justice may afford;
Vouchsafe such mercy as our merit lends,
And dull the edge of the oppressor's sword.

Let us not falter in the chosen path;
Enlarge our virtues and our faults subdue;
Let kindliness o'ercome the rule of wrath,
And teach us to ourselves we must be true.

Philosophical.

Behold the new calendar! Rich in embossed splendor; a carnival of color—giving forth the brilliant bravery of the banditti of the brush. There are 365 unspent days on its pages. They are glorious in promise; what shall they be in fulfillment? January comes but once a year and when the average man looks at the clutter of bills payable on his desk, he crosses his fingers and is mighty glad of it. It is a regular clearing-house month and every man wants his fellow to pay up whether he himself does so or not. For man is ever looking for trouble—for someone else.

Mythological.

January is named after Janus, a venerable scrapper of legendary history. He was the especial deity concerned with the beginning of troubles, and so can start off a new year as well as not. He was the gatekeeper of old Olympus and he had two faces, so that he could catch 'em coming or going. As a doorkeeper for ring and Olympic events he had Tom McCarey backing into the woodpile with a sore thumb. He was on the gate at the Titan outbreak and also at the mix-up of Black Ajax and Hector, the Troy pup. It was probably in honor of Janus that the ladies of grandfather's day used to put knock-out drops in the punch they served to their elated callers on New Year's Day.

Sentimental.

This custom of holiday calling is now fairly confined to the poker clubs, but two generations ago every young man who had a plug hat and a Prince Albert—and that was almost every one in those days—would put on his effulgent raiment on New Year morn and weave a devious day among his lady friends. The girls would often gather in groups at the home of one of them and there would be long lists in the newspapers of the night before of those who would receive, and where.

The young bloods would generally hunt in pairs and make the rounds. At each door it was a case of "Happy New Year!" "Thanks awfully." "I said it first." "Delightful, isn't it?" "Making many calls?" "Only a thousand or so." "Try some of the punch." "Well, just a drop to your health and happiness." "Thanks, must go now." "Goo' by."

After making about ninety-seven calls the rounder would be so full of punch and cake that it would frequently take him about two days and a half to find his real home and working clothes. But of course those were glorious days and many people profess to really regret the passing of the annual courtesy call, which was made on practically every dame and daughter of your acquaintance.

In these days the smart folk put on their rosiest regalia and with horns and masks gather at the cabaret, where they soak up ninety dollars worth of fizz and eat a lot of clams and caviare they do not care for. There is music and the dance and everybody joins in. When the New Year finally breaks it makes a noise like an army of roisterers sacking a city.

Agricultural.

At this season of the year the wise and prudent farmer is busy setting out his hay plants. For this purpose the ground must first be broken. This can be done by placing a heavy mortgage on it. When it sags in the middle have somebody lien on it and the break will be complete. It may be hard to keep up your interest in the game, but don't worry. The worst is yet to come. After the ground is broken go over it with a stem-winding corkscrew and bore 21,750 holes in each acre. In each hole set one of the hay plants, tamping the ground thoroughly with your feet at the time. It is best to place the plants root-end down, although there is a difference of opinion. However, there is no doubt that it is much easier to prune the plants with the root-end down that otherwise. As you can only make hay while the sun shines you should be careful to bring the plants in the house on dark nights and store them in a warm room with plenty of electric lights.

Historical.

Just 750 years ago today Frederic Barbarossa lost an election bet and began to let his whiskers grow. He gambled that Bryan would carry his own precinct and when the returns came in Frederic hanged the court barber and started the beard that made him famous. It was red in color and was so long that when he ate soup he used a sponge. At night he tucked his whiskers in a paper bag so that the stubbly ends would not tickle his feet and make him laugh in his sleep. Frederic was drowned while heading a votes for women crusade. His horse stepped on his whiskers while fording a stream and before he could be unraveled he had water on the brain. It is said that his beard kept on growing after death. He was buried in the cleft of a mountain, seated at a table of granite, and his whiskers grew right through the slab, so that his spirit has to advertise for the ghost of the barber to come and set it free.

Hysterical.

Now is the time we turn the page and promise to be good—for we indeed have reached the age when it is right we should. We never more will beat our wives or rob our neighbor's roost; we'll all lead upright, moral lives—to virtue give a boost. The poker deck we'll throw away, likewise the festive chip; off with the dance, the cup, the play, no more our lives they'll grip. But resolutions, like the winds, blow one day hot, now cool; and merest man who once has sinned, again will play the fool.

Let the new Southern Pacific station rise; let it rise till it meet the sun in his coming; let the earliest light of the morning gild it, and the parting day linger and play on its summit.—Daniel Webster's address on the laying of the corner-stone of the Bunker Hill monument, up-to-date.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

The Times invites strong, clear, bright expressions on current subjects, timely, pertinent and serious. Brevity should be kept in view. Essays, Religious and personal controversies are not. All letters offered for publication should be in "parliamentary" language, and are subject to editorial revision.

The Girl That Falls.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] For many years the writer has studied the "white slave" question, but never has public expression to his opinion thereon.

There are times when the subject comes to the point of being pathetic; and then when same is disgusting even to the extreme point of view. Those defending the subject seem to lay particular stress on economics, claiming that wages are too low; that in order for women to live, and live well, they are compelled to take one of the courses—continue to work at starvation" wages or sell their virtue (?) in the open market, going even so far with their argument as to say that living in the state of matrimony in many instances is nothing more or less than "white slavery."

If the women who "go wrong" would strive to keep that little spark called conscience alive, it is safe to say that the question of "white slavery" would soon have to go begging.

Vanity plays a big part in this ocean of life, and while the cost of living is rather abnormal in the necessities of life, yet the body could be kept in good physical condition even at the average wage paid in this country, yes, throughout the civilized world.

So bear, ye women who are inclined towards the path of "white slavery," keep your eyes well centered on conscience and the eternal law of right will keep you from "falling."

Honor to the Police.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] "In the name of the people of Illinois, I command the peace." At the Haymarket so it is described, if memory is not at fault, the granite statue of only a policeman holding aloft in his outstretched hand his simple baton. Yet the heroic bronze statue of the immortal Lincoln, standing at no great distance from it, did not awaken half the emotion as did the statue of this humble policeman, erected in memory of the men who went down by the assassin's bomb. It was not theirs to be encouraged to the performance of their duty by the fervid orator, as indeed, nor was it theirs to step forward in serried ranks to the martial strains of music, but silently and fearlessly they faced the enemy of all society. All honor to the memory of these heroes who went down on that fateful day! So, in some measure, at least, are our own home defenders entitled to some meed of praise for the manner in which they have acquitted themselves recently. It is scarcely conceivable that those assembling in the park on Christmas Day did not know that they were lawbreakers, and, if law-breakers, even to the slightest degree, it behooved them on the appearance of the police to at once disperse. That they did not do so shows that they were willful law-breakers or else had been misled and mislead by those responsible for the deplorable occurrence.

Some of us cranks and near cranks at times went to growl at the police for the seeming neglect to enforce some of the minor regulations, but when it comes to something like action, the police appear to have in the stuff of which men are made.

BODY OF NOTED LAWYER NOT TO BE BROUGHT HERE.

He Achieved Wide Fame as a Criminal Expert—Practiced for Some Time in This City, with the Business Prospects of Which He Was Impressed.

The body of former Judge Orlando Powers, who died at Salt Lake, will not be brought to this city, where he had been for several years active in law practice, but will be interred at Salt Lake, where he resided more than twenty-five years. The funeral will probably be tomorrow.

Orlando Powers was a native of New York, a graduate of Michigan University, and, during the first term of President Cleveland, was sent on a formal mission to Salt Lake. It was during the visit he made that city his home. At the time of his death, he was living with his wife and son, Roger W., on the estate, "Linger-Longer," near Salt Lake City.

Judge Powers early achieved fame as a criminal expert, and, in 1908, his name became nationally known through his successful defense of Orchard, Bradley, who was acquitted of the charge of having murdered former United States Senator Arthur Steunenberg, father of her children. A Colorado murder case was also successfully defended by him, and his first appearance in a nationally important trial was in Los Angeles.

It was here, when Earl Rogers was forced, by illness to retire from the Haywood case, at the time the labor leader was up for his second trial on the charge of having bribed the jurors, he successfully defended Darrow. At that time he became attached to Los Angeles as a resident, residential city and had offices here in charge of the firm name was Powers, Scott & Reiter.

Early Sunday, Judge Powers came down with a legal matter, was taken with pneumonia and hurried back to his home in the following morning. At Salt Lake he was head of the firm of Powers, Marioneaux, Stott & Powers. During his career, he made a fortune of some size, which will go to his widow and his only near relatives left.

NEW MINISTER FOR WILSHIRE.

He Arrives Under a Five-Year Contract.

Church Dedication on Angeleno Heights Tomorrow.

Gen. Booth's Eldest Daughter Will Visit Here.

The Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church, the pioneer organization in that exclusive residence district, will greet its new pastor tomorrow. Rev. Frederick W. Burnham arrived from his latest field at Springfield, Ill., yesterday. He is a native of Illinois, and has occupied but three pulpits in his ministerial career, and all in his native State—five years at Charleston, six years at Decatur and seven years at Springfield.

Mr. Burnham has taken a prominent place in his denomination and is known as one of its best thinkers and ablest preachers; and he comes to take a place among the vital preachers of Los Angeles. His call from the congregation is for five years; they don't believe in engaging a preacher and falling out with him before he has had time to get acquainted with the membership. The church is located at Wilshire boulevard and Normandie avenue, and the new preacher will be heard there twice tomorrow. His morning subject will be "The Venture of Faith;" evening, "Vital New Year's Resolutions."

He is a clean-cut, active man, and a genial one to meet. He will prove a good "mixer," or it is a bad guess.

Mrs. Catherine B. Clibborn, Eldest daughter of the late Gen. Booth, who will preach in Pasadena.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

GOES TO ANGELENO HEIGHTS.

The new Park Congregational Church will be dedicated tomorrow at Bellevue avenue and Douglas street, on Angeleno Heights. It has recently been completed at a cost of $10,000. Rev. J. H. Cooper, for nine years pastor of the congregation at its old location on Temple street, will preach at 11 a.m. and Rev. Thomas Hendry, for eleven years pastor of the congregation, will conduct a communion service. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the dedicatory service will be held, Rev. I. C. Meserve preaching the sermon.

The new venture of the denomination is the result of the work of Rev. Alfred Hare, who has been in charge for the past couple years. The new building is fitted up for social affairs as well as for religious services, and its kitchen is supposed to cut a figure in this, for it is of the most modern type and equipment.

Rev. Frederick W. Burnham, New pastor of Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church.

BOOTH'S ELDEST DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Catherine Booth-Clibborn, eldest daughter of the late Gen. William Booth, will preach in the First Presbyterian Church, Pasadena, on Sunday morning and evening, January 11. She is known across the Atlantic as "La Marechale," and is making her first American tour. Ten years ago she developed the vein of independence that characterizes the Booths, left the Salvation Army and started on her own hook. She is said to be the best preacher in the entire family, and her features support the assertion. After Pasadena, she will speak in this city.

AN OLD-YOUNG PAIR.

TWO WAY-UP MINNESOTANS.

At the Vermont Square Methodist Church, the pastor, Rev. R. J. Taylor, has staged an attraction for tomorrow. In the morning Dr. David Higgins, aged 97 years, will preach on "The Growth of Religion." In the evening the preacher will be Dr. Noah Lathrop, aged 86 years, who will tell of "The Observations and Experiences of an Octogenarian." Both the old gentlemen are friends of the pastor from Minnesota, and seats will be reserved at both services for old people.

FORMER PASTOR HERE.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Tomorrow morning Rev. A. C. Smither, for twenty-one years pastor of the First Christian Church of this city, and now general manager of the Christian Board of Publication, will occupy his old pulpit. Dr. Smither for two years has been in his present position, and has made his company a leader in the religious body with which he is connected. James C. Ogden and family, missionaries of the First Church, on the way to their field of labor in Tibet, will also be present. In the evening the pastor, Rev. Russell F. Thrapp, will begin a series of sermons on "Great Fundamental Questions," the first of the series being "What Do We Know of God?" The annual meeting and turkey dinner for all members will take place on Friday evening. During the year 214 members have been added to the church.

NOON MEETINGS.

LOCAL MINISTERS TO SPEAK.

A series of noon meetings will be held in the First Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Union Rescue Mission, beginning on Monday. For that day, the speaker will be Dr. Charles Edward Locke, and the singer, A. L. Miller; Tuesday, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher and Miss Alice Lohr; Wednesday, Dr. R. A. Torrey and Miss Annie MacLaren; Thursday, Dr. J. R. Pratt and L. F. Peckham; Friday, Giles Kellogg and P. J. Behan; Saturday, B. F. Pearson and A. L. Miller.

ALBANIA ILLUSTRATED.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE.

On Sunday evening, in the First Congregational Church, Rev. Morris H. Turk will give an illustrated lecture on "Albania, the Land of the Eagle People." The recent selection of Prince William of Wied by the great powers to become the King of this new nation, arouses an unusual interest again in the fortunes of the Albanian people. Dr. Turk has traveled widely in Albania and his lecture will include not only vivid descriptions of this wonderful land and people, but also an interpretation of the political and economic conditions which obtain these. The lecture will be fully illustrated with many artistic stereopticon views, in natural colors. An account will also be given of the heroic work of C. Telford Erickson, the apostle to the Albanians, who has recently been in Los Angeles, speaking before many different clubs and organizations.

RELIGIOUS BRIEFS.

ITEMS OF MANY CHURCHES.

"Sealed Orders" will be the topic of a sermon by Rev. C. M. Carter, Sunday evening, in the First Baptist Church, a sermon for the new year. His morning topic will be "The Running Race," and the officers of the Young People's Society will be installed.

"Quitters" will be discussed in a sermon, tomorrow morning by Rev. W. L. Y. Davis of West Adams Methodist Church. In the evening he will preach the first of a series of four sermons, under the title, "Fifteen Varieties of Fools." The others are, "Why Should Smithsgo to Church?" "Humbugs and Other Bugs," "The High Cost of Dying."

The subject of Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher's sermon in Temple Auditorium, tomorrow morning, will be "Everyman," and in the evening, "Three-Handed People—Why They Fail." Elaborate programmes of music at both services.

The greatest revival campaign yet attempted by the First Church of the Nazarene will begin tomorrow. Two leading American evangelists, Rev. Will H. Huff, of Sioux City, Iowa, and Rev. Isaac F. Hodge, of Wichita, Kan., will have charge of the services, which will last throughout the entire month of January.

Rev. C. D. Hicks of the East Hollywood Methodist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Christian Loyalty," and in the evening, on "Eternal Life."

The annual meeting of the Magnolia-Avenue Christian Church, will be held on next Friday evening. Rev. R. W. Abberley will preach morning and evening, tomorrow.

Rev. W. S. Holt of Philadelphia will preach in the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning. In the evening the pastor, Rev. T. H. Walker, will preach on "The Shortened Candle."

Prof. Charles Alexander will deliver his lecture on Paul Laurence Dunbar, the negro poet, in the Pico Heights Congregational Church, on Sunday evening.

"Why Our Boys Go Wrong" will be the subject of a sermon Sunday evening, by Rev. C. Oscar Johnson of the South Park Baptist Church. In the morning he will preach on "Paul's New Year's Resolution."

At the Union Rescue Mission, Rev. R. A. Hadden will speak on "Personal Work" at 2:30 p.m. O. D. Conrey of the McKinley Home, will speak in the evening.

The Presbyterian Ministers' Association will meet on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, in Central Presbyterian Church. Rev. A. B. Prichard will deliver an address on "Revivals."

Col. John Sobieski will be the speaker at the Methodist Mission, No. 255 East Fifth street, Sunday night.

Melville Putnam, evangelist, will begin a series of meetings in the Broadway Christian Church on Sunday, January 18.

Mark Lev of Friends of Israel Mission will speak at No. 703 Temple street, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be, "Simon, the Just, and His View of Christ." The annual meeting of the mission will be held on Tuesday at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

At the morning service tomorrow Dr. John Balcom Shaw will receive into Immanuel Presbyterian Church 125 new members. In the evening he will preach on the topic, "Is the Bible Inspired?"

At Central Baptist Church, Dr. J. W. Kramer will preach tomorrow night on "Have You a Right to do as You Please?" On the next Sunday night he will begin a series of sermons on "The Dead Line."

YOUR BIBLE LESSON.

Helps Prepared for "The Times" by Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, the World-Famous Expositor.

JESUS AND THE CHILDREN.

LESSON: Mark ix. 30-41; x. 13-16.

GOLDEN TEXT: 1 Peter v. 5.

"Likewise ye younger, be subject unto the elder. Yea, all of you gird yourselves with humility, to serve one another; for God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace to the humble."

(30) And they went forth from thence, and passed through Galilee; and he would not that any man should know it. (31) For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man is delivered up into the hands of men and they shall kill him; and when he is killed, after three days he shall rise again. (32) But they understood not the saying, and were afraid to ask him. (33) And they came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house he asked them, What were ye reasoning in the way? (34) But they held their peace; for they had disputed one with another in the way, who was the greatest. (35) And he sat down, and called the twelve; and he saith unto them, If any man would be first, he shall be last of all, and minister of all. (36) And he took a little child, and set him in the midst of them: and taking him in his arms, he said unto them, (37) Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my name, receiveth me; and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me. (38) John said unto him, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbade him, because he followed not us. (39) But Jesus said, Forbid him not, for there is no man which shall do a mighty work in my name, and be able quickly to speak evil of me. (40) For he that is not against us is for us. (41) For whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink, because ye are Christ's, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.

(13) And they brought unto him little children that he should touch them: and the disciples rebuked them. (14) But when Jesus saw it, he was moved with indignation, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me; forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. (15) Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall in no wise enter therein. (16) And he took them in his arms, and blessed them, laying his hands upon them.

THE NARRATIVE.

In order to the interpretation of the opening declaration of our lesson that "they went forth from thence, and passed through Galilee: and He would not that any man should know it," we need to remember the things immediately preceding. These were the crisis at Caesarea Philippi, the transfiguration experience and the casting out of the demon from the boy.

From this time our Lord began to give Himself to the special instruction of His disciples, and Mark thus records His desire for privacy, and declares this to be the reason of that desire. It is evident that on the journey into Galilee His coming death and resurrection constituted the subject of His teaching. On the journey in the interval of such teaching they had been arguing as to who was the greatest.

On their arrival at Capernaum, knowing that this had been so, the Lord called the twelve to Himself, and talked to them about this matter. He first laid down in simple and explicit terms the law of greatness in His kingdom, as He said, "If any man would be first, he shall be last of all, and minister of all." Then by a remarkable action He gave them an illustration. Taking a child, He first set him in the midst of the disciples, and then taking him in His own arms, declared that to receive such a child in His name was equivalent to receiving Him; and moreover, that to receive Him, was to receive the Father.

It was in this connection that John told Him that the disciples had forbidden one whom they had found casting out devils in their Master's name, because he followed not them. It is not easy to decide whether the interruption is evidence that John was not paying attention to his Lord's teaching, or that it was intended as a confession of failure. In telling the narrative, Mark introduced the answer of Jesus with the word "but," which would seem to suggest that it was intended as a rebuke. He then proceeded to show them what their attitude should be towards those outside their own circle, who were nevertheless doing mighty works in His name. Then, apparently returning to the child, perhaps still in His arms, He uttered some of the most striking words as to their responsibility about such little ones, and their consequent responsibility concerning one's conduct.

After these things He returned to Judea, and Pharisees came to Him concerning the matter of divorce. Having replied to their inquiry, children were brought to Him, and displeased by the disciples' attitude, it is important that we observe that about us He was moved with indignation caused by the disciples' mistaken idea that the children were not to be permitted to trouble Him.

Having rebuked them, and in the words of rebuke uttered the great charter of the children, and declared that only as a child can one enter therein, He took the children in His arms, and blessed them.

THE TEACHING.

In our lesson there are two lines of teaching.

The first has to do with the true character of discipleship, and the second with the place of the child in the Kingdom of God.

By His action and His words the Lord declared that within the Kingdom the true condition of greatness is that humility which is capable of receiving children. Unless these words are to be robbed of their full meaning, the test abides with us all the time a severe one; and measured by all the standards of men who occupy positions of prominence in the Christian church are apt to forget the mind of the Master far from the greatest therein.

We learn, further, that the condition of influence is that of cautiousness which fears to cause a child to stumble. Although this particular paragraph is not found in the lesson, it is well to note that the teaching which declared that whosoever shall cause one of these little ones that believe on Me to stumble goes straight on until it is emphasized by the declaration, "Salt is good: but if the salt have lost its saltness, wherewith will ye season it? Have salt in yourselves, and be at peace one with another."

Finally He declared that the condition for entering the Kingdom is that of its reception with the simplicity of a child.

The place of the children is revealed by two actions, and the following connected therewith. The first action was that of the taking the child in the midst of the disciples, and its holding in His own arms. The second was that of the taking of the children in His arms and His laying on them His hands of blessing. Nothing really can be added to the value of these words on the part of our Lord. The children are to be received as He distinctly said, His declaration being emphasized by His rebuke to the disciples who were not willing to receive them. The children are to be protected at all costs. Woe unto them to stumble is to be in danger of the severest judgment. Therefore those who are responsible for them are to deal with them carefully without pity, realizing that a child's life in the interest of the kingdom is better than the retention of its powers for today, if such retention issue in final exclusion from the Kingdom.

THE GOLDEN TEXT.

The Golden Text, which has been selected from the writings of Peter, emphasizes the teaching of the incidents in regard to the true character of all disciples. It is found its expression in the grace of humility in order to serve. Such service would thus come to be perfect in character should begin and continually guard the habits of men by dealing with children in such way as the Lord taught.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

THE GREATEST SENTENCE IN SPEECH.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Etc.—for January 4, "Twelve Great Verses. I. The Salvation Verse." John 3:16.

During the year 1914 the young people's societies will consider twelve great verses of the Scripture, one each month. And, naturally, the greatest is put first, an appropriate topic for the first meeting of the new year. This is John 3:16, often called "the golden text of the Bible"—"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." That is the epitome of the Gospel. It is doubtless the greatest single sentence in all human speech. Can the reader think of any other in all the range of literature that is comparable with it? And, furthermore, this sentence is better known to more persons, in a greater number of languages, than any other group of words.

Some utterances are dependent upon the individual mood for their value. This one strikes down to the root of all thinking and all living—for it deals with the forever—interesting theme of the relationship between man and God. The oldest thought of the human race is and forever has been about God. Man is more interested in that theme than in any other. All the varied forms of religion, past and present, are but manifestations of that interest. This great utterance of Jesus is of tremendous pertinency, for it reveals that God's attitude toward man is that one of love. The inadequate religions that have not known Christ have looked upon the Supreme Being as a remote power, to be propitiated. Jesus brought the radical new teaching that God is to be loved, and that he looks upon mankind as a father looks upon his children.

Some of us are brooding over troubles which, could we but see them in their true proportions, are really very small. Let us measure them in an hour of solid meditation (if we are equal to so hard a task) with the majestic verities of this verse, with its eternal and instant implications and applications.

If God is interested in me, then I must also be interested in that aspect of me which interests God.

There is salvation in this great verse. It is the Father's message to the prodigal. It is the lamp forever shining in the window of the home, to light returning wanderers. It is a love letter, overflowing with forgiveness, to the erring one. It is the Father's signet ring, the proof that there is life and pardon and joy by the merit of the men.

Occasionally I have borne messages from children in foreign lands to parents in this country. And what a welcome I have received, because I came in the name of the son, not for myself, but for the son! And it was given glad greeting. The experience faintly mirrors the great truth of this verse. The Father receives us in the Beloved. It is the revelation of Christ that opens wide the doors of the Father's house to us. It is His name, and the only name, that secures salvation.

One of the tragedies of life is that which a traveler becomes aware of at the parting of kindred and friends at steamship docks and railroad stations. The pictures of the mind's eye thought calls up pain the heart, as the words are penned. What indescribable anguish! Oh, the breaking mother hearts, as some son goes! Woe is the separation of husband and wife! Yet all these tragic situations only faintly figure forth the love that cost the Father in order to send forth His Son, and now sends a mission. Yes, He "so loved" that He "gave His only begotten Son." Well may the apostle who was nearest into the truth of love say, "God is love." Only the man who has a vision of eternity will realize and understand the price the Father's heart paid for the winning back of the wandering children.

Here runs an eternal law: We are so loved. That is the way love always gives. That is its most characteristic trait. If it does not give it is not love. Selfishness is love lavishes. From the mother who pours out her life in ministry to the babe, to the veteran patriot who gladly dies on the battlefield for his country, this one trait of self-sacrifice is the essential mark of love. The test may we know the genuineness and sacredness of any love whatsoever. Only the giving love is the real love.

The old false puritanical notion that some things are "too good to be true" colors our thinking about the character of God. To a mind so twisted it seems incredible that the Father's boon in the universe, salvation, can be granted for mere faith in the Savior. We need to remember that the loving economy of God is not "too good to be true." And of the best things of life, such as love, joy, fresh air and ability to think and health, are not gained by money or traffic, but are like the Father's boon of all, free and unmerited. Moreover, if we had to trade for salvation, what medium of exchange could we offer that would be worth a treasure? As well might a Cornishire peasant sigh for the crown jewels in the Tower of London as for any of us to hope to win the eternal life and bliss by any power or merit of our own. If salvation is to be had at all, it must be by the free bounty of the King, who is the Father.

Every community is to be valued on the terms of its cost. If any one wished to view salvation realistically, let him consider what it costs the Father to give the Son.

God is the great democrat. That is why the "Whosoever" is so large in this verse. Whatever he offers to one is offered to all, and on the same terms. For, as he is the Father, he is fond of saying, "God is no snob."

TO GET HIGHER SALARIES.

Board of Supervisors Passes an Amended Ordinance Making a Number of Changes.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday passed an amended salary ordinance, in which several increases and changes are made. Supervisor Norton voted against the ordinance on the ground that it should have the approval of the County Civil Service Commission. Supervisors Pridham, Butler and Manning voted in favor of it.

A. M. McPherron, the clerk of the board, gets an increase from $150 to $200 a month. County Health Officer Sawyer is raised from $1500 a year to $2000. County Registrar McAleer's salary is raised from $1800 to $2500 a year. There are minor decreases for a few stenographers.

The employees of the County Hospital and County Farm will be on salary instead of having to present demands each month. The amended ordinance goes into effect Feburary 1.

AUTO DRIVER ARRESTED.

LeRoy W. Kellog, purchasing agent for the H. R. Boynton Company, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having driven an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. When taken before Police Judge Chambers, Kellog pleaded not guilty and will be given until January 10 for trial. Kellog is alleged to have collided with a wagon driven by J. D. Simons at North Main and Alhambra streets.

Income Taxes Due.

Collector Carter announces that the time for making out and transmitting returns under the provisions of the income tax law is now at hand with the opening of the new year, and such returns will be received up to and including March 1. Payments under such reports will begin June 1. Individuals are requested to communicate with the office of the collector and they will be furnished with the necessary blanks, these pertaining to insurance, corporations and for individual use having been received at the office of the local collector.

Up and Down Broadway.

MAGNATE HERE HOLDS TONGUE.

Maybe Wyatt's Tango Turn Brought Him.

New Play Is Announced for the Burbank.

Superstition of Rock Costs Him New Suit.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

Do you know Andy Dingwald? He's in town, but declares that he hasn't a scrap of news. Now that is mysterious for he is one of the big men of New York, theatrically speaking, owns a theater, has half a dozen shows on the road, and last night had a long secret conference with Will Wyatt, manager of the Mason.

Now, if you never heard of him it is not surprising, for, as a matter of fact, most of the powers that be, in New York, are seldom heard of, excepting by the profession.

For example, when you go into the Frohman offices to do business it isn't Frohman you see, but one of the Williams boys, or Hyams, and in the B. F. Keith offices, it is not the dean of vaudeville who tells you what you may or may not do, but Ed Albee or Eddie Darling. Then in the Leibler offices it is George Tyler who holds sway, and so on.

And that's the sort of chap Dingwald is, so when he says "no news" you can expect anything from a new theater to 5-cent vaudeville.

Maybe he has come way across the continent to attend the first of the between-the-act tangos at the Mason which Wyatt is inaugurating next week, while May Irwin is in town. No you don't have to tango with May if you don't want to, but take a tip, she can do it despite her weight. She was the originator of the cake walk, you know.

A post card from Frances Ring apprises me that she is back from dear old London, and the prediction is in order that she will be placed in the New York "Help Wanted" company in the role she created.

And now, Mrs. Jaffa's new play, "Playthings," is announced to follow "The Traveling Salesman" at the Burbank, which means that Selma Paley, and not Kitty Gordon, will twinkle first. Kitty, meantime, has "Pretty Mrs. Smith" down pat and this production will probably follow.

They are going to bring Bickneil and Watson here in the next gaiety show, which follows Rock and Fulton at the Morosco. You recall the pair for their great work in "The Follies of 1910."

Not that this announcement has anything of a hint in it regarding "The Candy Shop." Quite the contrary, for the latter is doing land office business and looks sure for another eight or ten weeks at least.

"The Mission Play" took a vacation last night to let Melba and Kubelik play to capacity at the Auditorium, but the padres and the pretty Spanish girls go to work again this afternoon, and from now on, the run will continue without interruption.

By the way, the engagement is not indefinite as it was at San Gabriel. It is for only three or four weeks.

What do you suppose it can be? This sketch Nance O'Neill will bring to the Orpheum. It is called "The Second Ash Tray." Sounds like a big smoke, doesn't it?

Billy Rock nearly had a fit last night when he discovered that he changes his clothes thirteen times in "The Candy Shop." Right away a rehearsal was called and now, just on account of superstition a new number has been added and a fourteenth costume. And it's 1914, too.

An Impossible Salary.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] The talk topic turned to modern extravagance, and this one was contributed by Congressman John W. Langley of Kentucky:

Some time since a young man in an eastern city went to his employer and asked for an addition to his weekly donation. The boss, thinking he was already paying him a fair piece of money, became exceedingly thoughtful.

"What is your particular reason for asking for an increase?" finally observed the boss. "You have no family responsibilities and you should be able to save a little on what you are now getting."

"I am engaged to a young girl," answered the clerk, blushfully, "and I would like to have a salary on which I can get married and live comfortably."

"Gee whiz, man!" exclaimed the boss, with considerable force. "There isn't such a salary. I'll give you enough to get married on, but that's as far as I can go!"

LURE OF STAGE CALLS TEACHER.

MAY EXCHANGE RULER FOR THE RABBIT'S FOOT.

Fond of Dancing and Will Appear in Interpretative Roles in Production of "The Pedagogue"—Play to Be Given at Polytechnic High School.

From a prim little chrysalis "schoolmarm" to a gorgeous stage butterfly is quite a flutter. But pretty Miss Marjorie Maughlin, a teacher of Inglewood, admits a trial flight in her part as "The Spirit of the Garden," in a cleverly satirical opera, "The Pedagogue," to be given at Polytechnic High School next Wednesday and Thursday, under the auspices of the College Women's Club.

"The Pedagogue" was written by two other talented teachers, Mrs. Isabel Gray, of Manual Arts High, and Miss Helen Charles, and has been produced with success in this city. But the authors decided that a few dances were needed, and so the garden scene between the pedagogue and the fairies was amplified, and the peculiar talent of Miss Maughlin brought to light.

Not only will Miss Maughlin play the part of the spirit of the garden, but she has written all the interpretative and esthetic dances for the children of the piece, as well as the faun and dryad dance, in which she and her sister, Miss Gladys Maughlin, will appear.

Miss Maughlin has heretofore declined to adopt the stage as a profession, but said yesterday that she is tempted by the offer of Billie Mack, who saw her in an amateur performance, to feature her as an interpretative dancer in an operetta known as "The Dawn of Day," to be given on the Keith circuit next season.

"I have always danced since a child," she said. "If I was happy I danced, and if I was sad, I danced. It seems to me that in esthetic and interpretative dancing there is everything of artistic expression, and certainly these forms of dancing require as hard work and as much self-denial as any other art. I love my home and my school work, yet it's hard to convince myself, when I think I hear the call of the stage that, as Bill Nye says, 'it's some other noise I hear!'"

The play next week is to be given for the benefit of the College Women's Club House fund and Polytechnic music department. The glee clubs and orchestras will assist. The cast will include Miss Marjorie Maughlin, Ethel Best, Marion Duncan, Mrs. Isabel McR. Gray, Miss Margaret Philipson, Ben Rich, Mignon Stockman, Verona Spellmeyer, Maud Brown, Muriel Fisher, Louise Gatch, Pearl Berry, Gladys Maughlin, and Marjorie Haray.

GOT HIS PIANO.

Mr. Connors Wants What He Wants When He Wants It, and the Porter Obeyed His Orders.

[Washington Post:] "W. J. Connors of Buffalo, former Democratic State chairman, I believe, is the largest individual employer of labor in the world," remarked Representative Robert H. Gittins of Niagara Falls at the Shoreham. "Mr. Connors has numerous interests, not the least of which is the ownership of steamship lines and a newspaper in Buffalo. He has probably never figured, and likely could not figure, how many employees are on his pay roll, but the number is close to 6000. Mr. Connors has some peculiarities. One is the desire to get what he wants when he wants it.

"It is said that on one occasion Mr. Connors was entertaining a wedding party at a Buffalo club. Among the guests was a young woman who seemed exceedingly anxious to please. She suggested to Mr. Connors that she would be glad to sing, but that there was no piano to accompany her. Mr. Connors called a porter, and said:

"'The young lady wants a piano. Please order one.'

"'But,' replied the porter, there is none to be had; we have none in the house.'

"'I want a piano,' demanded Mr. Connors. 'See that one is sent here immediately.'

"About an hour afterward six husky negroes came into the room carrying a piano. And the young lady sang."

Famous Artists' Recital.

GREAT OVATION AS FAREWELL.

MELBA, KUBELIK AND BURKE IN SECOND CONCERT.

Audience Rivalling the One of the First Concert Crowds the Auditorium and Greets Artists with Flowers and Plaudits in Memorable Musical Event.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

If the attendance at the first Melba-Kubelik concert was "a credit to Los Angeles, and one of the biggest houses that greeted the artists," as said Manager Powell, the audience last night at the Auditorium was unique.

One had to think twice for the setting was identical with the one of the first concert: every seat was taken; the orchestra pit was filled with extra seats, and several hundred people were accommodated on the stage.

Extraordinary enthusiasm was expressed throughout a memorable performance by the appreciative audience, which had the effect of making the artists thoroughly at home, and in their appreciation of the approval they all received they appeared over and over again. The original programme, excellent in choice, was eclipsed by encores, ovations and new encores.

If anyone doubted that Mme. Melba, Jan Kubelik and Edmund Burke are most popular artists, last night's experience would have convinced the most stubborn.

Massenet's "Vision Fugitive" was the first number song by Edmund Burke, in French.

Englishmen are not given to sing in French well—which is also true of the French when attempting to interpret English. The result is generally more humorous than convincing. The selection of French songs was therefore puzzling. Mr. Burke acquitted himself in such a creditable manner that it was disturbing, until I learned that he had played for several seasons with the grand opera company of Montpellier, France, and had toured the southern portion of that country as a French basso cantante, which explained all admirably.

His fine rendition of Bizet's difficult aria, "La Jolie Fille de Perth," and of half a dozen encores was easy enough to understand after that.

Jan Kubelik, the great Bohemian violinist, played Tschaikowsky's "Concerto Allegro Moderato," Wieniawski's "Souvenir of Moscow" and a number of encores. He never played better selections of great difficulty. While he retained his own peculiar little stage mannerisms, a business-like method of preparing himself to play, seemingly unconscious of the audience, he was not only technical in his admirable playing, but full of sentiment and of delightful sympathy. At the end of his part of the programme, he received a genuine ovation.

Mme. Melba, in excellent voice, sang the lovely "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," with flute obligato by Marcel Moyse. Nothing could establish better the marvelous timber of Nellie Melba's voice than this number wherein the vocal notes are duplicated by the flute.

With Kubelik playing the violin obligato, she sang the Gounod's "Ave Maria," and in answer to repeated applause, "Il Re Pastore," also with piano and violin accompaniment.

After Gounod's "Jewel Song" from "Faust," applause and encores followed one another, and Mme. Melba received the most enthusiastic reception.

In the early part of the evening many flowers were sent, and even a large cluster of golden oranges with blossoms, forming an enormous bouquet, was handed her over the footlights.

Marcel Moyse, the flutist, and especially Gabriel Lapierre, who accompanied exquisitely the programme in its entirety, aided in rounding up a great musical event, which auspiciously opens the new year.

TOO MUCH SPANKING.

So Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Appeals to the Police—Mother a Victim of Strong Drink.

Three times a day Augusta Monks, 15 years old, was spanked, at night, morning and noon. It became monotonous, she thought, and appealed yesterday to the police to make her mother desist.

When the police arrived at No. 1422 East Thirty-third street, they found the mother unable to care for the girl, and brought her to the police station. The girl will be declared a delinquent minor and taken from the custody of the mother. The woman, who is said to be a victim of drink, will be given treatment in some sanatorium.

Crude Oil on Carpet Indicates Arson—Police Search for Two Strangers Seen by Neighbors.

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 2.—What is believed to have been an attempt to burn the handsome home of T. A. Higgins, at No. 2511 Beverly avenue, was frustrated by the police last night. A realty agency which has the house listed for rent furnished was showing a prospective tenant through the house when it was discovered that a half barrel of crude oil had been dumped on the carpets after the back door had been forced. The realty men notified the police. Officers endeavored to apprehend two men who were seen in the house by neighbors after the visit of the realty man, but the fellows had too long a start.

A fire of mysterious origin partially destroyed the Lee H. Young warehouse and scorched the roof of the Oak rooming-house shortly after midnight this morning. The loss on the warehouse is $1800 and on the rooming-house $300, both partially covered by insurance. The apartment house is owned by Mrs. L. H. Plowman of Pasadena. The warehouse is owned by R. H. Woodside.

BEACH BRIEFS.

The tides and rollers have greatly subsided and no more damage is reported along this beach. Reports that the road along the Malibu are washed out are without foundation, as are stories that the Japanese fishing village has been inundated. Tomorrow's tide will be but 3 feet 3 inches high and the tide will continue to decrease in height for about two weeks, when they will again increase. It is thought by that time the beach will be temporarily fortified against the inroads of Neptune.

Cipriano Marasco, an Italian living at No. 1721 Seventh street, committed suicide at 10 o'clock last night by shooting himself through the neck. The Italian had several times threatened to kill himself, being jealous of attentions bestowed upon his wife by male friends.

Bishop Johnston will confirm a large class at the Church of St. Augustine Tuesday evening.

SITS BACK TO AWAIT RESULT.

Board Will Let the People Decide Election.

Teachers Ask for Benefits of State Pension.

Wealthy Lumberman Arrives to Pass Winter.

PASADENA, Jan. 3.—Though it has called a second election to vote on the proposed issuance of school bonds on the 16th inst., the Board of Education will this time make no campaign to carry the bonds. The amount is $125,000 and the members of the board will sit back and let the people decide without advice from them what they want.

This does not mean that the board members will take no interest in the election. They will merely refrain from making speeches, since they feel that they have already said as much about the needs of the school district as can be said. Meetings, however, will be held. Others will speak in behalf of the Board of Education. Plans are now being made for several meetings, the first of which will be held in a few days.

Two hundred and fourteen of the 308 teachers in Pasadena have made application for the benefits of the State teachers' pension law.

Several of the school buildings of the city have been renovated and some slight improvements, such as the board could afford, made during the Christmas holidays.

Preparations have been completed for the new term of school, which opens next Monday. A considerable increase in attendance is looked for.

LUMBER MAN ARRIVES.

Frederick Weyerhauser of St. Paul, reputed by some to be the richest man in the world, who for many years has passed his winters in Pasadena, has arrived here, and is at his home in Oak Knoll. As was the case when he arrived here last year, he went directly to his house, where it was announced that he would see no one and that he had nothing at all to say.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Weyerhauser, their son, Rudolph, and four children. They came in a private car over the Salt Lake line.

FINE SHOWING IS MADE.

While definite figures are not yet obtainable, R. D. Davis, president of the Tournaent of Roses Association, said yesterday that there will be a handsome sum left over, of the money that was raised for the tournament. This will go into the funds of the organization and will apply to next year's tournament.

The tournament, which was regarded by most Pasadenans as the best that has ever been held in the city, was largely what it was because of about sixty days and nights of almost continuous work on the part of Davis. He was showered with congratulations yesterday, but modestly disclaimed all thanks, except such as should come to him as one of the directors of the association.

"But we did have a fine tournament," he said last night, "and we set a pace for 1915 which I hope will be beaten when that time comes."

There was a report current that the tournament had been insured against rain, so that should it have rained there would have been no loss to the association. Davis last night denied this.

"We found," he said, "that the cost of insuring it would have been so great that it would have amounted to more than the losses in case of rain."

Madame Nellie Melba, who is staying at the Hotel Raymond, said yesterday:

CITY BRIEFS.

Though the formal opening of the new Hotel Huntington is not to take place until the 8th inst., the first guests of the first season registered there yesterday. They are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ross of Chicago, a sister of Ross, and maid. Mr. and Mrs. Ross have been winter residents of Pasadena for the last twenty-six years. Many reservations, it is announced, have been made at the new hostelry.

Rufus Steele, a well-known California writer, and Mrs. Steele, are guests at the Hotel Green.

Conrad Rawn, aged 40, was found dead in his room, No. 95 Dayton street, yesterday. The gas was turned on and the police are more inclined to the belief that it is a case of suicide than of accident. The man was a teamster and was unmarried.

William Dodge, of No. 1411 North Fair Oaks avenue, is seriously ill at his home. A daughter, Mrs. William Corrough, of Grinnell, Iowa, arrived yesterday, and a son, Edward Dodge of Hubbard, Iowa, is also with him. Dodge is one of the best known residents of the city.

J. L. Jackson, a carpenter who lives at No. 490 Winona avenue, yesterday while riding a bicycle was struck by an automobile driven by J. S. Allin on Union street near Broadway and sustained severe scalp wounds. A large egg, so large that he was about to exhibit it as a curiosity, that he had in his pocket at the time, was not broken.

A. B. Chapman, a pioneer of the San Gabriel Valley, is seriously ill at his ranch just east of Lamanda Park. He is 85 years of age.

SEEK TO ESCAPE.

"Dry" Minister and "Wet" Boosters Hope to Shake Off Counter-Charges. Case Is Continued.

SANTA ANA, Jan. 2.—Rev. C. H. M. Sutherland, pastor of the Methodist Church at Anaheim, seeks to have the false registration charge against him dismissed. Rev. Sutherland was a "dry" in the recent saloon fight at Anaheim. Three "wets" were arrested on false registration charges, and they, too, hope for dismissals.

Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted today by Attorneys Williams and Rutan for the minister, who was held to answer for trial in the Superior Court. So the proceedings might be brought, Rev. Sutherland came in and gave himself up to Sheriff Ruddock. For several hours the minister was in custody. However, he was not placed in jail, but remained in the Sheriff's office in charge of Miss Nellie Bacon, office deputy. At 2 o'clock the hearing was had, but Judge West continued the case until January 8. Rev. Mr. Sutherland then renewed his $500 bond.

J. C. Bourne and W. W. Walker, represented by Attorney H. C. Head, asked for dismissal of their cases. Their contention is that while they registered before they had been in the State a year it is allowable provided the year is up before the next general election.

The Methodist minister's contention is that there was no intent on his part to get upon the Great Register illegally. It is also contended that he was really a citizen. Last July he was granted naturalization papers. Four days later it was found that a mistake was made and his papers were cancelled without notice to him until after cancellation was made. His attorneys assert that a man cannot be deprived of citizenship without due notice being given him.

BILLS ITS FIRST ORANGE ORDER.

New Packing-House Does Its Duty for Gate City.

Purse Snatcher Drops Loot on Being Pursued.

Fair Former Angelenos Get Divorce Decrees.

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 2.—Work was begun today on packing the first car of oranges ever packed and shipped directly from this city. They are being handled in the new packing-house of the Rialto Orange Company, erected a year ago in the Mt. Vernon section of the city, to take the fruit from that district, which for many years has been hauled to Rialto.

The house will be operated by the owners as a branch house of their Rialto plant. An order for ten cars of fruit will be filled in the first run, which began today, the oranges being picked from the orchards of A. A. Cox, who is president of the company.

While for many years a large percentage of the orange crop of Southern California has been assembled here from the growing districts, to be made up into trains for movement East over the Santa Fe and Salt Lake roads, not a single car of fruit was ever before packed in this city. This house will pack well toward 100 cars this year, and it is more than possible that a second house will be erected here within the next year or two to handle fruit from another nearby district.

J. T. Canady of Rialto is the superintendent. The house was built last year, but owing to the freeze, was never operated until now.

DROPS HIS LOOT.

A purse snatcher last night grabbed the handbag of Miss Myrtle Clark, who was on her way downtown in company with her mother. The women began to scream, which attracted several persons, including a policeman, the latter chasing the fellow for several blocks, and finally losing him in a dark alley, after firing several times at him. The fellow became frightened and threw the handbag away and also lost his hat in the chase. He had hidden behind a tree, and as the women passed, had jumped out at them, making the grab at the same moment.

PRETTY DIVORCEES.

Mrs. Lillian Snyder has secured a divorce in San Francisco from Orie E. Snyder, a cigar dealer of this city. At the same time Mrs. Margaret Balch was also granted a decree from R. Walker Balch of Los Angeles. Both women formerly resided here, and at one time both lived in Los Angeles. Both were strikingly handsome and attractive and left here several months ago, going to the northern city, where they have since been living. The ground was desertion in both cases.

NOTED CHINESE DEAD.

Wing Kee, better known as Wong Ming, is dead. He attained considerable notoriety some months ago by marrying Kasa Lee, who asserted that her parentage made her one-fourth Filipino, one-fourth Chinese and one-half Mexican. He showered her with diamonds and other valuables and finery and then took her on a wedding trip to his native land.

They recently returned, but the bride was evidently not impressed with the customs of her husband's native land for she decided to hold a "white man's" funeral this afternoon, all Chinese customs at such ceremonies being barred. A Christian minister conducted the service.

The people of Needles will, on January 20, vote on a proposition to issue bonds in the sum of $33,000, for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new high school, an improvement the desert metropolis has long needed, and which will give it splendid school facilities.

This valley felt the first earthquake this morning at 12:31 o'clock when there was a distinct shock which awakened many of the people of the city, but did no damage of any sort.

ALDEN BESSE GOES UNDER.

Romantic Old Bark Sinks Head-on in Inner Harbor—Became Picture Ship in Old Age.

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 2.—The old bark Alden Besse, once a well-known sailing craft, but lately used only as a coal barge, and occasionally towed to sea to stage some thrilling scene for the motion picture lovers, sank in the inner harbor today and only the masts and spars are visible at high tide.

In the hold of the vessel is about 300 tons of coal. Yesterday about sixty tons was put aboard in the forward hatch preparatory to coaling the steamer Robert Dollar, which lay alongside at the Crescent wharf. The additional cargo forward sent the old bark down at the head above the water line and as she was badly weather-beaten the seams opened and she slowly filled.

It was too late to save her when she was seen slowly sinking about 7 o'clock this morning. It is not believed there will be any great difficulty in raising her, as soon as a diver can patch the holes to permit the water being pumped out.

The old bark was owned by the Crescent Wharf and Warehouse Company. She was sold at auction about two years ago for $1200 to pay port charges. At this price she was considered a great bargain, as the spars and chains alone are worth the amount. The last voyage at sea made by the Alden Besse was a trip from Honolulu with a cargo of canned pineapples and scrap-iron.

The harbor engineers discovered today that it is a harder task to get the Alta Planning Mill Company to stop work on the new municipal freight shed on Pier A than to get the company busy.

This morning Harbor Engineer Jubb served notice on the superintendent in charge of the work through the police department, that work should cease. The orders were ignored and nearly a 100 men, put to work last week at the urged orders of the Board of Public Works, continued to make things hum with saws and hammers.

The trouble today is the result of a dispute over material that the engineers rejected, because it did not come up to the required specifications. They refused to accept Japanese oak as white oak for the thrust blocks in the roof trusses.

Commissioner O'Brien of the Board of Public Works and City Engineer Hamlin were here this afternoon and went over the situation with Engineers Jubb and Vincent. Tomorrow O'Brien will take the matter up with the legal department.

Last week the Board of Public Works served notice upon the contractors that unless they rushed the work through as rapidly as possible the city engineers would take over the job and complete under force account. Immediately the company put a big gang of men to work.

REPUBLICANS LEAD.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 2.—Registration of voters for the new Great Register started with a rush today. When the county clerk's office closed the result was: Republicans, 152; Democrats, 42; Progressives, 40; Socialists, 2; Prohibitionists, 2; non-partisan, 18, pro-Democrat, 1.

Covina.

TEN CARS OF ORANGES BURN IN PACKING-HOUSE.

COVINA, Jan. 2.—Ten cars of Washington navel oranges and the big wooden-shell building belonging to the Covina Orange Growers' Association, went up in flames tonight shortly after 7 o'clock, causing a loss of about $25,000.

It was the hottest fire that has ever been fought in the valley with the odds all in the favor of the fire. The Covina fire department was driven back step by step from the furious heat and was obliged to expend energies in saving the surrounding buildings. The packing-house, over 400 feet in length, was afire from end to end fifteen minutes after the first alarm.

The buildings and yard of the Kerckhoff-Cuzner Lumber Company were seriously threatened for a time, as was also the Covina Southern Pacific Depot and the packing-house of the Covina Heights Groves, Incorporated. The air was still, and with a constant stream of water falling on the surrounding buildings from several lines of hose, a big conflagration was averted.

Manager C. E. Crawford said last night that he had been able to save valuable papers in the office, but that the safe went down with the flames. He said that insurance was carried in the Mutual Indemnity Company, a company which is a part of the co-operative system of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and that the amount practically covered the loss.

There were 4000 loose boxes of fruit in the house and one packed car on the siding. Some salvage may be gotten from the packed car which was only partially burned. In the basement were nine carloads of box shook, worth about $800 per carload.

Nothing is known of the origin of the fire. President A. R. Evans stated that it was probably caused by crossed wires. A janitor had left the building a few minutes before flames burst out, but was unable to throw any light on the subject.

Manager Crawford said that negotiations would be made immediately with the directors of packing-houses in Covina and that the work of packing fruit would be very little delayed. Stockholders in the association all agreed last night that the building would be immediately rebuilt and re-equipped.

Venice.

SEASIDERS FEAR FOR THE TIDES OF MARCH.

VENICE, Jan. 2.—Seasiders who own ocean-front property south of Center street, where the recent high tides wrought such destruction to the shore, are anxiously awaiting the response of the War Department to the appeal made to it through the City Trustees for expert advice bearing upon the manner of improvement to be made for the future protection of the homes and frontage threatened.

When the concrete sidewalk and bulkhead were washed away for a distance of fifteen blocks the ripping tide found no obstacles in the way and quickly dissolved the sand and carried it out to sea. So vigorous were the cross-currents that in a few hours seventy-five-foot lots lost half their depth.

Houses that ornamented the fronts of the lots were moved to the rear at Speedway where they are safe for the time being, but fear is felt for their safety when the high tides of March recur, unless protective measures shall have been taken before that time.

As a temporary measure of relief the Trustees are preparing plans and expect to construct a number of 100-foot jetties. The effect of these, it is believed, will be to break the force of the cutting-in currents and thus preserve the shore line from further inroads.

Fault is found with the bulkheads that were washed away. It is stated that if they had been built at an incline, instead of being perpendicular, the waves when striking them would have simply rolled along the inclined plane without doing damage, instead of battering forcibly against the upright wall and hammering it into small bits.

The advice of government engineers who are versed in the construction of bulkheads planned for the protection of frontages swept by the tides is relied upon in the reconstruction of a bulkhead that will be of permanent value.

BOND BOOSTERS START CAMPAIGN.

WOULD BUILD LARGER HARBOR WITH CITY MONEY.

Four Rallies Last Night Stir Up Enthusiasm for Business Increase Through Water Facilities—Girl Charged With Getting Goods Under False Pretenses.

LONG BEACH, Jan. 2.—The 1914 campaign for a bigger and better harbor for Long Beach opened in earnest when speakers addressed two large audiences urging the people to vote for the harbor bonds.

Prior to the rallies, from forty to fifty bond boosters had a dinner at the Puritan cafe, and discussed ways and means for a vigorous campaign. Among those at the dinner were W. H. Reider, president of the Harbor Campaign Organization; W. H. Wallace, chairman; J. A. Rominger, vice-president; R. L. Bixby, secretary; H. E. Barbour, J. R. Hall, H. T. Marsh, B. F. Tucker, C. H. Benedict, J. B. Green and Stephen Townsend.

In the meeting at Zaferia, Capt. W. L. Krownishield, who has been navigating officer of many ships for seventeen years, spoke on the topic, "Harbors I Have Navigated." W. H. Reider, president of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered an address on "Civic Progress." F. J. Culver spoke on the topic, "The Pacific, the Commercial Battle Ground of Today."

At the Carroll Park Schoolhouse addresses were delivered by W. H. Reider, who took as his text, "What a Real Harbor Means to Business," and J. F. Culver, who repeated his former speech. Thomas W. Lincoln showed stereopticon views of harbors of the world and delivered a lecture in connection with the views. Slides were also shown of the proposed Belmont pier.

YOUNG GIRL ARRESTED.

Bernice Nelson, a 17-year-old girl, was arrested at her home at No. 543½ West Fourth street at noon today, charged with receiving clothing under false pretenses. It is the old story of a young girl's love of finery overcoming her natural honesty.

Her father had been ill for some time and unable to get work and Bernice could not withstand the temptation of the pretty clothes in the shop windows. Calling up the stores by telephone she represented herself to be Fannie Bixby, Fannie Bakerman, and other well-known charity workers, and ordered goods charged to their accounts.

She would close her messages by stating that the goods would be sent for. Then Bernice called and asked for the "purchases" and went home to revel in the finery that she had coveted. She hid the clothing in a number of places, but confessed to part of the thefts at least when arrested. The police have been busy going from place to place recovering the stolen property. The girl's father will be cared for by the Associated Charities and placed in a hospital.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Rev. A. L. B. Martin, pastor of the Long Beach Church of the Brethern since April 16, 1911, closed his connection with the church at the end of last year. He will be succeeded as pastor of the local church by Rev. J. Z. Gilbert of Los Angeles.

Dr. Hoag has been selected as head of the department of hygiene of the Long Beach High School, and will take up his duties on January 19.

The police have decided not to enforce the new automobile license law unless especially directed to do so. A similar law has been declared unconstitutional in other States, and the Long Beach police do not feel inclined to put this one into effect until it has been passed upon by the higher courts.

The lumber schooner O. M. Clark was the first vessel to bring lumber to Long Beach this year. She arrived yesterday with 312,000 feet and 200,000 laths for the Long Beach Improvement Company.

Charles L. Passmore, who has been visiting his son-in-law, E. F. Davis, will leave tomorrow for the Ames Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa. Passmore is a seed expert, and will be one of the judges in the coming corn exhibit that is to be held at Ames.

The City National Bank, the National Bank and the First National Bank paid their semi-annual dividends today. The Farmers and Merchants Bank and the Exchange National Bank paid their regular quarterly dividends the day before Christmas. The Long Beach Savings Bank also paid its semi-annual dividend today.

C. J. Walker, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, said today that while there were a few features of the new currency law that might have to be altered, the law in the main is a good one, and that probably the Farmers and Merchants Bank would join the Federal reserve bank. The Farmers and Merchants is a State bank.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE.

Five Caught Under Wreck, But Rescued by Tournament of Roses Visitors.

VAN NUYS, Jan. 1.—Five were injured, one quite seriously, when the auto of E. O. Price turned turtle near Eagle Rock, on the way to Pasadena to the rose tournament.

Price was driving around the sharp curves near Eagle Rock. The road was crowded with machines and as he started to go around a horse and carriage, another machine cut in and crowded him off the roadway.

As the car went off the bank it turned bottom up, pinning several members of the party underneath. Quick assistance came from those passing, and the heavy machine was lifted so that the passengers could be reached.

Mrs. Price was unconscious and at first it was feared she might be fatally injured. She revived, however, and a medical examination showed that there was no fear for her life.

Mr. and Mrs. Price's two daughters, Mrs. Pearl Hickey, and Mrs. Lena Van Nest, and the latter's little daughter, Thelma Van Nest, were all more or less bruised and cut, and Price had a wrenched side, a badly sprained knee, and was cut about the face.

After righting the machine the party got in and Price returned to his home in Van Nuys with his own power, the auto proving serviceable despite the fact that it was badly battered.

Y.M.C.A. INCORPORATION.

Lot Purchased and Preparations Made for Conducting Athletic Work. News Briefs.

SOUTH PASADENA, Jan. 2.—Incorporation papers for the new South Pasadena Y.M.C.A. have just been filed, and, with the complete organization of the association, active work will be begun. No effort will be made to build a permanent building for several years, but the large lot on the corner of El Centro street and Fairview avenue will be paid for. An option on the lot was taken several years ago by a group of business men of the city who were interested in seeing a permanent association for South Pasadena, and the money to pay for it was raised during the recent campaign held for the purpose.

Aside from completing the payment on the lot, the amount of money raised will be sufficient for establishing an athletic field, and equipment for various sports will be erected on their lot at once.

Homer Fox, who has been selected as secretary of the association, has already taken active charge of the work, and, although he is seriously hindered by lack of permanent headquarters, he has interested the boys and young men of the city in the association, and when a call is made for members it is expected that there will be a ready response.

Hare-and-hound hunts and other amusements that require no equipment have been run off, and the interest taken in them by the young men promises a strong support for the regular Y.M.C.A. work.

Secretary Fox has had a wide experience in work among boys, and he is anxious to have all the technical details settled so that he will have a stronger basis upon which to carry out his plans, and, although they are not definite, it is probable that a small building will be erected on the lot, as a clubroom is badly needed.

The incorporators of the new association are Leon Berry, P. C. Wadsworth, John C. Jacobs, Z. L. Parmelee, George W. Lawyer, Edwin M. Cooper, Don F. Gates, George C. Bush, Frank E. Collier, Norman F. Marsh, C. E. Carver, Ralph G. Johns, H. E. McMonigal, E. L. Eldredge and George W. Wilson.

BEATS ROCK CRUSHER.

According to the decision of the Superior Court, South Pasadena has been successful in its fight against the rock crusher at the foot of Mission street. The crusher must now move as soon as possible. An ordinance forcing removal of the crusher was passed some time ago by the City Trustees, as the residents near its location complained vigorously of the noise and dust made by the crusher. Thirty days was given the owners to remove the plant, but before the time had expired the owners had secured a temporary injunction.

The trouble for the removal of the crusher will have on the paving of the streets in South Pasadena remains to be seen. At the beginning of the action against the crusher the contractors, who had already been awarded the bid for the paving of Huntington Drive, stated that they could not carry out their contract if forced to carry their gravel farther. The Trustees allege that, as the haul would not be much longer, the price would not be materially raised, and they anticipate no complications in the paving of Huntington Drive or any streets yet to be paved.

New telephone books for the Home Telephone Company of Los Angeles are being delivered to the South Pasadena subscribers next week. The books contain the new numbers which have been given the local people since the installation of the substation here.

R. C. Claubic, the proprietor of a bicycle and sporting goods house, No. 1007 Mission street, has disposed of his stock of goods, and is moving to Fresno, where he will open a similar store.

ANGELENO TEACHER.

M'KITTRICK, Jan. 2.—Miss Sanborn of Los Angeles has been elected a teacher of the Olig district public school, and will enter upon her duties next week, succeeding Miss Baker of the same city, who resigned on account of ill health. Miss Sanborn will be associated with Miss Elizabeth Travis, also of Los Angeles, who has been one of the teachers since the beginning of the term. The new Olig school, just completed, will be opened in a few days. It is a substantial and attractive structure and was erected by Ochs Brothers, contractors, of Wasco. The trustees of the school are C. M. Small, E. E. Morgan and Samuel Gelbner.

FATHER KILLED SEEKING GIRL

Angeleno Assassinated, Says Fugitive Companion.

Attack in the Night Sends Two to Eternity.

Federals Held Responsible by Excited Borderites.

EL CENTRO, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Encarnacion Sanchez, owner of a restaurant in Los Angeles, and Jose Valenchez were killed and Pablo Florez seriously injured by the Mexican Federals at Mexicali New Year's Eve. According to the story of Florez, Sanchez, accompanied by the other two, was in Mexicali in search of his daughter, who was supposed to have been inveigled into one of the many dives of that town, when he was seized by the Federals with cries of "Spies!" and searched at arms.

After a short incarceration in a Mexicali dungeon, the men were led out to be taken to another town, but when less than five miles from Mexicali their captors turned on them and placed the muzzle of their guns at their bodies and fired.

Florez, by a quick jump to the side was struck but a glancing blow on one of his left ribs, the bullet passing on through the fleshy part of his left arm. He was felled by the force of the blow, but the Federals, firing the first shot might not prove their aim, fired again at his head, the bullet passing so close that it singed his hair, while the powder burned his face. The soldiers then returned to Mexicali in the belief that all three were dead.

When he had recovered sufficiently, he set out in the direction of the lights of Calexico, where he arrived yesterday morning in a worn-out condition and reported his story.

The Federals deny any knowledge of the affair. Juan Matous, Mexican Consul at Calexico, refused to believe the man's story, proffering in its stead the theory that Flores was one of the bandits shot the same night by the customs officers at Mexicali. The position of the customs office, the direction of the bandits' flight, and the location of the man's wounds all combine to disprove this theory in the minds of the Calexico people who know Flores and believe his story.

The popular theory is that when the owners of the dives learned of Sanchez's presence and his mission, he was rushed to the Federals with the report that spies were in town and one in every possible manner in order to get the men out of the way.

Immigration Inspector Webb of Calexico left for the scene of the killing this morning, but failed to find the bodies, which are thought to have been hidden by the slayers in the simple time given between the close of the story and the investigation.

The relations between the people of Calexico and Mexicali have been strained by a number of incidents, but similar, incidents of late, and the sympathy is with Flores. A rigid investigation is being instituted, and the result is awaited eagerly by the people of Calexico, who have shown marvelous patience in regard to their tempestuous neighbors across the border.

Considered It Premature.

[Green Bag:] A New York lawyer tells of an English widow, who, by reason of certain legal complications, found it necessary to retain a distinguished attorney to represent her in the adjustment of her late husband's estate.

"You will," said the attorney, during the course of their consultations, "you will get your third out of the estate."

"Oh!" exclaimed the widow, aghast, "how can you say such a thing, with my second husband not in his grave!"

POLE CRUSHES HEAD OF POWER OFFICIAL

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HEMET (Cal.) Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George R. Kempton, local manager for the Southern Sierras Power Company at Hemet and San Jacinto, was fatally injured at 11:30 a.m. today when a pole fell crushing his head and fracturing the skull in several places.

Kempton was superintending the erection of a pole line at Florida avenue and Front street, made necessary by the street-paving work now under way. A thirty-foot pole had been raised to a height of about twenty feet, when the gigs gave way and the pole fell, pinning Kempton to the ground. Six other men escaped without injury.

Kempton was picked up unconscious and was carried into I. B. Gibbel's store. Dr. Paul Simmonds was called, and, after hurried arrangements, Mr. Kempton was taken by automobile to Riverside Hospital. He was still alive when the auto rushed into Riverside, and advices state that his death is expected at any moment. He is suffering profusely, and it is thought he is injured internally. The power company officials did all in their power for the wounded man.

A few minutes before the accident occurred Kempton remarked to a clerk in the Southern Sierras Power Company office that he was not feeling well and that he did not know what would result if he should be suddenly stricken down, as all his people were back East in Buffalo and other points. Ten minutes later the accident occurred.

Kempton was a single man and came here from Buffalo only a few months ago to take the place of C. E. Baker, who resigned as local manager of the company here. Efforts to locate his people have thus far failed.

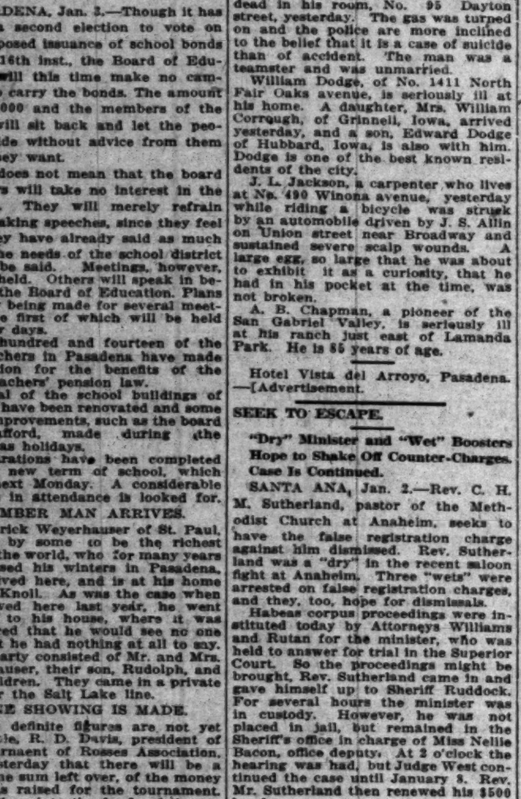
ACCEPT TWO MILLIONS FOR COMPANY'S CLAIMS

EL CENTRO, Jan. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The board of directors of the Imperial Irrigation district, at a special meeting in El Centro today, evinced their willingness to accept the Southern Pacific's offer of $2,000,000 for that company's claims against the defunct California Development Company.

There still remain numerous matters to be settled by the parties in question prior to the consummation of the deal, which is expected to release Imperial Valley water-users from the fear and uncertainty of future water shortage.

Among these is the question of the validity of the title which the Southern Pacific could give to its holdings in Mexico, a very serious question. The following telegram to President Sproule of the Southern Pacific shows the stand taken by the district directors:

"Your proposition of $2,000,000 agreeable to our board provided no other arrangements can be made at factory. We would be pleased to meet you in Los Angeles any day next week after Monday.—W. O. Rankine, president district board."



"Yes madam, I make less profit on Campbell's—

"Less profit per can than on any other soup which retails at the same price. Still I'd rather sell you Campbell's.

"Why? Because of its superior quality. Because I know you will be satisfied.

"You will want Campbell's instead of bothering with home-made soup. In the end I know I will sell you a great many cans of Campbell's Soups. And their high quality helps me to hold your trade. That pays me."

DISARM PIRATE HAND HIM OVER.

Plot of Sea Rover Foiled by Captain and His Crew.

Terrific Struggle in Cabin Followed by Arrest.

Prisoner Tells Weird Tale to San Francisco Police.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—A sea rover and Arctic trader turned pirate, Andrew B. Nelson, himself a master mariner and one time owner of the schooner Hera, was brought to port today in irons, locked in the brig of the steam lumber schooner Williamette, and turned over to the Federal authorities, who held him in $10,000 bail on a charge of assaulting Capt. Reiner on the high seas with intent to murder.

With him was brought Joseph Laramie, a bricklayer, who says he is from Shelby, Ind., charged with being an accomplice in the crime. He was held in the same bail. Neither man will admit that he knows the other.

Nelson was arrested Wednesday night after a hand to hand battle in the captain's cabin, which he had entered muffled in a towel, wearing a brown wig as thick as a thatch and a false mustache, and carrying an automatic .44-caliber pistol in his outstretched hand.

Though a smaller, lighter man, Capt. Reiner fought the pistol away from the grotesque pirate, who immediately drew a double action .44-caliber revolver. He was getting the better of the captain when two sailors and a waiter rushed into the room, overpowered Nelson and ironed him. Laramie was standing outside the door while the fight was in progress.

VESSEL CARRIED CASH.

The Williamette carried $1500 in gold to pay her crew of twenty-five and there were twenty-five passengers quartered aft. A lunch followed the usual keeping distant about half a mile for some time, and Capt. Reiner believes the pirate intended to rob the safe, hold up the passengers for their cash and valuables, and make his escape ashore in the launch. Elaborate notations of possible landing places, giving distances and compass bearings, were found in his clothes.

After turning over his prisoner and telling his tale, Capt. Reiner put out to sea again, bound for Seattle. He would not be alive tonight if it were not that in fighting for possession of the automatic pistol he was lucky enough to put the mechanism out of order. The pirate was pulling the trigger constantly until he realized that the weapon was useless, when he threw it on the floor and drew his knife.

So terrifying an apparition did he make in his mask and wig that the cook's nephew, a lad of seventeen, fleeing from the room and ran headlong to the forecastle, where he arrived with fright he fell in a dead faint before he could make known his uncle's plight. It was the noise of the scuffle that finally drew the crew to the captain's aid.

NELSON'S STORY.

In 1904-5, Nelson says he was master of the lumber schooner San Buena Ventura, since wrecked. His statement cannot be verified, since all shipping records of that date were destroyed in the great fire of 1906. But it is at variance with the recollections of shipping men, who remember the San Buena Ventura as having been commanded by Capt. Hera for many years.

After that Nelson drifted about. He does not remember precisely where he was, or he will not tell, until in 1912, at Tacoma, he picked up the schooner Hera and went trading on the coast of Alaska. That part of his story has been verified, as was his employment on board the schooner. He only took out his mate's papers, giving him license to work as a steamship, recently.

The Hera, too, was wrecked, but again Nelson will not tell when or where. He only says that at this time he had passed out of his hands.

Not only does he deny any connivance with the other prisoner, but he says he has no knowledge of the lunch seen following the omelette at the time he was battling with the captain, while the ship lay off Point Vincent, midway between San Pedro, from which she had just cleared that Wednesday night, and Redondo.

Capt. Reiner could not see how any other men were in the launch, but in view of what happened, he thought Laramie's behavior decidedly suspicious.

ARCHIVES TAX WARRANTS.

Los Angeles County Pays in $314,-000 as First Installment for the Fiscal Year 1913-14.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2.—Warrants for $1,273,416.93 have been received by State Controller Chambers from the various counties of California in payment of the first installment of taxes for the fiscal year 1913-14. The sums were raised as follows: Real property, $34,437.50; poll taxes, $690,666.75; Panama-Pacific Exposition tax, $313,685.66; estates of deceased persons, $9465.17; inheritance tax, $794,530.20; Whittier, $10.-75; Preston, $39,841.01; Sonoma, $1.25; highway bond interest, $55.-; school lands, $28,416.09.

San Francisco paid the largest amount of taxes with $628,915.84. In the following order came Los Angeles, $476,15; Alameda, $199,297.32; Colusa, $58,931.21; Sacramento, $56.45; Kern, $56,918.41; Fresno, $50.44; Alpine county paid the smallest amount with $890.74.

EXTENDS TIME FOR INITIATIVE.

Jordan Grants Forty Days for the Signing Habit.

Will Give Electors Leeway to Finish Petitions.

May Enable Us to Vote for a Few More Laws.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2.—Secretary of State Jordan announced today that supplemental signatures to initiative petitions circulated in 1913 and filed in his office previous to January 1, would be accepted for forty days more, subject to the following conditions:

That the signatures are obtained from persons registering in 1914; that no duplicate signatures are obtained; and that County Clerks verify the supplemental petitions against duplication in names.

This decision will give electors forty additional days in which to supplement petitions filed last year, that did not have a sufficient number of signatures to place the law proposed on the 1914 ballot for the approval of voters. It will also permit circulators of petitions to add more names to successful petitions already filed in the Secretary of State's office.

Proponents of the proposed anti-prizefight law, who fell short of about 10,000 names of securing enough signatures before January 1 to insure that proposition going on the ballot, will take advantage of Secretary Jordan's decision, hoping to secure additional signatures without having to recirculate an entirely new petition.

PRICE FLUCTUATIONS ARE OF SLIGHT MOMENT.

The Advance in Call Money Has a Retarding Effect Upon the Bulls' Efforts—The Withdrawal of the Morgan Banking House from Many Directorates Is Without Influence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The first day of the new year on the stock market was devoid on the surface of more than passing significance. Price changes in the main were unimportant, though with a higher tendency. In the final hour a selling movement of moderate proportions wiped out most of the early gains, sending the general level under Wednesday's final quotations. Domestic advices were favorable for the most part, except for steel and iron. The interesting event of the day in its general application to financial and political conditions was the announcement that the banking house of Morgan & Co. had retired from numerous boards with which it had long been associated, and the intimation that further withdrawals would be announced from time to time. This gave rise to much surmise and conjecture, but had no influence upon the stock market. Europe's markets seemed in a less easy state than our own, with weakness in Paris. There was some foreign selling, chiefly of Canadian Pacific, Steel and the coppers. A rise in call money to 10 per cent. served as a reminder that local monetary conditions leave something to be desired, and some hardening for time money in the longer maturities was reported. United States 2's and Panama 3's advanced ¼@¾ per cent. on call. Total sales of bonds, par value, $2,175,000.

New York Curb Stocks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Oil stocks ruled in the market on the curb. The entire list was active and the majority of the issues were strong. Braden sold off fractionally. Boston coppers opened strong, with an 1-8 point sound here and there. The demand was greater than the offering. Coppers showed a strong undertone, buoyed up by the outlook for the metal, and prospects for an early termination of the Michigan strike. ❶ The undertone of the market was strong at the close, although the market was dull.

NEW YORK LETTER.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchange, Bradbury building, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—There was not much in the news over the year-end to stimulate the initiative of the trading element. Consequently the fluctuations today were governed in great part by currency developments, such as the advance in call money rates to 9 per cent., and a rather poor statement of November earnings by the New York Central and Pennsylvania links, and also the Erie. Price changes, except in the instance of a few specialties, were not material, and the selling which occurred appeared to come chiefly from professional sources. Rather close attention is paid to the record of commercial mortalities, which perhaps is a reflection of recent announcements in connection with the Siegel stores. It is generally recognized that commercial and industrial conditions are unsatisfactory and that readjustments in those quarters are not as yet complete. However, as far as the stock market is concerned, signs are not lacking of a rather well-liquidated state of affairs. There is little question but that the New York State bond issues, which will be placed during the latter part of the current month, will be a pronounced success, and for this reason it is not improbable that the domestic investment markets will be stimulated. Plans are being formulated by large corporations in connections with new financing, and after the January disbursements begin to flow into natural channels it seems likely that new capital issues will meet with more favor.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Expiration of Old Low-Priced Contracts Causes Strength in Associated Oil Stock.

Associated Oil sold at $41 yesterday on the Stock Exchange, this figure being a point above any "high" touched in several months. The reason for the show of strength is the expiration of a number of low price selling contracts of the Associated. Some of these are said to have been on the nation's farm products reached unparalleled totals, while the export trade of the United States in those staples touched figures never before attained.

"The foreign commerce statistics are particularly significant, in connection with the monetary situation, the large balance of trade in favor of this country indicating that gold imports may be inaugurated early in the year 1914.

"Failures this week are 381, against 313 last year. Failures in Canada number 54 against 27 last, year."

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Bradstreet's Review will say tomorrow:

"Few real new features present themselves this week, usually a period of holiday dullness, end of year inventories, and restricted industrial activites. Information as to distributive trade points to the last year as having about equaled 1912.

Summarized reports indicate irregular holiday trade results, a generally profitable year reported by banks, with dividends in most cases maintained; re-entry of the railroads into the steel rail market and lower prices for pig iron. Business failures for the week were 365, which compares with 287 in 1913.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week aggregate 5,991,412 bushels against 4,696,618 last year."

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Lower prices in raisins as the result of short pre-holiday sales by the big packing interests is going to cause a decline in this dried fruit as far as wholesale prices are concerned. There was a big set of raisins, but not nearly as large as the packers had expected and with a heavy 1913 crop to move and a very appreciable surplus from 1912 to be disposed of, the prices are beginning to waver and reports of underselling of the Raisin Growers Association prices are rife. There is little stock in the eastern markets and the wholesalers are buying just as their needs demand waiting the decline they first assured must come. The world wide shortage of dried fruits is causing a heavy call for all available stock at prevailing figures and an advance is being looked for at any time. Limited holdings of the packers in prunes have been the cause for a very firm market on that product.

FAILURES.

...Failures record was a ...ding that for 1913 by ...4.9 per cent., and that for 1908 by 3 per cent., while liabilities increased 33 per cent, over 1912, though falling 7 per cent. below 1908. Half of the excess in liabilities over 1912 was explained by unsafe banking, a good part of the balance being contributed by large dealers in rubber, in automobile, iron and lumber manufacturing and coal mining. Failures in the first half of the year were below those of 1912, and the liabilities were only slightly larger, but the third quarter saw the balance tip against the current year, especially in liabilities, which were swelled by the banking troubles mentioned, and the last quarter's failures and liabilities were the largest for two years. Throughout the entire year 1913, as in 1912, the large number of small failures called attention anew to the fact that the business community has been greatly diluted of late years. In the ten years from 1904 to 1913, inclusive, the number in business increased by 45,000 per year, or by 35 per cent., whereas the increase in population was not at much over half this rate. This caused a rise in the percentage failing each year, and raised anew the question whether the heavy increase in the number of traders was justified by the volume of business done and the known fact that profits over that time were complained of.

LOOKING FORWARD.

The liquidation in the stock market in 1913 was apparently thorough without being panicky. Trade and industry in turn showed symptoms of an orderly retreat rather than of a precipitate flight, and since the improved feeling noted in the latter weeks of 1913 set in, less is heard of rumors of business troubles in this and other cities. The complete history of the 1902-03-04 collapse and quick revival, some of whose earlier happenings were closely paralleled in 1913, will repay perusal because holding some lessons and indeed some encouragements. It is generally conceded that while the entry of industry into the stock market in a capitalized form has made it more sensitive to unfavorable happenings, it has also made it quicker to respond later to improving influences. The best judgment seems to support the view that money, the great desideratum in finance and trade, will be both cheaper and easier to obtain in 1914 than in 1913. The passage of the currency bill is expected to be an aid in this respect, whatever may be thought of ultimate effects of the possible inflation feature of the new measure, which has supplanted a seriously defective system. Of course, any ill-considered rise like that of 1895, with its aftermath of deep depression, is to be avoided, and the possibilities of Europe endeavoring to further liquidate its burdens in American markets are to be considered in this connection, though our immense credit balance may help us in this respect. Money, however, should be plenty for legitimate trade and industry in 1914, and the absence of burdensome stocks, owing to long-continued hand-to-mouth buying, should be helpful. It will not be forgotten that many crops were short in 1913, and prices, particularly of food, were high, which may have helped agriculture as a whole, though no country ever made much money out of its own crop shortages. As to 1914 crop conditions, it may be said that said conditions are favorable and winter wheat is in excellent shape. The matter of possible railway rate advances presses for early solution. All of the advances asked for in past years would have been insufficient to save some badly-managed enterprises from the effects of their own sins, but the justice, indeed the absolute necessity, of allowing the railways to reccup themselves for high cost of operation can hardly be denied. In this matter the auguries at the outset of the year are thought favorable, and if they prove so should have an important effect in stimulating demand for a variety of articles which move through the marts of trade. Whether any great liquidation in commodity prices is possible in 1914 is doubtful, and without that the often-predicted liquidation of labor seems to partake of the nature of a dream. High costs of all operation, in fact, seems to have come to stay, but it does seem possible to make progress in the matter of reducing the world's most useless expenditure, that for armaments. Time will, perhaps, be needed to heal the bruises; they were hardly deep-seated injuries that the business world received in 1913, but past experience would seem to indicate that, lacking any serious damage to the business fabric, of which there are no really tangible signs, a comparatively quick revival from the quiet visible in many lines should ensue, governed, of course, by the money and crop developments of 1914.

WHEN WALL STREET GROWS DULL.

[Copyright, 1913, by C. M. Keys, New York.]

In a dull week in November the transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange were not equal to one good day's business in normal times. The week was the dullest in about fifteen years. On Monday of the following week a new low record in transactions was made for a period of sixteen years, or since the quiet days that followed the panic of 1893.

Such dismal dullness has many causes and many effects. The main cause of it, is, of course, public apathy to the operations of speculative markets, combined with a desire, on the part of the large professional speculators, to find out where they stand before beginning any extensive movement either upward or downward. The public apathy is undoubtedly due to world-wide conditions, including the conservation of capital for future financial needs and a general let-up in commercial business throughout the world. It is not, however, with the causes of the prevailing dullness that this article intends to deal.

One of the immediate effects of such a condition is to intensify the pessimism of men doing business in securities. When a man who has a very extensive office and a large staff of clerks sums up the week's business and finds out that his gross commissions amounted to $12 and that his gross expenses amounted to nearly $500, it puts him into frame of mind conducive to dismal thoughts and forebodings. Perhaps he has felt right along that some day business will revive and things will be all right in his business, but a week or two with results like that will make him put his mind on the question whether speculative business will ever come back, and if so, whether he will be able to survive long enough to welcome it when it comes.

On the Monday following this very dull week a class of young men met at the financial lecture of a university extension course in New York. These men were almost all employed in, or partners in, Wall-street houses. The proper subject for the lecture was far removed from the stock market; but at the beginning of the lecture one of the students came to the lecturer and stated that there was a universal desire in the class to have him discuss the question whether a broad speculative market would return to Wall street, and if so, when it would return. The lecture developed into a general talk in which it transpired that in nearly every house represented by this class this topic had been the prevailing topic of conversation for a week past, and that in a good percentage of the houses there was a sentiment, amounting almost to a conviction, that the great age of speculation is past for good, and that the public will never again carry on operations in Wall street similar to those of the last ten years.

Of course, such deduction, while natural enough under the circumstances, lacks economic foundation, for one who studies the matter knows that great outbursts of speculation take place only at times when the general commercial, industrial, transportation and financial temper of the country tends toward activity. When manufacturers are afraid to venture further money into their factories, railroad men fear to build extensions, merchants refuse to stock up with their full lines of goods, and financial leaders hesitate to commit their houses to large undertakings, the temper and spirit of the country make broad speculation impossible. Men hesitate and wait a long time before taking chances in the markets with money of any sort whatever. The investor does not sell out because he has no other use for his money. Therefore, no great liquidation goes on and the Wall street community gains no commissions even from the selling end. Everything drops into a waiting attitude and dullness comes upon the market place.

From the investor's point of view dullness may not be a very bad thing. Of course, there is always a tendency to a drift downward in prices during a period of lethargy in the market. This is true of stocks as well as of bonds; but the main difference between the two is that while bonds are dealt in generally for cash, the bulk of the stock business is margin business. Sometimes, therefore, a period of very dull general business results in the piling up of large sums of money of a conservative sort which sooner or later seek a proper return in the bond market, and old-fashioned houses dealing in standard bonds and high-grade investment securities of all sorts find a steady flow of money seeking investment in these conservative channels. That is why, as a rule, the bond market generally leads Wall street out of a period of dullness.

The buying of small lots of stock by individual investors for cash is another trade that frequently grows quite important toward the end of a period of dullness in the market. This is also true investment just as much as the buying of bonds. The unwillingness to go ahead with business money very frequently in the long run brings a big supply of this unoccupied capital into the legitimate investment markets.

For these reasons a good many conservative critics, even in these very dull times as we are preparing for constructive work in the next few months. Indeed, some of the investment dealers welcome the dullness in the stock market on the ground that a dull stock market will not draw seriously upon the resources of the people and divert investors from true investment. Such optimistic critics are of the opinion that prices of standard investment securities of good grade are as low today as they are likely to be, and that an upward tendency in the bond market and the high-grade investment stock market will be the first signs of a real recovery in Wall street business when that recovery is due.

HARBOR ITEMS.

The steamer Shoshone arrived today with lumber cargo loaded at Gray's Harbor and is discharging at the Salt Lake wharf.

The steamer Saginaw completed discharge of cargo loaded at Portland today and sailed for San Francisco for orders.

The Danish motor ship Siam arrived this morning on her maiden voyage from Antwerp. Bad weather was encountered in the straits of Magellan, but the new Diesel engines ran without a stop on the long trip. The Siam will discharge 3500 tons for Parrot & Company and load 1000 tons of fuel oil before proceeding to San Francisco and Portland.

The steamer Beaver arrived from San Francisco and Portland today and will sail on the return voyage tomorrow with passengers and freight for the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company.

The steamer Santa Clara of the North Pacific line arrived this morning from San Francisco and sailed tonight on the return voyage.

Capt. Rasmus Jepsen of the steamer Harvard, which arrived today from San Diego reports that in his long experience on this coast he never saw the San Francisco bar so smooth as on the last southbound trip Wednesday and is very proud of the way his big white boat behaved. She almost literally drifted out with the tide, only a few turns of the engine being required to keep up steerage way. The Harvard put well out to sea on account of the heavy swell running from the southwest. When off Point Sur a wave broke over the port quarter of the steamer, part of the ship and breaking two plate glass windows, but the damage was slight. The Harvard proceeded to San Francisco this afternoon.

The British steamer Robert Dollar completed discharge of a partial cargo of hardwood and coal loaded in the Orient and sailed for San Francisco with balance of cargo tonight.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—In response to favorable cables, the market here opened at around Wednesday's close, but under scattered selling, which looked to be for both long and short accounts, values gradually slipped away, and near low levels for the week were scored. Final prices were about 5 points net down for the day, and only slightly up from the bottom. Comparative steadiness of the spot month gave some encouragement, but the market was full of rumors of more ominous sales in the big department store circles, the advices from Memphis were taken as indicating a somewhat heavier ginning than last year for the year ending on the 31st ult. Statistics were bearish, showing 41,000 more into sight, and 60,000 less spinners' takings than same week last year. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 1-8 lower. The market is still waiting for a better line on the crop, which it is expected will be forecasted by next Friday's census ginning report, but the tone is heavy and some fresh stimulant will be needed to prevent a return to last week's level of under 13 cents for spring options.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Public Safety Committee of the Council last night held the police blameless for their participation in the Christmas affair at the Plaza and suggested posting signs in all languages.

The Mayor yesterday announced the names of four men who will be reappointed to commissions. The names will probably go to the Council Monday.

Charges that inferior lumber is used on city work at the harbor started an investigation of the Alta Planing Mill Company yesterday by the Board of Public Works.

The Motion Pictures Censor Commission yesterday appointed a committee to ask the Council to compel prohibition of "movies" showing crime and criminals of the Fariss bandit order.

By an opinion filed by Judge Finlayson yesterday the Chase will contest, decided in favor of the contestants, may now be brought up in a court of equity. The opinion revives an interesting story of brotherly and sisterly love.

POLICE ACTED WITHIN RIGHTS.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE ABSOLVES OFFICERS AT PLAZA.

Public Safety Board Suggests that Signs Prohibiting Street Speaking Be Posted There in All Languages to Give Warning Against Further Disorder.

Finding that the police department acted within its rights in dispelling the Christmas Day rioters at the Plaza and urging that signs in all languages be placed in the Plaza warning against street speaking, the Public Safety Committee of the Council yesterday made its report on the recent investigation. Chairman John W. Snowden of the committee filed his report with the City Clerk last night.

It is as follows:

"A hearing was made before the Chief of Police and the various officers who were detailed at this point, and hearing was also had before this committee, at which hearing various persons were heard, and the testimony taken at said hearing corroborates, to a great extent, that given by the police department.

"Lieut. Kriege, when interviewed at his home, stated that in response to a telephone message, he went to the Plaza and touched the speaker and told him that he must stop speaking in the public park as the ordinances of the city prohibited public speaking in parks. At the testimony taken before the Chief of Police, Officers Pomeroy and Roselli stated that they had notified the speakers to stop speaking, and it was upon their request that Lieut. Kriege appeared upon the scene. Lieut. Kriege stated that immediately upon notifying the speaker, he was set upon by persons unknown to him, as were also other officers who were within the crowd.

"We are of the opinion that the police department was within its rights in enforcing the provisions of the ordinance, but they might have used a little more discretion and tact in handling the situation as it then existed.

"We are of the opinion that if signs are not placed within the park prohibiting street speaking, that they should be placed therein in all languages so as to avert a similar occurrence in the future."

REAPPOINTMENTS.
MAYOR NAMES FOUR.

Upon his return to executive duties yesterday the Mayor announced that he will send to the Council shortly the names of four present city officials as reappointments to the places they now occupy. He will reappoint P. P. O'Brien on the Board of Public Works, and his announcement thus puts a quietus upon the rumor that there was a break which might result in the failure to return O'Brien to that post.

Robert S. Wirsching, who was appointed a few weeks ago as a member of the Board of Public Utilities to succeed O. O. McReynolds, will also be reappointed.

J. D. Radford will be reappointed to the Playgrounds Commission, said the Mayor, and he has also decided to send in the name of H. W. O'Melveny to succeed himself on the Park Commission.

The Mayor will try to have the communications ready for the Council Monday morning and it is likely that some of them will go in on that date.

"I think I have found a Democrat for the unfilled place on the Civil Service Commission," said the Mayor, "but as he has not yet told me that he will accept, I am not at liberty to give out his name."

INVESTIGATE MATERIAL.
LUMBER INFERIOR.

The Board of Public Works yesterday investigated the material being used by the Alta Planning Mill Company in the construction of the 400-foot transit shed for the American-Hawaiian Company on the Mormon Island wharf. P. P. O'Brien of the board went to the harbor to stop work on the shed, a big force of carpenters being on the job. It was reported that the company was using white oak of an inferior grade.

The specifications call for white oak in the building, but do not specify what kind of white oak. When O'Brien heard of the substitution he asked the police to stop the work, but it could not be done without a complaint. Later, officials of the company conferred with the Board of Public Works, and still later, asked Mayor Rose to call a conference in his office Monday afternoon. This morning the Board of Public Works will hold a conference on the subject and if the proper material is not used on the transit shed, an order from the court stopping the work may be asked for.

AFTER PICTURES.
WOULD AMEND ORDINANCE.

The Motion-Pictures Censor Commission yesterday appointed a committee of three to revise the present ordinance, under which that body is operating, making it a misdemeanor for any producer to display motion pictures of criminals, like Fariss or Bundy, such as recently were stopped by the police.

The present ordinance, holds the commission, does not give it the power to compel a rigid observance of this situation, and provides no penalty for motion picture houses that fail to obey the censorship of the commission. To prevent a recurrence of the public exhibition of criminals and crime the Council will be asked to amend the ordinance.

The committee which will co-operate with the City Attorney in drafting the new ordinance is composed of E. T. Jorgenson, A. P. Tugwell and Mrs. E. K. Foster.

NO MISAPPREHENSION.
MAYOR ON THE HETCH HETCHY.

The correspondence between Mayor Rose and Senator Works on the Hetch Hetchy bill is bound to become exciting, even yet. The Mayor sent a telegram to Senator Works asking him to support the Hetch Hetchy bill. The bill was passed. Meantime, the Senator wrote to the Mayor, and yesterday the Mayor wrote to the Senator. Mayor Rose's letter, which is self-explanatory, follows:

In reply to your favor of December 22, 1913, in regard to the Hetch Hetchy bill, wherein you say, "Evidently you sent this telegram under a misapprehension of the facts," I take pleasure in saying that I did not send the telegram under a misapprehension of the facts, but with a full knowledge of the situation. Having been a mountaineer for a good many years in California, and knowing the Hetch Hetchy, the Yosemite and all the surrounding country intimately and well, I have no sympathy with the maudlin sentiment that would prevent a great city like San Francisco from getting the prime necessities of life in order that 326 mountaineers might visit the remote recesses of the Sierra Mountains to gaze upon the beauties of nature in the Hetch Hetchy Valley.

OPEN TUNNEL BIDS.
LOWERING OF BROADWAY.

The Board of Public Works will open bids January 12 for the lowering of the Broadway tunnel. The lowering at the south end of nineteen feet and the raising at the north end of six feet will make an expenditure of about $130,000. The contract figure is expected to be about that. The damage to adjoining property, however, will add another $75,000.

The Council has denied the protests against the work, and all of the technicalities have been cleared away, to make for an early beginning of the construction work.

City Hall Notes.

Councilman Haines W. Reed returned to the Council yesterday after several weeks' absence on sick leave. Councilman McKenzie was ill, however, and a full Council was not present. President Whitten returned to the chair.

The scheduled power conference for yesterday afternoon was not held by the special Power Committee of the Council for the reason that the proposed contract with the power companies is being inspected by Electrical Engineer Scattergood and Special Aqueduct Counsel Mathews.

To pay their instalments of interest and principal on special improvement assessments, a long line of property owners appeared at the City Treasurer's office yesterday.

Martin Bekins, a member of the Board of Public Utilities, will return to the city Monday and will resume his seat on the commission after five weeks' absence in New York.

The City Attorney's construction of the new employers' liability act was called for by the Council yesterday, which adopted the Wheeler resolution, the intent of which is to ascertain the city's liability.

The Council yesterday hurried along the proposed opening of Broadway southward by passing the final ordinance for the extension of the street from Pico to Washington.

Five hundred lots in the assessment district for the opening and widening of Thirty-ninth street were sold at public auction yesterday by Deputy Pollmer of the Street Assessment Bureau, under the direction of Col. W. G. Schreiber. There are 2000 lots upon which the assessment has become delinquent. Property owners may redeem their property by paying the cost of advertising sale, the assessment, the first 5 per cent. penalty and the 10 per cent. penalty added after sale.

At the Courthouse.

AFFECTION OF BROTHER AND SISTER FIGURES IN IT.

Injunction Sought to Prevent Will Contest Is Denied, and Suit May Be Brought in Court in Equity. Conductors Who Flirt Given a Lecture.

In an exhaustive opinion, covering a unique case, Judge Finlayson yesterday denied the injunction asked for by Ernest W. Chase, Mabel K. Chase and Nellie H. Chase, residuary legatees under the will of the late Horace W. Chase, owner of the Nadeau Hotel, to enjoin Elinor A. Chase, Stevens and Paul Stewart from contesting the probate of the will made by Florence E. Chase of Massachusetts, and from offering for probate a subsequent will revoking former wills.

The court held that the second will is the only one that can be probated, and, although it was admitted to probate subject to a contract entered into between Horace W. Chase and Florence, his sister, the court held that the contract was not valid, because there was no consideration.

The story back of the case is interesting. Chase provided for his sister, Florence, during her lifetime. When she died, April 6, 1912, everything she possessed she had received from him. In May, 1910, Chase wrote Florence, in effect, that she should make a will and leave to him everything by reason of his bequests to her. If he died before she did, then her estate was to go to trustees, to be distributed in accordance with the terms of the will he had made.

Florence, a loving sister, replied to the letter, saying she would carry out the instructions, and adding, "I shall live forever, and in all that time I promise again to do just what you say I am to do."

She signed a will prepared for her by former Judge Waldo York, Chase died June 8, 1911. After his death Florence made another will, leaving the property to her sister, Elinor A. Chase Stevens, naming her as executrix. This will was offered for probate by Elinor and Paul Stewart, the latter having been assigned a small part of the interest. Meantime, York offered for probate the first will drawn by Florence, which made the estate over to her brother, and it was admitted. Elinor and Stewart then filed a contest against probating this will. The heirs of Chase brought the injunction action against Stewart and Elinor. The latter defaulted and the issue was tried on the answer filed by Stewart.

The court decided the case on two points; first, that there was no consideration for Florence to make the will she did, and, second, even if there was a valid contract, it was not binding on the court and could not prevent the probate of the second will for the reason that a will is always revocable. If there was such a contract, the only remedy for the plaintiffs is to ask the court, as a court in equity, to decree that the beneficiaries under the second will hold the property in trust for the beneficiaries under the first will.

FLIRTING CONDUCTORS.
JUDGE CRITICIZES THEM.

Street car conductors who flirt while on duty with school and shop girls were condemned by Judge Monroe yesterday in the divorce suit of Minnie B. Pittinger against Ray B. Pittinger. It was the old story of a young and pretty girl becoming infatuated with a good-looking, plausible young man in uniform, and the always-sad end.

Minnie told the court she had known Pittinger about eight months. Their acquaintance began on the Washington-street car line, and when marriage was suggested she agreed without asking the consent of her parents. In fact, her mother testified that she knew nothing of the love-making or marriage until Minnie and her husband came to live with her.

Minnie was under 18 and Pittinger was 21 when he obtained the license. They quarreled, and the romance came to an end when she objected to him carrying a revolver. When he could not find it in a trunk, where she told him she had put it, he said he would leave her, and he did. That was in June, 1912. She has seen him once or twice since then.

"Usually young persons who marry under these circumstances," commented Judge Monroe, "fetch up in the divorce court. It begins with conductors talking with young girls on the cars. There is too much of this going on."

Turning to Mrs. Pittinger, he said: "I hope this will be a lesson to you and that you won't do it again." She nodded vigorously.

MADE ADMINISTRATOR.
RIVAL CLAIMANTS DISAGREE.

J. McD. Mellen was appointed special administrator of the $30,000 estate of Shaopin Caspar by Judge Houser yesterday. Mellen's appointment grew out of the inability of the rival claimants to agree. Sahman Babik, a first cousin of Caspar, who succeeded in breaking the latter's will, opposed the appointment of Mrs. Emily Ainley, the sole beneficiary. When it seemed that neither would be successful, the attorneys stipulated that the court name a special administrator.

The judgment of the jury which tried the will contest is now on appeal. The jury found that Mrs. Ainley had exerted influence upon Caspar, who had lived with the Ainleys. He had accumulated a fortune in the East as an art photographer, and when the Ainleys moved to this city he followed. His will cut off Sahman Babik, a former court interpreter.

QUEER MARRIAGE.
PARENTS ALWAYS PRESENT!

"It is one of the most barbarous things I ever heard of," Judge Monroe declared yesterday, after hearing the evidence in the divorce suit of Edith Vanderveer, 17 years old, against Earl Vanderveer. "These young persons," he continued, "were married in the Juvenile Court, and Mrs. Beatrice Richmond, mother of the youthful husband, insisted on an agreement by the terms of which they were not to see one another except in the presence of the parents.

"This was an agreement she had no business to enforce; it's all wrong. She now has the face to come into this court and say the young woman whom her son married is not fit for him, after he had done her an injury. I don't suppose the fault of that is all on one side." The decree was denied.

The court told Vanderveer he proposed to compel him to wait until he is of age "and see if you are a man; so far you have not acted as such."

At the end of that time, if he has not proved a man, he suggested that Mrs. Vanderveer could bring suit for failure to provide. The evidence, he said, did not show desertion, because Vanderveer denied he refused to live with his wife, as she testified.

TO ANSWER CHARGE.
DAUGHTER-IN-LAW ACCUSED.

Nathan and Esther Kantrowitz, parents of Abraham Kantrowitz, who is under $10,000 bail for a serious offense against his young wife, were held in $1000 bonds each by Judge Taft yesterday for contributing to the delinquency of their daughter-in-law.

The case was heard behind closed doors, but it is understood the two are charged with conniving to disgrace the daughter-in-law, who was formerly employed at their millinery store. The latter alleges that money was not only furnished for the purpose of getting her intoxicated at the Vernon Country Club, but that her husband aided a friend to assault her and that her diamonds were taken by Kantrowitz and turned over to his father.

GOES ABROAD ALONE.
SO WIFE GETS A DIVORCE.

When Ernest B. Allen, an English pawnbroker of this city, told his wife, Edith, that he was going to see the old country, she was delighted. Her joy, however, was short-lived, as he calmly informed her he was going alone. He went.

Mrs. Allen sued for divorce, alleging that Allen, who had an establishment on Main street, had never been home in the evenings, his business, no doubt, keeping him engaged. They were married November 5, 1902, when she was 18 years old, and she said he deserted her December 2, 1911. The decree was granted by Judge Works.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SISTERS IN COURT. Mrs. Augusta Busk and her sister, Ida Chambers, are antagonists in the Probate Court. Mrs. Busk petitioned for the probate of the will of her father, Henry Billings, who left an estate of $10,000, the income from which was given to her. Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Margaret Garland, daughters of Billings, were apparently cut out of the will. Mrs. Chambers alleged at the hearing yesterday that the will was not executed and attested by Billings as his last will and testament. Judge Rives took the matter under submission.

FOREIGN WILL FILED. The foreign will of Albert C. Getten, probated in New York, was filed for probate here yesterday, covering property appraised at $15,000. Getten died April 1, 1913. He owned lots in the Country Club Park tract worth $9000; two lots at Torrance worth $2000, and a half interest in eighty acres in Tulare county, valued at $4000. Under his will, dated January 18, 1910, Getten leaves his estate in equal shares to his sons, Fred J., Edward W., Ira C., Ernest A., and Francis W. The petition for the probate of the will was filed by Willis O. Lewis.

TO BE SENTENCED. C. P. Warden, convicted of obtaining property under false pretenses, will be sentenced in Judge Willis's court next Wednesday.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy involving the affairs of the Simons Style Shop at No. 715 South Broadway was filed in the United States District Court yesterday, and, on the order of Judge Wellborn, W. H. Moore, Jr., was named as receiver of the concern. The petitioning creditors were Sloss & Friedman, Hacker & Gutterman, and M. Saks & Co., the aggregate of debts being less than $600.

FILES REPORT OF EXPENSES.

The quarterly report of United States Marshal Leo V. Youngworth, filed yesterday, shows expenditures amounting in the aggregate to $43,442.02 divided as follows: Traveling expenses of deputies, $2681.19; jurors' fees, $6638; witnesses' fees, $19,044.50; maintenance of Federal prisoners at the County Jail, $2042.88; bailiff expenses, etc., $1727.35; miscellaneous, reporters, fees, etc., $10,340.79; telegraph and telephone bills of the District Attorney, $747.31; rent of room in International Bank building for special agent of the field division of the land office, $220.

FOR BREAKING SEAL ON CAR.

Thomas Brown, a negro, indicted by the Federal grand jury Tuesday, for breaking the seals on a Southern Pacific Railroad freight car with intent to commit larceny, was taken into custody yesterday and lodged in the County Jail. The freight car was consigned from Perkins, Okla., to San Gabriel, this State. This is the first indictment returned in the local court under the provisions of the law enacted by Congress last February, making it a felony punishable with imprisonment for breaking the seal of a freight car engaged in interstate commerce.

EXTRA FOREST CLERK.

On account of the increase of business in the office of R. H. Charlton, supervisor of the Angeles National Forest, an extra clerk, C. B. Lackey, has been placed on duty. Lackey comes from the Shasta district.

Reports of Suffering and Loss of Life Begin to Reach Pittsburgh, Pa.

Disturbance in Ohio Valley Increases in Intensity. Flood Fears.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Jan. 3.—The storm which broke over Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania last night increased in intensity as the day wore on, moving down into West Virginia and causing great damage to telegraph and telephone wires. Many communities were cut off because of the heavy snow, while others could be reached only by one shaky wire. Snow fell steadily during the morning and the local weather bureau sent out a special warning to all railroad and river interests to prepare for a continuation of existing conditions until tomorrow.

Fear of flood, prevalent all day along the upper Ohio and the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers, was dispelled by the prediction of lower temperatures, but craft in the local harbor were made snug in anticipation of eventualities.

Stories of suffering and loss of life began today to reach Pittsburgh. Railroads operated under difficulties, the wire trouble making the movement of trains uncertain. East of Pittsburgh it was snowing heavily in the mountains, but trains were mov-
